The members were called to order by James R. Rose, Esq., Clerk of the last House of Assembly.

The Hon. Samuel Young, Secretary of State of the State of New-York, who was in attendance in the Assembly chamber, administered to the members present the oath of office prescribed by the sixth article of the Constitution of this State.

The members then proceeded to choose by ballot a Speaker, Mr. T. R. Lee and Mr. Coe acting as tellers; and the ballots having been taken and counted, it appeared that Horatio Seymour had received sixty-four votes, that John Young had received forty-four votes, that David E. Wheeler had received sixteen votes, that H. J. Seymour had received one vote, and that there was one blank vote.

Mr. Seymour having received a majority of the whole number of votes cast, was declared to be duly elected; and on being conducted to the chair by Mr. Crain and Mr. Worden, he delivered the following address, to wit:

GENTLEMEN,

I return you my sincere thanks for the honor you have conferred upon me in electing me Speaker of the Assembly. I shall endeavor on my part faithfully and impartially to perform the duties of the station you have assigned me.

The duties of the Chair are sometimes delicate and embarrassing. Many of the subjects upon which you will be called to legislate are not only of great importance to the interests of the community, but they are frequently connected with the political discussions of the day. Having recently passed through an exciting election, these subjects will naturally give rise to animated debates. The decisions of the Chair respecting the somewhat intricate rules of parliamentary law, may at times appear erroneous to those engaged in such discussions. But actuated by a sincere desire to perform my duties impartially and correctly, I shall rely with confidence upon the appreciation on the part of members, of the motives which govern me, although they may dissent from my conclusions.

The rules which you will adopt for the regulation of your proceedings, will, without doubt, conform substantially to those which have heretofore existed in this body. They are the results of experience, and are well adapted to facilitate business, while at the same time they furnish sufficient guards against hasty and immature legislation. Having witnessed the evils which result from a departure from these rules, and knowing that there will naturally be a desire on the part of members to hasten the passage of those bills in which they may feel a particular interest, by dispensing with some of these requirements, permit me to recommend to the House the propriety of adhering to them in all cases. By doing so, the public interests will be best subserved, and the rights of each member more securely guarded. As these rules will be of your own adoption, I shall feel myself bound to enforce them with strictness and impartiality, and shall at all times rely with confidence upon the co-operation and assistance of the House in the performance of the duties of the Chair.

Mr. Constant offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That James R. Rose be, and he is hereby appointed Clerk of this House.

Mr. Coe moved to amend the said resolution, by striking out the name of James R. Rose, and inserting that of George W. Weed.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said amendment, and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. Morrison moved to amend the said resolution, by striking out the name of James R. Rose, and inserting that of Edward Prince.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said amendment, and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution offered by Mr. Constant, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Whereupon Mr. Rose took and subscribed the constitutional oath of office, and entered upon the discharge of his official duties.

On motion of Mr. Hardin,

Resolved, That David B. Groat, of the county of Otsego, be, and he is hereby appointed Sergeant-at-arms to this House.

On motion of Mr. M'Donald,

Resolved, That Elbridge B. Fenn be, and he is hereby appointed Doorkeeper of this House.

On motion of Mr. Fonda,

Resolved, That Israel B. Neahr be, and he is hereby appointed Assistant Doorkeeper of this House.

On motion of Mr. Van Valkenburgh,

Resolved, That Isaac C. Sheldon be, and he is hereby appointed Second Assistant Doorkeeper of this House.

On motion of Mr. M'Key,

Resolved, That the several clergymen residing in this city, and having charge of congregations, be invited to attend and officiate during the session as chaplains, so far as to open the daily sittings with prayer, in such order as may be most convenient for themselves ; and that the Clerk of this House be instructed to carry this resolution into effect.

On motion of Mr. Crain,

Resolved, That a committee of two be appointed by the Chair to wait upon the Governor, and inform him that this House is organized, and ready to proceed to business.

Ordered, That Mr. Crain and Mr. Whitney be such committee.

On motion of Mr. Sweeney,

Resolved, That a committee of two be appointed by the Chair to wait upon the Honorable the Senate, and inform that body that this House is organized, and ready to proceed to business.

Ordered, That Mr. Sweeney and Mr. T. R. Lee be such committee.

Mr. Niven offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the rules and orders of the last Assembly be adopted as the rules and orders of this House, until otherwise ordered ; and that the subject be referred to a committee of five members, to be appointed by the Speaker, to prepare and report rules for the further government of this House.

Mr. T. R. Lee moved to amend the said resolution, by striking out all after the word "ordered."

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the amendment, and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That Mr. Niven, Mr. T. R. Lee, Mr. Van Valkenburgh, Mr. Boughton and Mr. Sweeney, be such committee.

On motion of Mr. Comstock,

Resolved, That the Clerk furnish each of the members of this House with such newspapers as they may respectively direct, not exceeding the cost of two daily papers ; and that the expense thereof, including postage, be paid out of the contingent fund of the house.

A message from the Senate, delivered by Mr. Sherman and Mr. Folsom, was received, informing that they were appointed a committee to announce to this House that the Senate had met, and were ready to proceed to business.

Mr. Crain, from the committee appointed to wait upon the Governor, and inform him that this House was organized and ready to proceed to business, reported that the committee had discharged that duty, and that his Excellency was pleased to say that he would communicate with this House by message.

Mr. Sweeney, from the committee appointed to wait upon the Senate, and inform them that this House was organized and ready to proceed to business, reported that the committee had discharged that duty.

On motion of Mr. L. H. Brown,

Resolved, That until the further order of this House, it will assemble every morning (except on Sundays) at eleven o'clock.

A message from the Governor, delivered by his Private Secretary, was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

TO THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY.

FELLOW-CITIZENS :

The Constitution makes it my duty to communicate to you the condition of the State, and to recommend such matters for your consideration as I shall judge expedient.

The great and diversified interests of the State demanding legislative supervision, protection and aid, impose a vast responsibility upon the Legislature ; while, to present the condition so fully to you as to facilitate your labors, accompanied with recommendations calculated to lead you to wise and just conclusions, is a task not less responsible. It is one upon which I enter with diffidence, and yet I make the attempt cheerfully, feeling that the duty has been assigned to me by a constituency always indulgent to honest effort and upright intention, and which never demands from a public servant more than, thus aided and directed, he is able to perform.

The great and leading subjects of legislation are so intimately connected with the state of our finances, as to render it proper to examine first the financial condition of the State.

Our revenues are large, and should be ample for a State having only the expenses of its internal government to meet. If they prove unequal to our necessities, the inference will be almost unavoidable that errors now exist, or have existed, in our financial policy and legislation.

A general view of the current annual revenues of the State, taken together, according to the receipts of the fiscal year, ending on the 30th day of September last, is as follows :

The total amount of receipts on account of the General Fund, including the whole of the State tax, of one mill on the dollar, and deducting the sum received for temporary loans, was $1,073,249 01

Various other funds which produce revenue, in the form of interest upon moneys invested, will be found mentioned in the fiscal reports, such as the Bank Safety Fund, various special sinking funds, the Mariners' Fund, and the like, all of which are, in their character, trusts in the hands of the State for specified objects, in no way connected with the revenues and expenditures of the State government.

The revenues before enumerated are those which enter into the annual expenditure of the State, and constitute the means for those expenditures, and they are the whole of such means annual in their nature, as ascertained by the actual receipts of the last fiscal year. Some portions of these revenues, with the funds from which they are derived, are pledged by the Constitution to particular objects, and are beyond the power of the Legislature for any other application. Such is the entire capital of the Common School Fund proper, and its revenues. The capital is made "a perpetual fund, the interest of which shall be inviolably appropriated and applied to the support of common schools throughout this State." So the tolls collected upon the Erie and Champlain canals, with the fund properly denominated the Canal Fund, are constitutionally pledged for the payment of the interest and the redemption of the principal of the debt contracted for the construction of those canals. Other of these revenues are by permanent laws, appropriated to specific objects. Such is the Literature Fund, the revenues of which are expended in aid of the incorporated academies of the State. The revenues of the United States Deposit Fund also, are by a permanent law, appropriated to objects of education or specified charities; and whatever changes may be thought expedient or just, in the distribution of the fund to the specified objects, it is not supposed that a diversion of these revenues to any other general class of objects of expenditure, will be contemplated.

This presentation of all the revenues of the State collectively, with a brief explanation as to the portions specifically set apart by the Constitution or the laws, for exclusive application to particular objects, it is hoped may enable those not minutely acquainted with our financial arrangements the better to understand, upon a separation of the various parts, how far means are in fact within the disposition of the Legislature for general and miscellaneous objects of expenditure. The entire amount of revenue from the five funds as before present-

This balance comprises the revenues of the General Fund and of the Canal Fund, embracing all the revenues from all the canals, as well as from the Canal Fund proper. The part of this sum comprising the revenues of the General Fund, as will be seen, is .....

| This, however, embraces the whole of the State tax, while by the first section of the "Act to provide for paying the debt and preserving the credit of the State," passed 29th March, 1842, one-half of it, after the year 1842, is to be paid to the Commissioners of the Canal Fund for the use of the canals; and there was so paid, in pursuance of this provision, during the last fiscal year, the sum of ..... | 278,197 56     |

Thus showing that the receipts into the Treasury on account of the General Fund, from all sources, are less by $208,701.98, than the sums charged upon the same fund and paid from the Treasury for the last fiscal year.

This is a comparison of the whole amount of the annual revenues of the General Fund, including all receipts of a miscellaneous character, with the annual permanent charges upon it, and also all payments authorized by special acts of the Legislature, as well as temporary and miscellaneous expenses.

There was an apparent balance in the Treasury at the close of the fiscal year, of $99,737.26, which, so far as it is available, would diminish the deficit before stated in the receipts of the General Fund. This balance, however, included the sum of $84,358.15, paid to this State out of the proceeds of the sales of the public lands of the United States, under a law of Congress, and placed in the Treasury by the Governor, to whom the payment was made; but which has never been brought into the accounts of the General Fund, or any other of the funds of the State, because the Legislature has directed no disposition and authorized no application of the money. It has remained in bank by a special contract with the Treasurer, at a stipulated interest. If this sum be deducted from the above balance in the Treasury, there will remain only $15,379.11, as the real available balance applicable to demands against the General Fund. If this sum be deducted from $208,701.98, the deficit in the revenues of the General Fund as before stated, it still leaves a deficit of $193,322.87.

By the fifth section of the "Act to regulate the accounts between certain funds belonging to this State," passed 25th May, 1841, the Commissioners of the Canal Fund are directed to pay to the Treasury, on or before the 30th day of September in every year, from the canal revenues, the sum of $200,000. Only one half of this sum has been paid for the use of the General Fund for the last year, the other half having been withheld to make up losses in the fund pledged for the payment of the Erie and Champlain canal debt, occasioned by the insolvency of certain banks which had loans from the Canal Fund. Hereafter the whole sum of $200,000 will be annually paid from the surplus revenues of the Canal Fund, for the use of the General Fund. But, with the whole of this appropriation, one half of the State tax, and all its revenues, permanent and miscellaneous, the General Fund, as is shown by the foregoing statement, is wholly inadequate to meet the annual demands upon it.

A further and most important consideration connected with this fund, is the heavy debt charged upon it. This debt is $5,634,507.68. This is the amount of the positive, unconditional debt charged upon the fund, the annual interest upon which is $310,499.69, and comprises one of the heaviest items of permanent charge upon its revenues. The debt has been increased by the sum of $211,092.35, within the last fiscal year; thus showing that the revenues of the fund, with but half of the mill tax, so far from presenting a surplus beyond the annual expenses chargeable upon the fund, are, in fact, deficient, and that the debt continues to augment. More than three-fifths of this debt was contracted by loans of the credit of the State to railroad incorporations, which have wholly failed, and thrown the amount upon the General Fund. Without the debt, the present revenues of the fund would be ample to meet the charges upon it, and would authorize the Legislature moderately to increase those charges, when the public interest should be found to require it; but with it, and its constantly accruing interest, the charges upon the fund must be diminished, or its revenues increased, to prevent a constant annual augmentation of the debt.

True economy, as well as sound policy, require the arrest of this process. A portion of the revenues of this fund, more than equal to all the aid it derives from the mill-tax, is now annually consumed in the payment of interest alone, upon this increasing debt. Such an expenditure, while it makes taxation perpetual, works no public benefit. The money passes from the pockets of the citizens, through the hands of the tax-collector, to the pocket of the public creditor, with the loss to the former of the expenses of collection, only that the process may be repeated with the same loss, as regularly as time shall bring around the seasons; and still the demand is undiminished, the weight of the load unmitigated. To reverse this action is the only remedy for the evil. The revenues should be brought to meet the annual expenditures, and leave a balance to wear upon the debt, and then each payment of the tax will bring with it hope and encouragement. The third subdivision of section 2, of the act imposing this tax, looks to its discontinuance, after the present year, through an ability in the revenues of the fund to meet and extinguish the debt, without its further aid; but that expectation cannot be realized, while the debt is increasing against the power of these revenues, the tax included.

There is also a contingent debt hanging over this fund, amounting to $1,920,000. This is for loans of the credit of the State to canal and railroad incorporations, which have hitherto fulfilled their obligations, by making the payments of interest. It is hoped they will be prepared for the reimbursement of the principal at the day. This contingent liability presents another reason for strengthening the condition of the General Fund, and taking prompt measures for the gradual extinguishment of its present increasing debt.

Included in these expenses are the $100,000 paid to the Treasurer for the use of the General Fund, and $100,000 paid on account of losses of the fund pledged for the payment of the canal debt, and $1,031,123.16, for interest upon that debt, making together the sum of $1,231,123.16, and leaving $546,664.86, as the expenses of the canals, included in the sums refunded on tolls, and for rents of surplus water from the Oswego canal. The above charge for interest does not include the interest upon the balance unpaid of the old Erie and Champlain canal debt, that being met by the interest upon the funds set apart and invested for the payment thereof.

By the twelfth section of the act of 1842, "the surplus canal revenue, after paying all just canal current expenses, and the interest on the canal debt, and the payment aforesaid to the General Fund, shall, to an amount at least equal to one-third of the interest of the canal debt remaining unpaid, be sacredly devoted and applied as a sinking fund to the redemption of the canal debt now existing and authorized by this act, and shall not be diverted from that object to any other purpose whatsoever."

Such is the language of this law, and such the express pledge it contains, touching the surplus of the canal revenues of the last fiscal year. If the amount of annual interest on the canal debt, as it existed at the close of the fiscal year, $1,126,397.90, be the correct amount from which to measure the extent of the pledge, and if it be construed with technical strictness to extend no farther than the one-third of that interest, then the portion of this surplus to pass to the Sinking Fund is $375,465.96, leaving a surplus for the last fiscal year, beyond the amount pledged to the Sinking Fund, of $197,179.39.

The Canal Fund, however, as well as the General Fund, are burdened with a heavy debt, and it remains to be seen, whether the obligations of this debt, must not as effectually control the discretion of the Legislature, in the application of this surplus money, as any pledge which the law of 1842 could have imposed upon it. The interest of this debt, it is true, is carefully provided for by that law. This, without any provision for the extinction of the principal may be satisfactory to some, but such is not my view of the rule which binds the faith and honor of the State. I know of no obligation to meet the accruing interest, which does not demand, with equal force, the payment of the principal as it falls due; and so far as the means are possessed, the failure to apply them, in the one case, appears to me to be as much a breach of the faith pledged by the contract, as in the other. Suppose the creditor consent to the postponement of the payment of his principal money. Between individuals acting for themselves as principals, such consent would authorise the diversion of the funds; but if the agent of the debtor were dealing with the creditor in person, would such consent justify the agent, without the sanction of his principal, in the diversion of the funds placed in his hands to pay the debt? And is not this our case? Are we not the mere agents of the people in this matter? They have permitted debts to be contracted upon their credit, and at their risk, to construct the present State canals. The moneys in our hands are the proceeds of the investments thus made, and came from the very source upon which they relied to pay these debts, and save them from oppressive taxation. Have we the right, as faithful agents, without the consent of our principals, even though their creditors should consent, to divert their funds to other objects, and continue the debt upon them? I strongly incline to the opinion that we have not.

By a statement of the canal debt, furnished by the Canal Department, it appears that the whole amount unpaid on the 30th day of September last was $20,713,905.58. This includes the old Erie and Champlain Canal debt of $1,380,250.35, for the payment of which, funds have been already set apart, believed to be more than sufficient to cancel it. The portion of the funds so set apart, considered available, amounts to $1,496,306.45, being $116,056.10 beyond the principal of the debt to be paid, and probably more than sufficient to meet the principal and interest. I am informed by the Commissioners of the Canal Fund, that the holders of this old stock have been personally notified that the money is ready for the redemption of the principal, and that payment will be made on the day it falls due. It is the intention of the Commissioners to place the funds in the bank, where the stock is transferable, and where the interest is paid, before the day of payment, which is the first day of July next, and the notice given to the holders informs them that interest will cease on that day.

This is the last of the Canal debt, upon which the constitutional pledge rests, and it may become material, in the course of your legislation, to consider whether, when these steps shall have been taken, that pledge may not be considered, both in principle and in fact, fully redeemed.

The statement of the canal debt, before referred to, shows that the whole amount of canal stocks redeemable in July and January next, is $3,742,626.01. This includes the sum of $1,380,090.35 of the old debt, the redemption of which is provided for in the manner above specified, leaving $2,362,535.66 reimbursable in January 1846, for the payment of which the moneys are not yet fully provided.

The Sinking Fund provided for by the twelfth section of the law of 1842, has received the contributions required to be made to it, so far as the Canal revenues have furnished the means, although it is believed that the surplus for the years 1842 and 1843 did not equal the one third of the accruing interest upon the debt.

Carrying the whole surplus of the last year to that fund, with the whole $278,197.56 paid from the Treasury as the proceeds of the State tax, and the fund, including the accumulations of interest computed at five per cent, amounts to $1,195,102.01, an aggregate sum more than equal to one-third of the interest on the debt for the last three years, and is supposed to be available to meet the payment of that amount of the stocks before alluded to. This will leave $1,167,433.65 unprovided for, any farther than there may be a surplus of the funds set apart to redeem the old debt, which can be applied to this object, and the accruing canal revenues of the current year may yield a surplus also thus applicable.

The third subdivision of the eleventh section of the act of 1842 provides that the contributions from the State tax to the Canal Fund shall cease, whenever the annual revenue from the State canals, ascertained in the manner pointed out by that act, shall exceed the expenditures upon the canals, the interest upon the canal debt, and the payment to be made to the General Fund, by more than one-third in amount of the annual interest upon the canal debt. The revenues of the last fiscal year have produced that excess, as has been before seen, and have surpassed it; and consequently the collection of the entire mill tax, for the current year, must enure to the benefit of the General Fund, and, after the current year, the collection of that half of the tax, imposed for the use of the canals, is to cease. Nothing further, therefore, is to be realized from this source, to aid in the redemption of the canal stocks.

If this be a correct representation of the means and liabilities of the Canal Fund for the current year, there would seem to be an end to discussion as to the appropriation of these means to any other object than to the payment of the debt unless the payment is to be postponed. I have already expressed my views in relation to such a diversion; and I am constrained to believe that, whether considered as a question of principle, or one of economy the policy would be equally unsound.

Our canal revenues are very large, and nothing but the enormous debt charged upon them, keeps the fund so poor as to require the aid of direct taxation to meet its liabilities. Separate from the old debt, more than one million annually of these revenues are consumed in the payment of interest alone. This must be a constant drain upon the fund, and nothing but the payment of the debt can arrest the corroding malady. Postponement can promise no relief, and may bring accumulated dangers.

A departure from the sound rule of using our means rather than our credit, has brought this debt upon our favorite and favored fund. The only necessarily dangerous stage in our canal policy was passed, when the Erie and Champlain canals were completed and became productive; and a sound and wise financial policy, faithful administration, and most fortunately located canals, carried us through that stage with safety. Up to that period, borrowing was necessarily the principal resource, and some of the richest revenues of the State were set apart to meet the payments of interest, while the Constitution of the State was made to pledge the investments, together with these revenues, for the return of the principal. And even under all these safeguards, loans were made with moderation, and the works were prosecuted in a measured pace. After they were completed, payment of the debt became the object of solicitude, and means were accumulated and the stocks purchased and cancelled, in advance of their falling due, when they could be obtained on reasonable terms.

In the mean time, other canals were constructed, but the expenditures were kept within the limits of the canal revenues, without losing sight of ample provision for the payment of the existing debts. As an evidence of this, before the policy was changed, the payment made and the moneys accumulated applicable to those payments, had left less than five millions of the canal debt unprovided for. The surplus revenues of the canals were accomplishing much annually towards the construction of new canals, and the enlargement and improvement of the old, and still yielding their annual contributions to a Sinking Fund, intended to remove the small remaining debt, as the principal should fall due.

In this state of things a change of policy came over us, which was based upon a new financial rule of action. The existing revenues were looked upon merely as a fund to meet the interest upon further loans ; it being assumed as safe to depend upon anticipated improvements of those revenues for the payment of the principal of the debts. Indeed it is believed the principle was carried even farther, and that anticipated revenues were depended upon, to meet accumulations of interest, beyond the power of the existing revenues, as well as to cover the payments of principal.

The reflection does not seem to have occurred to the authors of this new financial policy, that any disappointment in their anticipations of improved revenues must give their system a shock it could not survive, by imposing a tax upon the people, or disappointment and loss upon the public creditors, either of which alternatives could not fail to arrest the further accumulation of debt upon such a basis. It would seem also to have been overlooked, that the money lender could draw as accurate a distinction as themselves between their means and their anticipations, and that when the means should have been exhausted, the anticipations might not command the required capital even to test their soundness, or their fallacy.

In any event, loans were obtained in unexampled amounts, until the limit of the existing revenues was reached, when the public credit wholly failed them. Works of internal improvement were prosecuted upon a scale so extensive as to bring the State into competition with itself, and the wages of labor and the cost of subsistence upon one contract were enhanced by the demand for labor and subsistence upon another. An arrest of the means by a failure of the credit of the State put an end to this strife and to the new public works together, and when a return to the old and safe policy was attempted, it was found that a large proportion of the moneys, which had been accumulated to meet the old canal debt, were rendered unavailable by having been loaned to banks which could not pay ; that the accruing surplus of the canal revenues, beyond the current annual expenses, was covered by claims for interest ; that the general fund must sink under the accumulated and accumulating demands upon it for interest upon public stocks loaned to railroad companies which had failed, or were in a failing condition ; that temporary loans had been made to the amount of more than a million and a half which were impending over the Treasury, without the means of payment, and that contractors and laborers upon the public works were without pay, or with the unmarketable stocks of the State in the place of the money to which their contracts entitled them.

The issue was therefore present and unavoidable. The people must be taxed, or the public creditors must suffer loss, and the public stocks be dishonored. A resort to the credit of the State was made unavoidable, to meet these urgent and instant demands, the accruing interest upon the enlarged debt, and to put the canals in repair for the approaching season of navigation. Public distrust had taken the place of public confidence, and a substitution of the paying for the borrowing policy was made indispensable, before a resort to credit could command a response in capital.

This was done by the act of 1842. The effect of this measure was almost electric, and was felt not merely throughout the State, but throughout the Union. Under its solemn assurances money was obtained upon loan to relieve the pressing necessities of the public Treasury, and to preserve the public faith and honor, by a prompt payment, at the specie value, of the instalments of interest upon the public securities. From this time the credit of the State rose rapidly, and soon attained the par of money; and by the scrupulous adherence to the policy and the pledges of that law, which has characterized our subsequent legislation, it has now reached its accustomed honorable elevation.

We must not blind ourselves to the fact, however, that the recent disasters in the affairs of public and private credits, and especially connected with the credits of several states of the Union, have caused a distrust, a watchfulness, a sensitiveness, in reference to State credits, which will not permit of hazardous experiments. Our practice has been to pay at the day, both principal and interest, and such is the theory of finance upon which we have restored the credit of the State. If that theory shall be abandoned in practice, and the appropriate funds to pay the principal of the existing canal debt, as it falls due, shall be diverted to other objects of expenditure, and those payments be indefinitely postponed, can we hope that the credit of the State will remain unshaken? Have we any right to expect that the effect will be other than that so recently witnessed, when the attempt was made to substitute anticipated revenues for real means and a disposition to apply them, to maintain the public faith?

I am well aware that objects of expenditure, of great and extended public interest, will be pressed upon your attention, and will press themselves upon the minds and feeling of those whose immediate constituencies have a more direct interest in their resumption and completion. The Erie canal enlargement, the Genesee Valley canal, and the Black River canal are prominent among these objects, and deeply enlist the feelings and interests of large and worthy portions of our fellow-citizens. It would certainly be a more grateful task to recommend a compliance with these earnest wishes, than to feel impelled by a sense of public duty, to point out the necessity of their present disappointment. Yet we must not forget, when acting upon these great questions, that the interests of the citizens of the whole State are committed to our charge, and that a measure which would be wrong towards them, as a mass, cannot be right, because portions of the mass would be benefitted by it. And it would certainly be wrong to our citizens, as a whole, again to depress, or even to hazard, the credit of the State, by a diversion of any portion of the canal revenues required to pay the existing debt, and preserve the public faith. It would be wrong to them to disregard the letter, or spirit of the pledges of the law of 1842, and thus incur the risk of a necessity for increased, or longer continued, taxation.

Would such a policy be wise even in regard to these improvements, and the citizens more immediately interested in them? The surplus, which, as yet, can be so diverted, without an express infraction of the provisions of the law of 1842, is entirely too inconsiderable to make any useful progress with the works, and especially so, if it must be divided among them. And it is not likely that those interested in either will consent that the money shall be diverted from the debt and also from their favorite improvement. In the mean time, the accumulations of interest upon the present large debt are exhausting the revenues which should be applied to the construction of further improvements, and nothing but a payment of the debt can discharge them from this profitless consumption. Will it not be more wise, to hasten the payment of this debt, and thus discharge these revenues from their incumbrances, and place at the disposal of the Legislature some ten or twelve hundred thousand dollars per annum, without a resort to credit, without a loss of interest, and without the danger of increased taxation? The recent experiment of hastening our public works has certainly shown us that such efforts may be unsuccessful, even in relation to enterprises undertaken by States as powerful as ours, and with a credit as strong and means as ample as those we possessed at the time our former prudent policy was abandoned.

Your immediate predecessors originated, according to the forms and requirements of the Constitution, various amendments to that instrument, which were duly published previous to the late election. These propositions will necessarily call for your further action in the constitutional form. Two of them bear particular relation to our financial affairs, and are therefore appropriate subjects for consideration in connection with the present discussion.

The first of these amendments proposes to give a constitutional sanction to the pledges and guaranties of the act of 1842. The second limits and restrains the power of the Legislature, by requiring that laws authorizing loans of money upon the credit of the State, except within the narrow limit of one million of dollars in the aggregate, or for the specified objects of repelling invasion, or suppressing insurrection, shall be submitted to the people and receive their express sanction, to give them the force of law. This amendment further provides that every such law shall propose a loan for a single object, or work, only, to be distinctly specified therein; shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay the interest upon the loan proposed, as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal sum borrowed within the period of eighteen years from the time the debt is contracted; shall be irrevocable until the debt, interest and principal shall have been fully paid and discharged; and that the moneys loaned under it shall be applied to the object or work named in the law, and to no other purpose whatever. It further provides that when a debt shall be contracted to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, the moneys borrowed shall be applied to those objects, or to the repayment of the debt so contracted, and to no other purpose whatever.

The recent free use of the public credit, in over-hastening loans for State works, and in lending to irresponsible corporations, the embarrassed condition of our finances, and the consequent call for direct taxation to restore public confidence, have doubtless given rise to these proposed amendments, as they did give rise to the law of 1842, which the first amendment proposes to surround by a constitutional sanction.

The manner in which that legislation was received by the people, although imposing a direct tax upon all their taxable property, as its first provision, the salutary influences it so promptly exerted upon public and private credit, and the triumphant manner in which its provisions and policy have been sustained by the people, whenever the wisdom and soundness of either have been brought in issue, at any subsequent election, presents a more forcible argument in favor of the first of these amendments, than any it would be in my power to offer.

The second is manifestly intended, as it appears to me to be wisely framed, to secure the people against a like hazard and loss for the future, and their credit from further over-use and constant depression. The provision requiring each law to provide for a loan for a single object only, is necessary to enable the freemen at the polls to form a distinct and satisfactory opinion upon the propriety of the contemplated expenditure, and to express that opinion in an intelligible and unequivocal manner. It strikes also effectually at one of the most universal causes of complaint and dissatisfaction growing out of the recent appropriations for our works of internal improvement. I refer to the charge, whether well or ill founded, that combinations of local interests are formed, on the part of the friends of different works having no natural or necessary connection with each other, and that, in this way, loans are authorized and appropriations secured, which the intrinsic merits and strength of no single work in the combination could command.

This amendment cannot fail to have a strong tendency also to mitigate, or entirely remove, another practical evil too often experienced in connection with this legislation. The legislature is always composed of members of the two great political parties which are ever striving for the mastery. The majority in the Legislature is very naturally, and to a great extent, very justly held responsible for the action and measures of the body. The minority will not be over solicitous to diminish this responsibility, resting, as it does, upon their political opponents, and may, at some times, at least as far as a sense of public duty will permit, be willing to increase it. To such a minority these applications for local improvements and expenditures present a temptation which the journals of the Legislature will show are not always resisted. The interests of a section of the State are involved. The application is pressed with the earnestness and feeling which personal and local interests are too likely to impart on such occasions. The majority is looked to as holding the power to make the grant desired, and the majority, prima facie at least, is responsible for the action. If defeat be certain, the minority, by its favorable vote, may conciliate and gain the interest, without hazard or injury to the public treasury. If the majority be divided, and the vote of the minority hold the power, the same opportunity is presented to gain the party advantage by the favorable vote, while the responsibility of the measure, when adopted, presumptively rests upon the majority, and may, at the worst, be made matter of debate between the political parties.

I intend no invidious reference to individuals, to political parties, or to particular measures, by these remarks. My sole object is to point out what I believe to be an evil tendency and temptation, connected with legislation of this character, and to refer to this provision of the proposed constitutional amendments, as eminently calculated to remove them. If it be adopted, no contest can take place offering party advantage, as to the objects of expenditure to be embraced in any proposed law, or as to the amount which it shall appropriate ; and every member will be required to meet and justify his own vote, before his own constituents, whether he belongs to the majority or minority of the body ; because those constituents will be called upon directly to vote upon the same question.

The requirement that a tax shall be imposed by every such law, sufficient to meet the interest upon the loan to be made, is but preserving the same safe precaution which marked our early legislation of this character. Then the State possessed rich revenues which it could spare, and they, together with certain specified taxes, were pledged. Now, as has been seen, all its revenues applicable to these objects, are numbered to their full extent by existing debts, and the only pledge it can make to fortify and sustain its credit, is the one here proposed. This the citizen should understand at the time he votes upon such a law, and to make it certain that he will understand it, he should be called to vote for the tax as well as the loan. It may appear to some as going too far, to require that the tax should be sufficient to redeem the principal of the debts within a specified time, as well as to pay the current interest. If the object of expenditure be one not expected to yield revenue, then the provision is clearly right and absolutely necessary. If it be one from which a return of revenue is anticipated, and that anticipation be disappointed, as has been the case with most of the lateral canals, then the provision is equally right and necessary. And if the anticipated revenue be realized, then the debt will be sooner paid, and the tax imposed be but partially required, or collected ; while, in any event, the people will be protected from a load of unexpected debt and unforeseen taxation.

The pledge contained in the Constitution to secure the payment of the old canal debt, and protect the citizens and the property of the State from taxation for that purpose, is to be completely fulfilled, and practically, if not technically discharged during the present year. If that pledge was wise, it would seem to be equally as wise that another efficient barrier should be interposed between the tax payers of the State, and the unrestrained power of the Legislature to contract debts upon their credit and at their risk. That this power may be abused, we now know. That it has been abused, the people now feel ; and it cannot be a matter of surprise if they shall be found to demand protection against future abuses.

I am certainly as far from entertaining the disposition, as I am from claiming the right to pronounce to, or for you, what is public opinion upon any subject ; but so far as my observation and means of information enable me to speak, these proposed amendments have been very broadly and fully discussed before the people, during the late canvass, have taken deep hold of the public mind, and have been received with strong favor. It is not given to you to incorporate the provisions in, and make them a part of, our Constitution. This is wisely left for the people themselves. Your action, if favorable, can only prepare the amendments for their final action ; and the reflection that, without your favorable co-operation, the people cannot, in the manner pointed out by the Constitution, express their will and choice upon these, to them very important propositions, will not fail to incline towards that reference the minds of all, whose judgments do not decidedly reject the proposed amendments.

Our present Constitution has remained the fundamental law for nearly a quarter of a century, several amendments having been, in that time, adopted in conformity with the provision of that instrument for its own amendment. Hitherto that provision has satisfied the public mind, and led to the amendments demanded by the popular feeling and judgment. I consider it extremely desirable that this should continue to be found practically true, and that such a degree of harmony shall, at all times, prevail between the popular will and the legislative action, in reference to further proposed amendments, as shall supersede demands for constitutional change in any other form. It is a matter of public notoriety, that a portion of our citizens have, for some time, thought, and still think, that a call for a convention to revise our Constitution, has already become expedient. I have been induced to believe that the desire for amendments upon the very points embraced in those now under discussion, and perhaps upon one or two others in reference to which, propositions are also now before you, has excited this feeling, and given it its present strength. I know that a further limitation of the power of the Executive over appointments to office is also a subject upon which many desire an amendment of the Constitution. Speaking personally, I hope I may be believed when I say that any curtailment in that branch of the executive powers and duties, while I am to be honored with the exercise of these high functions, would be most grateful to me ; and I am prepared further to say, that I believe many of the officers now appointed upon the nomination of the Governor, and the consent of the Senate, might be directly elected by the people, or otherwise appointed, with equal safety to the public, and more in accordance with the popular feeling. If the time shall come, however, when the requisite assent of the legislature shall fail to be obtained, to authorize a submission to the people of such propositions for amendments, as a clear majority of the freemen of the State shall demand, and believe to be necessary for the protection of their rights, discontents will be experienced, and other forms of amendment will be proposed and perhaps successfully urged. Under this conviction, I feel it to be an imperative duty, respectfully but earnestly to request you to give to these and all other proposed amendments which may come before you, such calm, unprejudiced and thorough consideration, as shall be calculated to satisfy our common constituents with the conclusions to which you shall come.

The instalments of the State debt, falling due after the present year, have not been brought into notice in the preceding exposition of the condition of the public funds. The last annual report of the Comptroller exhibits the times of payment of the whole debt, and will show that the amounts which become payable in 1846 and 1847 are comparatively small. This may enable the revenues of those years to meet those redemptions, and the unpaid balance of the present year; but the sums falling due in the following years are very large, exceeding five millions, and will require more than any surplus the present revenue can furnish, to preserve the public faith, by making these payments when due. A deferred stock has been suggested as a practicable mode of meeting these debts. To the extent that the current revenues, husbanded with the utmost economy, can furnish the means of payment, this course appears to me equally objectionable in principle and expediency. A deferred stock, to liberate revenues properly applicable to an existing debt, that they may be applied to other objects of expenditure, is the first and fatal step towards making debt perpetual.

In any view I am able to take of this portion of our financial affairs, I am constrained to believe that the application of the existing revenues to the existing debts, so far as the current expenses of the public service will permit, has become an imperious duty to the whole people, that the burden of the present State tax may be removed at the earliest practicable day, and that the danger of its recurrence may be obviated by a payment of the debts which have rendered it necessary. I also believe that true friendship for our system of internal improvements, and its safe and certain extension, equally require, and will demand, the most speedy payment of the canal debt, and the liberation of the present canal revenues from the wasting demands of interest now resting upon them. I recommend, therefore, that course of financial legislation, which shall make these the prominent objects of its policy.

Our financial condition is by no means desperate. The rapid accumulation of debt was arrested, before it had so far surpassed the power of our revenues as to render a return within the limits of a sound condition hopeless. The able expositions of 1842, and the sound legislation of that year, satisfied the people of this fact, and the taxation necessary to render this return safe and sure was cheerfully submitted to. The improvement of the revenues of the canals has already laid the foundation of a sinking fund, rendering the speedy reduction of that debt certain, if aided by the whole power of those revenues. Retrenchment of expenditures, it is hoped, may do something towards bringing the payments from the General Fund within its revenues; and the whole State tax, for the present year, will at least relieve it from the accumulation of further debt, and afford time for so strengthening its resources, or diminishing its expenses, as to give it power to commence the reduction of its heavy debt. The question submitted to us, therefore, is not that submitted to the Legislature of 1842, whether we will attempt to bring to order and soundness deranged finances, and restore a fallen credit; but whether, finding our financial condition substantially sound, and our credit high, we will maintain both in that desirable condition, and, as soon as it can be done consistently with these objects, relieve our whole people from the tax which the restoration of 1842 imposed upon them.

It is pleasant to turn from our funds thus loaded with debt, to the consideration of others annually dispensing their benefits, without any such incumbrances, to objects the most vital to republican institutions.

The productive capital of the Common School Fund was, on the 30th day of September last, $1,992,916.35; and the revenues of the fund, received into the Treasury during the last fiscal year, amounted to $133,826.51. This revenue is, by the terms of the Constitution, to be inviolably appropriated and applied to the support of common schools throughout the State. The School Fund was instituted by law in 1805, and the constitutional protection of the fund took effect on the first day of January, 1823.

It is worthy of remark that the revenues of this fund have at no time been anticipated, so as to charge a debt upon them, or upon its capital. If distributions to the common schools have been directed beyond the power of the revenues of the fund, as they sometimes have, the same law has always provided the means from which the excess was to be paid, so as to fix no debt upon the fund, or its revenues. The proceeds of the sales of five hundred thousand acres of the public domain of the State, were the first appropriation to this fund, and constituted its foundation.

The immense superstructure which has been reared, upon such a basis, and under such management, in a period of forty years, is shown by the following statistics, furnished by the Superintendent of Common Schools.

The number of school districts in the State, organized according to the school law, is 10,990, from 10,857 of which regular reports were received during the last year, showing that the average time, during which schools were kept open in these districts was eight months. The whole number of children between the ages of five and sixteen years, residing in the State, estimating those residing in the city of New-York at 80,000, was 696,548; and the whole number of children actually taught in the district schools of the State was 709,156, being more than 50,000 beyond the number taught during the preceding year.

The whole amount of money distributed from the Treasury of the State for the use of the common schools for that year, was $275,000, and the amount actually paid during the year, for the wages of common school teachers, was $992,222.03. The number of volumes reported as being in the school district libraries, was 1,038,396. These returns also show, that 37,531 scholars had been, during some portion of the year, in attendance upon private and select schools, out of the city of New-York, and it is estimated that at least an equal number were in attendance upon like schools in that city, making more than 65,000 children thus taught, not including those taught in the academies and other incorporated literary institutions.

I do not think it expedient to go more at large into the statistics of our common schools, in this communication, as they will be fully laid before you in the annual report of the Superintendent, and will be found to possess an intrinsic interest certain to command your most anxious attention.

These facts, however, present evidence both striking and satisfactory of the immense extent of public benefit, which revenues, moderate in amount, but unincumbered by debt and interest, may work out, in so limited a term of years. It is true the School Fund has from time to time been moderately aided in its annual distributions, from the Treasury, and that now and for several years past, it has received, and is now receiving, one hundred and sixty-five thousand dollars per annum from the interest of the United States Deposit Fund, a sum greater than its whole annual revenue. This authorizes the enlarged distribution directed by law to be now annually made for the benefit of the common schools.

No public fund of the State is so unpretending, yet so all pervading; so little seen, yet so universally felt; so mild in its exactions, yet so bountiful in its benefits; so little feared or courted, and yet so powerful, as this fund for the support of common schools. The other funds act upon the secular interests of society, its business, its pleasures, its pride, its passions, its vices, its misfortunes. This acts upon its mind and its morals. Education is to free institutions, what bread is to human life, the staff of their existence. The office of this fund is to open and warm the soil, and sow the seed, from which this element of freedom must grow and ripen into maturity, and the health or sickness of the growth will measure the extent and security of our liberties. The thankfulness we owe to those who have gone before us, for the institution of this fund, for its constitutional protection, and for its safe and prudent administration hitherto, we can best repay by imitating their example, and improving upon their work as the increased means placed in our hands shall give us the ability.

Few, if any instances are upon record, in which a fund of this description has been administered, and its bounties dispensed, through a period of forty years, with so few suspicions, accusations or complaints of the interference of either political or religious biases to disturb the equal balance by which its benefits should be extended to our whole population. This should continue as it has been. Our School Fund is not instituted to make our children and youth either partizans in politics, or sectarians in religion; but to give them education, intelligence, sound principles, good moral habits, and a free and independent spirit; in short, to make them American freemen and American citizens, and to qualify them to judge and choose for themselves in matters of politics, religion and government. Such an administration of the fund as shall be calculated to render this qualification the most perfect for the mature mind, with the fewest influences tending to bias the judgment, or incline the choice, will be the most consonant with our duties, and with the best interests of our constituents. Under such an administration, education will flourish most, and the peace and harmony of society be best preserved.

Our common school system has been so long a prominent subject of legislation, as to have become matured and perfected in many of its most important features. With it, our whole community are familiarly acquainted, and it is quite unnecessary for me to detain you by remarking upon it.

The subject of the proper education and qualifications of the teachers of common schools, is one of primary interest, as it has been found to be of prominent difficulty, in the execution of our school laws. It has so frequently occupied the able pens of my predecessors upon occasions like this, and of our distinguished scholars and statesmen, who have interested themselves in the prosperity of our common schools, and the cause of education generally, as to leave for me little more than to invite your anxious attention to this part of the system, and to the existing provisions of our laws relating to it. Some recent legislation, affecting the management and inspection of schools, the licensing of teachers and their future education, is attracting considerable attention, and exciting some interest, in portions of the State. The substitution of a county superintendent of schools, in the place of the former town commissioners, has given rise to discontents in some of the counties, and the proposition to establish a school at the seat of government for the education of teachers, appears to be creating serious apprehensions in the minds of portions of our citizens.

It is feared that an institution for the education of teachers for our common schools, under the superintendence of officers of the State government, and dependent upon the public patronage and bounty, will lead to influences of a dangerous character; that teachers so sent out, if the law shall not make them so, may feel themselves to be a preferred and a privileged class, and that the tendencies may be to incline them to use efforts to impress their pupils favorably towards the government to which they feel indebted, and the system which has given them preferment; that a uniform religious and sectarian, as well as political feeling may come to pervade such an institution, and through the teachers there educated, be disseminated in the common schools; and that in the end, a species of government establishment may grow up, giving a cast to the education and political and religious opinions of our youth, dangerous in its influences and results. Apprehensions of this character have been pressed upon me, with evidences of popular feeling upon these subjects entitled to respect, and I feel bound therefore to lay them before you.

In the same connection it is my duty to say that communications from other sources, equally intelligent and respectable, have been received, appreciating most highly these provisions of the existing laws, as great improvements in our common school system, and as promising the most auspicious results, without affording any just ground for the apprehensions to which I have alluded.

My opportunities for personal observation have not been sufficient to enable me to form an opinion as to the practical workings of the change from the town commissioners to the county superintendents, and I do not feel qualified to make any suggestion or recommendation in regard to it. If there be abuses of a serious character, they will doubtless be laid before you, with the evidences of their existence, and you will then be able to determine whether the defect be in the law, or in its administration, and to apply the remedy which the evil shown shall require.

The school for the education of teachers cannot yet have afforded any evidence of the groundlessness or justice, of the apprehensions to which I have referred, and I have not myself studied the subject so as to authorize me to pronounce an opinion, or to interpose any recommendations respecting it. I shall have discharged my duty, therefore, in presenting the point to you, with the suggestions upon both sides, and the expression of my conviction that those who take either are governed by the purest wishes for the steady and secure advancement of our system of education.

The school in question is located at the capital, and is therefore, at all times, within the reach of your personal inspection. It would scarcely be deemed reasonable, after its institution at the public expense, to condemn it in advance, and without a trial; but should you become satisfied, from intimate inspection, or other reasonable proofs, that it produces, or is likely to produce, the malign influences which have been anticipated, it will then be your duty to abolish it. And if, on the other hand, this system shall be found to realize the anticipations of its friends, without bringing with it any of the dangers or abuses apprehended by others, it may be confidently expected that the objections alluded to will be abandoned, as unsupported by experience.

The Literature Fund is also devoted to the purposes of education. Its capital, at the close of the last fiscal year, amounted to $268,990.57, and the revenues received into the Treasury during that year were $18,490.34. This fund receives $28,000 annually from the interest of the United States Deposit Fund, and its revenues are distributed to the incorporated academies of the State, under the direction of the Regents of the University. As the conditions upon which academies are permitted by the Regents to participate in the dividends from this fund, the incorporation must own real estate and buildings of the value of $2,500 over and above any incumbrances thereon, and must have a fund invested and yielding annual interest for the term of twenty years, equal to at least $2,000. The increase of the number of academies participating annually in the distribution from this fund, by bringing themselves within these conditions, furnishes one strong evidence of the rapid advancement of education in the State, and of the very general diffusion of a grade of education beyond that ordinarily acquired in the common schools. The means necessary to purchase the lots, erect the buildings, and establish the funds for these numerous academies, are mostly if not entirely drawn from the voluntary contributions of private citizens, and of our incorporated villages and towns; and their collection and application evince in a gratifying manner, the lively interest taken by our people in the great cause of education. The annual report of the Regents of the University will place before you the condition of these institutions for the past year.

The capital of the United States Deposit Fund is $4,014,520.71, the proportion received by this state of the surplus moneys in the treasury of the United States, deposited with the States for safe keeping by the act of Congress of 1836. This money was loaned by the State to the several counties, as the safest mode of investment, the faith of the State being pledged for the return of the principal without interest, whenever the United States shall demand the re-payment of the same. The interest has been appropriated almost exclusively to the purposes of education, a single thousand dollars per annum to the New-York Eye Infirmary being, as I believe, the only exception.

The opinion is entertained in some quarters, that too large a proportion of this fund has been appropriated to the use of the colleges and academies of the State, and that an invidious distinction is made in their favor as compared with the appropriation to the common schools. This conclusion appears to rest upon the fact, said to be ascertained, that the dividend per scholar, from the public funds, is greater to these institutions than to the common schools. I have not ascertained how this fact may be, nor does it strike me as a very satisfactory foundation for the conclusion if it be as stated. These institutions are entitled to the public patronage and bounty so far, and only so far, as they are valuable and useful auxiliaries in the great cause of education generally, and especially in supplying the common schools with competent and qualified teachers, and improved modes of instruction, and in otherwise sustaining and elevating the standard of instruction in those schools. These, as it appears to me, should be the great objects of legislative grants to them, and the measure of such grants. The institutions must be sustained in a healthful and flourishing condition, or the accomplishment of these objects can not be expected from them. They must be supplied with competent teachers, or they can not send forth those competent to teach. The value of useful and proper class-books must be known and appreciated in them, or they can not commend such books for other schools. The standard of education in them must be sound and elevated, or they will not contribute to maintain such a standard in the common schools. Their healthfulness, therefore, or their need, in a pecuniary sense, would seem to me to be a more safe and more just guide to the legislature than any rule of distribution per scholar. The common schools should never be suffered to languish for the want of the means granted to these institutions; nor should the colleges and academies be permitted to decline and suffer, that the means which would sustain them may be granted to well supplied and healthful common schools. Either extreme would be equally unwise, impolitic and hurtful. All are parts, and essential parts, of one great and valuable and essential plan of education, and sickness in any branch must soon be felt throughout the whole system. The common schools are the principal and these institutions are the auxiliaries, essential auxiliaries, and that legislation which shall preserve the most equal and uniform soundness and activity and vigor, throughout the whole, will be the most politic, the most wise, and the most just.

Having no information in regard to the condition and wants of these various institutions, I am unable to pronounce an opinion upon the propriety of the present appropriations from the revenues of this fund. I can only, therefore, recommend the rule I have laid down upon this subject for your consideration; being well convinced that, if your examinations shall satisfy you that these appropriations are in conformity with it, you will find no cause to change them ; while, if you shall find any essential departure from it, that you will make the changes which the healthful action of our whole system of education shall seem to require.

By a law passed on the 10th day of April, 1838, principal moneys of the United States Deposit Fund paid, were directed to be transmitted to the State Treasury and not reloaned, that they might be applied in extinguishment of the debt standing against that fund, due to the Canal Fund. Payments of principal money have been made to an amount sufficient to extinguish that debt, and it is submitted for your consideration whether this law ought not to be repealed, and the authority of the commissioners of loans to reloan the principal moneys of the fund, originally conferred by the 28th section of the act of the 4th of April, 1837, be thus restored. It is important that these principal moneys be made constantly productive, that the appropriations of the revenue from them to the objects before named may be regularly met, and no other mode of investment appears to me to offer the same security with an equal rate of interest. As a mere financial question, therefore, separate from the consideration of accommodation to the inhabitants of the respective counties, it appears to me that the authority to reloan these moneys should be restored.

Our penitentiary system has been a subject of primary solicitude and deep legislative care, for a long series of years. In its early stages, next to the prevention and punishment of crime, the heavy burden upon the public treasury, and the removal of that burden, by making the labor of the convicts pay the expenses of their punishment, was the object most anxiously sought. It was finally reached through radical changes in the construction of our prisons, and the improvement in prison discipline which those changes rendered practicable. I entertain the impression that our State was the first to bring about the accomplishment of these great improvements in the construction and police of prisons, and with them the equally important result of making them support themselves. Various accidents, since that desirable point was first reached, such as the construction of new buildings, additions to, and improvements of the old, and a necessity for changing the labor of the convicts from employment to which they had become accustomed, to that which they were to learn, have created calls upon the Treasury for aid to support the State prisons ; but, as an ordinary rule, when the labor of the convicts has been directed to support alone, it is believed that it has fully met that charge, and, for some years, it has yielded a very considerable surplus.

The reports made to me by the inspectors of the prisons at Auburn and Mount-Pleasant, present both these institutions at present in a sound and prosperous state, the health of the prisoners ordinarily good, the discipline carefully preserved, and the avails of the labor of the convicts for the current year, promising to meet the expenses of the prison.

The number of male prisoners in the Mount-Pleasant Prison has increased one hundred, comparing the year 1844, with 1843, but more than half that increase is accounted for by the transfer of thirty prisoners from Auburn, and the addition of eight counties to that prison district. The whole number there confined on the 30th September last, was eight hundred and sixty-three. The number of female convicts at Mount-Pleasant, at the same period, was seventy-two, four less than the number at the close of the preceding year. The whole expenses of the prison, for the last fiscal year, amounted to $64,215.03, which the inspectors say is less, by from two to fourteen thousand dollars per year, than the expenses of the three preceding years, and they anticipate that the avails of the labor of the convicts, for the current year, will be equal to the support of the prison. This report makes several important suggestions for diminishing the expense and improving the condition of this prison, and especially as to a sufficient supply of pure water; but as the annual report of the inspectors to the Legislature will doubtless present these subjects, together with all the statistics in reference to the prison, more fully than I could do in this communication, I respectfully refer you to that document, when it shall be laid before you, and invite your attention to its statements and recommendations.

The number of prisoners confined at Auburn on the 30th of November last, was seven hundred and fifty-five, being but twelve more than at the close of the previous year, but it should be borne in mind that the transfer to the Mount-Pleasant Prison, of thirty of the Auburn convicts, probably diminished the number remaining in the latter prison to about the same extent, while the change of the prison districts would have diminished the number of commitments for the latter portion of the year. The whole expenses of this prison for the last fiscal year, were $68,107.40, but this included some five thousand dollars of debts standing over from previous years, which were paid during the last year, from a special appropriation made from the Treasury for that purpose. The earnings of the prisoners employed upon contracts, during the last year, amounted to $52,389.10, and the same earnings, for the current year, are estimated at $60,000, while the expenses of the prison for the year, for general support and repairs, are estimated at the same sum. The report from this prison contains many interesting facts, relating to the discipline and moral and intellectual condition of the convicts, but which, as they will probably be repeated in the annual report of the inspectors to the Legislature, and as they call for no action on your part, I omit to notice.

For several years previous to the last, extensive complaints were made, on the part of the mechanics of the State, against the manner of employing the convict labor in the State Prisons as particularly unjust and oppressive upon them as a class of our citizens. The ordinary branches of mechanical and manufacturing labor chosen for the occupations of the prisoners, and the manner of employing them in the branches selected, by hiring their labor to mechanics and manufacturers in those trades, it was urged, raised up an unequal and unfair competition in favor of those employers against their fellow citizens of the same trades, but without that facility to procure cheap labor ; that the State could afford to hire out these convicts at a rate of wages merely equal to their own support, in the economical way in which that support is provided in the prisons, because the services of the laborer were to cost it nothing more ; that such labor could be made to supply the market with a better article, at a less price, and greater profit, than the mechanic or manufacturer can do, who has not the benefit of this artificial standard to govern the wages of his laborers.

A further ground of complaint was that this mode of employing the convicts, thus constituting them mechanics confined to a few trades and those, to a great extent the most common, and necessarily followed in all parts of the State, was throwing the whole body of these State criminals, after their discharge from prison, upon that particular class of society, and making them the associates of the apprentices and journeymen in those trades.

The last legislature considered these complaints worthy of an effort to change the policy, and authorized the erection of a new State prison in the iron region of the State, with a view to the employment of the convicts in mining, making iron and such branches of the manufacture of iron as are not commonly practised by the mechanics of the State. A site has been selected for the proposed prison, by the persons, and in the manner, pointed out in the law, located in the county of Clinton. Two hundred acres of land have been purchased, including what is believed to be a very extensive bed of iron ore, of excellent quality ; and the location, with reference to coal, water, and other requisites for the proposed business, is considered very favorable. The annual report of the agent of the proposed prison, will place you in possession of all the facts important for your action in furtherance of this experiment to change the labor of the convicts in our prisons. Your predecessors adopted and established the policy of the measure, and $17,500 have been paid for this site for a prison, as one important step towards the execution of their law. A plan for the new prison will accompany the report of the agent, and further appropriations will doubtless be wanted to enable him to proceed with the erection of it, and the necessary buildings for the proposed manufacture of iron. Of the amount of appropriations which will be necessary, I am not advised, but you will be informed by that officer, and presented by him with the facts and views upon which his estimate is based.

The course having been deliberately resolved upon, it should be prosecuted with energy and good faith, and the work should be hastened as rapidly as the means at your command applicable to it, and true economy of expenditure will permit. Still those who feel an interest in the accomplishment of the change should constantly bear in mind that time is required ; that the work to be performed, and the expense to be incurred, must be very great, before the revolution proposed can be perfected, even if the experiment should be attended with complete success. The enterprise is one of deep interest, but one which impatient haste may endanger and cannot serve.

The public charities of the State form another class of objects for your paternal care. Among them no one stands more prominent than the provision made for the insane, and especially for the insane poor. The State Lunatic Asylum, lately established at Utica, is particularly designed for the relief of this most unfortunate class of our fellow beings, and the munificence of preceding legislatures towards it, and the promptness with which the counties and towns of the State availed themselves of its benefits, afford the highest evidence of the strength of that charity in the affections of our people. There is not, perhaps, an instance upon record where a public institution of that description and extent has been so promptly filled with patients, and certainly few where the happy result of entire restoration to reason, considering the condition of the patients when received and the duration of the malady before that time, have borne a greater proportion to the whole number of cases treated. There were in the asylum, at the commencement of the last year, 196 patients, and received into it during the year 275, making the whole number of cases within the year 471. Of this number 132 were discharged cured, 47 improved, 16 not improved, and 16 died, leaving 260 patients in the institution at the close of the year. Of this number 131 were males and 129 females, and patients were included from forty-nine of the fifty-nine organized counties of the State.

The patients remaining, at the close of the year, filled the asylum and indeed crowded it; but all poor patients chargeable to the towns and counties had been received, and there were a number in addition supported by their friends, or from their own means. The price of board during the year was reduced from $2.50 to $2 per week, and yet the income of the institution was expected to equal the expenses, so as to call for no new appropriation for general support. Under the appropriation already made for enlarging the asylum, additional accommodations for 200 patients are commenced. This appropriation was $60,000, of which but $6,000 have been drawn from the Treasury, so that, although no further appropriation may be required, means to enable the Treasury to meet the existing one are to be provided. As the managers of this institution are required to make an annual report to the Legislature, I forbear to go further into its particular condition, except to say that the presentation furnished to me is a most encouraging and gratifying one, both with reference to the liberality of the State towards the insane, and the faithful and successful application of its means by the managers and officers of the asylum.

There were in the lunatic asylum at Bloomingdale at the commencement of the last year, one hundred patients; received up to the 6th day of December one hundred and two, and discharged ninety-nine, leaving in the institution, on the last named day, one hundred and three.

As the fiscal and calendar year are the same at this institution, it has not been in the power of its officers to lay before me the condition of its pecuniary affairs, for the last year, but a communication from the resident physician informs me that it will not vary materially from that of the year 1843, as reported to the Legislature during its last session. A reference to that report will show that the financial affairs of the asylum appeared then to be in a fairly healthful state. The resident physician gives a favorable and encouraging account of the condition and treatment of the patients in the institution, and thinks it will bear a comparison with any similar institution in the world, and he seems to speak from a very extensive experience and examination.

The annual report to the Legislature, of the Governors of the New-York Hospital, of which this Asylum is a branch, will put you in possession of all the necessary information in relation to both institutions. The State pays an annual annuity to the hospital of $12,500, and to the asylum of $10,000.

The principal of the institution for the education of the deaf and dumb in the city of New-York has laid before me an interesting statement of the condition of that school, but as the fiscal closes with the calendar year, the state of its finances for the last year could not be given.

The number of deaf mutes resident in the institution on the second of December last, was one hundred and eighty-five, of whom three were connected with the department of instruction, seven with the mechanical department, seven were employed in domestic household duties, and one hundred and sixty-five were pupils of the school.

The sums received, and to be received, from the State, from the various appropriations to this institution, were estimated to amount, for the year, to something more than twenty-two thousand dollars, and it was stated that some of the laws making these appropriations are about to expire. An intimation was also given that additional aid was desirable and might be asked. Many other interesting facts were stated in relation to the institution, and the advancement of education, and improvement in the modes of instruction, but as all will be more fully placed before you in an annual report from the managers, to be laid before you early in your session, I omit a reference to them here.

Next to the deprivation of reason the subjects of this charity make the strongest appeal to the public sympathies, and will doubtless command your guardian care. In the present embarrassed condition of the General Fund and the deficient state of its revenues, I cannot feel authorized to recommend an increase of the already very liberal patronage extended to this institution. It will doubtless be your pleasure to continue that already extended, so far as the revenues relied upon to meet the present appropriations, and the state of the public treasury will warrant.

The New-York Institution for the Blind is another public charity only second to the two which have been mentioned. A statement from the corresponding secretary of the incorporation gives the present number of pupils at one hundred and ten, of whom eighty-eight are supported by the State at the annual expense of one hundred and thirty dollars each. This will amount to $11,440 per annum, paid from the public treasury for the education of pupils in this school for the blind. The account given of the advancement of these unfortunate children in the various branches of education, in the science of music, and in mechanical and manufacturing industry is one of deep interest, and it is a matter of profound regret that, with this liberal patronage from the State, the funds of the institution are not such as to preserve it, from emarrassments, which limit its usefulness. The managers suppose they can derive a benefit from certain alterations and extensions of their charter, which will aid in relieving these emarrassments, among which is the permission to constitute this institution an asylum, as well as a school, for the blind. My acquaintance with the subject does not enable me to judge of the propriety of this extension of the charter; but I invite your careful attention to the request, convinced that it will receive your favorable action, unless there shall be sound objections against it.

It is a most gratifying reflection, that during all the period of our late financial emarrassments, driving us to the necessity of direct taxation, our expenditures for education, for the maintenance of our penitentiaries, and for the liberal support of our public charities, have not merely not been diminished, but have been increased and extended, at least to keep pace with our increasing population. This single fact speaks volumes in favor of the intelligence, patriotism, and public spirit of our people.

Few subjects connected with this communication have been pressed upon me with so much earnestness, since the close of the late election, as the necessity of some additional legal provisions to secure the independent and unbiassed exercise of the elective franchise, and the purity of the ballot box, especially from the corrupting influence of money. No subject can possess deeper interest to the freemen of our state and country, or be more vitally important to the very existence of our political institutions. Without, however, detaining you with remarks to establish a position which will be instantly conceded and fully appreciated, I will proceed directly to the points to which I propose to confine my suggestions.

One of the prominent complaints is that efforts are made, and successfully made, to defeat the policy of our present law, intending to secure to the elector the privilege of keeping his vote from the sight or inspection of the officers of the election, or any one else, and its character known to himself only. By the law, if he chooses to hand his ballot to the inspector closely folded, the law prohibits the inspector, upon pain of severe punishment for a misdemeanor, from so opening it as to expose the names of the persons voted for upon it. The law, however, requires that the ballot should be labelled upon the outside; and if folded, it must be so folded as to leave this label visible. This is made one of the means of defeating the protection intended to be thrown around the elector, by enabling him to keep the character of his vote a profound secret from all the world but himself, if he should choose to do so. This label, as a general remark, must be printed, and the character of the type is made to designate the political complexion of the vote within, as plainly, to those who understand the design, as would the inspection of the names upon the ballot. In this way the influence of the employer over the feelings and fears of the employed, is as fully and forcibly exerted, as if the latter were required to give a viva voce vote, or deposit an open ballot. So the description and color of the paper upon which ballots are printed is often resorted to for the same purpose ; and in this way the spirit and intention of the law, to protect the elector in the independent exercise of his own free choice, are circumvented and defeated.

I do not know that it is possible, by legislation, to reach and prevent all these devices unduly and improperly to influence the free choice of the elector ; but it does appear to me that all the abuses growing out of the use of a label upon the ballot, may, as our law now is, be prevented by a very slight modification. When there is not a presidential election, and when no amendments to the Constitution are to be voted upon, we now have but one ballot box and one ballot, and then manifestly no label can be required. I can see no cause to apprehend inconvenience or injury, by such an amendment of the law as shall render but one box and one ballot necessary at any time. The persons voted for as electors of president and vice-president may be as well designated upon the state ticket, as upon a separate one, and the opinion of the elector upon any constitutional amendment can be as well expressed upon that as upon a separate ballot. Nor do I think the addition to the size of the ballot, in either of these cases, would produce any serious objection.

I respectfully submit these suggestions for your consideration, confident that, as far as you shall find it practicable, you will defend the elector in the enjoyment of that impunity from improper influences, in giving his vote, which it has ever been the policy of our law to secure to him.

Another point of much more serious complaint, is the extensive and rapidly increasing practice of betting upon elections, and the interested, selfish, and corrupting tendencies which it exerts upon the election itself. It is true, that bets so made cannot now be recovered by action, or payment enforced in any legal manner, and that property or money staked, or even paid over upon a bet, may be recovered back in a suit at law ; and yet it is equally true, that a public opinion exists, almost universally, so strongly condemnatory of the conduct of him, who, having made a bet, refuses the payment ; or, having paid, seeks to recover back the money, as to have almost the force of positive law to compel the payment. Indeed, instances have existed, when bankruptcy has been the consequence to the losing party, and yet pecuniary ruin has been preferred to a resort to the protection of this statute. Under such a state of things, the law is wholly ineffective to prevent the practice, as its alarming increase too clearly proves.

Still the evil influences of the practice upon our elections, and the propriety of interposing by legislation to avert them, are fully recognized in the present law. These improper and corrupting influences have made themselves manifest to the whole body of our freemen, and constitute a theme of almost universal complaint. Upon the party to the wager, they are all controlling. His ear and his mind, from the moment his money is staked, are closed against argument, or reason, or examination, either as to the questions involved, or the candidates presented for his suffrage. He must so vote and so act as to win his bet, and the welfare of the country becomes an entirely secondary consideration. His appeals to all over whom he may hope to exert an influence, are to save himself from loss, and help him to win the money of his opponent, not to examine and inquire how they may best serve their country by their votes.

The manner in which this evil practice extends itself, presents another and even stronger reason for its more effectual suppression. It operates as a positive coercion upon many who are really unwilling to make bets, because it is made a test, by the members of the contending parties, of the confidence of each other in the strength of their cause and their candidates, and their final party success. The offer of the bet is often the consequence of heated discussion and strong partisan feeling, made by one who, without excitement, would neither offer nor accept a bet upon an election, and yet once made and reluctantly accepted, the same coercion prevents either party from receding; the wager remains, and they become parties to a bet upon the pending election, and subject to all the selfish and corrupting influences which have been described, though both feeling a repugnance to the practice. To avert these evil influences from such parties, and save them from the coercion of so artificial and imaginary a test of political sincerity and confidence, if it can be done without a violation of principle, is certainly most desirable, and would be a valuable improvement in our legislation.

Many have suggested disfranchisement as the penalty of becoming a party to a bet, upon the very rational ground that he should not be permitted to vote at all, whose vote is to be governed by his private interests, and not with reference to the public good. This suggestion, however plausibly urged, we have not the constitutional power to adopt. The constitution of our State declares the qualifications and disqualifications of the voter, and does not give to the Legislature the right to subtract from the one or add to the other. Its whole power in the matter is to pass laws for ascertaining the constitutional qualifications. The suggestion which strikes me with most force, and as most likely to arrest the practice of betting, is to make it punishable criminally; to subject the parties to every bet made upon the result of an election, to indictment, and upon conviction, to punishment by a fine, to be graduated by the amount of the wager, and to all the costs of the prosecution. If the fine be given entirely to the complainant, the probability of prosecution, and consequently of arresting the evil will be strengthened.

No valid objection in principle against such a law has occurred to me. The deleterious influence of this species of gambling upon the public morals alone, would, it appears to me, justify the passage of a law which should make it criminal. And when its corrupt and corrupting tendencies upon our elections, upon the free and proper exercise of the elective franchise; when its influence to bring the improper expenditure of money into a political canvass, and to apply it under the desperate impulse of a gambling spirit, are considered, I cannot doubt that the moral and political aspect of the evil will fully justify its classification as a crime, and its punishment as such.

I submit the suggestion, however, with great deference, and in the full conviction that it will not receive your sanction, unless you deem it sound in principle, and likely to prove salutary in practice. Such a law cannot do less than relieve from coercion those who do not make bets from voluntary choice; as no state of public opinion will be likely to require of the citizen, that he should violate the law, and subject himself to indictment, to manifest his confidence in the correctness of his political opinions, or the success of his political party; and if any should be reckless enough to challenge him to do it, his refusal placed upon this ground, will admit of none of the inferences, which constitute the coercion at present felt.

The use of money at our elections, not connected with wagers, has become a subject of universal complaint. The provisions of our law are very rigid, and expressly confine the lawful use of money upon those occasions to "defraying the expenses of printing and the circulation of votes, hand-bills, and other papers, previous to any such election, or for conveying sick, poor, or infirm electors to the polls;" and any candidate for any elective office, or any other person, who shall, with intent to promote the election of any particular candidate or ticket, contribute money for any other purpose, is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding six months. It is difficult to see how provisions of law can be more rigid, and not restrict the free publication and circulation of political matter, or prohibit offices of kindness to the sick, poor or infirm; and yet it is manifest that the evils and mischiefs intended to be prevented by the present law, yet exist, and are rapidly and alarmingly augmenting. It is impossible to presume that the contributors expect, or intend, to keep within their own control, or even to retain a personal knowledge of the uses to which their money is applied, as vast purses are frequently made up for the avowed purpose of wide distribution throughout the counties of the State, and not to meet the lawful expenses of the election in the county where the contributors reside, and are voters. The forms of the law may be observed in the subscription papers, but the spirit of the law is disregarded, if not expressly departed from, when the application and use of the money is placed beyond the power and knowledge of him who gives it.

It is worthy of consideration whether contributions in money, for any purpose of expenditure, even within the terms of the present law, may not be safely confined to the county. If the object is publication, let the contributions be in publications and not in money, and the expenditure is brought within the terms and provisions of the law, by the act of him who contributes the money. It will scarcely be contended that the sick, or poor, or infirm, of any one of our counties, will be kept from the poll, if money is not contributed from another county to defray the expense of conveying them to it. Every county has citizens enough, able and willing to perform that service for their sick and poor and infirm neighbors.

It has been suggested that this corrupting influence upon our elections may be restrained, by limiting the amount, beyond which no candidate and no citizen shall contribute for any purpose. If such a limitation can be imposed and enforced, it will doubtless go far to restrain the evil, as it is apparent that very large amounts are paid by comparatively few subscribers. Large contributions cannot be made with any regard to the provisions of the existing law, and the contributor doubtless contents himself by the reflection that he but gives the money, while, taking no part in its expenditure, he is not responsible for any violations of the law to which his act may lead. Such contributions of money, for such a purpose, cannot fail to lead to abuses, and are therefore themselves abuses, and any provision which should effectually restrain them, without a violation of principle, would be a most important step towards exempting our elections from the poisonous influence of money.

Two proposed amendments of the Constitution will call for your action, farther to extend our judiciary system. One provides for the addition of three associate chancellors to the court of chancery. This court has always hitherto consisted of a single judge, but years of experience have proved that the labors of no one man are equal to the discharge of the duties and the despatch of the business of that court.

The other amendment adds two justices to the bench of the Supreme Court. Formerly this court was composed of five judges, and they performed all the duties of the bench and of the circuits for the whole State. At the revision of the Constitution, eight circuit judges were provided for, and the judges in bench were reduced to three. As with the Court of Chancery, the experience of several years last past has conclusively shown that the three justices cannot do the business falling upon this court, and, in both the Supreme Court and Court of Chancery, delays of justice are suffered deeply injurious to parties, and laying the foundation for just complaints.

A conviction of the necessity of adding to our judiciary in some safe and proper way has long since been produced upon the minds of our people, and differences of opinion as to the expedient mode of accomplishing the object have prevented amendments of the Constitution until this period. With a full view of all the facts, and a full knowledge of the necessity of some farther provision upon this subject, your immediate predecessors matured the amendments now under consideration, and made the preliminary submission of them to our common constituents. Most of you have been elected at the election when these amendments were before the people, and of course with reference to their farther disposition, and I submit them to your action conscious that nothing which I could add to the communications of my predecessors upon this interesting subject, almost annually made for the last eight or ten years, would increase your sense of the necessity of some provision to reach and cure the evil complained of; and I do not feel competent to enlighten you by any attempt to discuss the merits of these particular amendments as compared with other propositions which have been, upon various occasions, submitted to the Legislature and the public. All the ground of discussion presented has been so frequently and so ably occupied, as to place within your reach all the views of which the topic is susceptible.

If it shall appear to you that these amendments will accomplish the object desired, and in as safe and practicable a mode as any other, I am sure they will not fail to command your assent in a way which will place them before the people for their final action.

A farther proposed amendment to the Constitution, securing to persons subject to removal from office by the joint resolution of the two Houses of the Legislature, or by the Senate on the recommendation of the Governor, the right to information as to the grounds upon which it is proposed to remove them, and to be heard in their defence, will also demand your action. The principle involved in this proposition, as one of general application, is certainly sound, and in strict conformity with the policy and spirit of our law; and no reason occurs to me against its application to this class of cases, while, without some special and strong ground for the exception, there would seem to be abundant reasons why it should be so applied.

Still another amendment is proposed and will also come before you. Its object is to abolish the property qualification required in the Constitution to hold a seat in the Senate, or the office of Governor. I am not aware that the provision applies to any other offices. The qualification is doubtless in conflict with the present policy of our laws and feeling of our people, as the day has passed by when the title to a freehold is supposed to be a necessary qualification either to entitle a citizen to vote, or, to be voted for. I cannot doubt that the amendment will meet with your approbation.

The transactions of the State Agricultural Society, annually communicated to you, will afford information in relation to that great interest, so much more full and authentic than any it is in my power to lay before you, that I consider my duty best discharged by commending to your notice that forthcoming communication, without any attempt to anticipate its contents. The commanding position which that Society has taken, within the last few years, has roused the energies of our agriculturists beyond any former example; and those energies have been wisely directed to practical and substantial and valuable improvements, in an unusual degree. Societies have been organized in about fifty counties, and each year presents the proceedings of annual fairs in some of them, of which any agricultural population may well be proud. The fairs of the State society already rival the best in the Union, and, in very many respects, bear a favorable comparison with any in the world.

The appropriation of eight thousand dollars per annum, for a short term of years, by the Legislature of 1841, for the encouragement of agriculture, seems to have added impetus to these movements; and the more rigid system of accountability for the expenditure of the money, and its more wise application to real and practical improvements in agriculture, appear to have given to the appropriation more extended utility than has always been visible from like expenditures.

This law is to expire during the present year, and certainly no body of men can be better qualified to determine whether it should be extended, than the representatives of the counties where these societies exist, where the members of the State society are found, and the influence of their instruction and example is felt, and where the benefits of these organizations are experienced, if benefits proceed from them.

The interest involved is not merely the most important committed to our charge, but more important than all others, and the only question we have to solve is, whether it will receive that encouragement, from a continuance of the appropriation, which ought to be derived from the expenditure of that amount of the money of the people, and not whether the interest is worthy of that amount of encouragement. The decision of the question is referred to you, with the assurance that I shall cheerfully concur in any reasonable measure, designed and calculated to afford substantial encouragement to the agriculture of the State.

I regret that my duty to communicate to you the condition of the State cannot be discharged without bringing to your attention a subject of a very different character, but one of deep and pervading interest. I refer to the difficulties existing between the proprietors of certain leasehold estates, in several of our counties, and the tenants upon those estates. For several years past these difficulties have been accumulating, and have, from time to time, been the cause of local disquiet more or less extensive, and more or less seriously threatening the preservation of social order and the public peace. Still, with one or two exceptions, the authorities of the counties have been relied upon to maintain the law, preserve the peace, and protect the rights, property and persons of the citizens, against any attempt of the ill advised to violate either. Resistance was made during the period referred to, and sometimes too successfully made, against the officers of justice in the discharge of their official duties, but under circumstances leaving the hope that misapprehension, acting upon minds suddenly excited, had occasioned the resistance, and that time, calm reflection upon the magnitude of the offence committed, and more patient and dispassionate inquiry into the grounds of complaint, and the wise and proper mode of redressing the grievances, if any, which should prove to have real existence, would cure the disturbances, and relieve our ordinarily peaceful and prosperous communities from the dangers which threatened them.

This reasonable hope has not been realized. An exciting state election was made the occasion for an earnest attempt to intermix these questions with the general politics of the State, and make them tests of election to the legislature. It was but reasonable to expect, after the appeals made in this form had been patiently listened to, maturely considered, and deliberately decided by the freemen of the counties before whom the questions were raised, that further efforts, in any other manner, to accomplish the objects sought, would be at least delayed until the relief expected could have been asked at the hands of the Legislature. Even this delay has not been suffered, but resistance to the law and its officers has been renewed, in forms and under circumstances of the deepest aggravation. Organized bands of men, assuming the disguise of savages, with arms in their hands, have already bid defiance to the law, its process and its officers, and, in repeated instances, and in more than one county, put the life of the sheriff or his deputies in imminent peril, forcibly taken from them their official papers, and burned them in open day, compelling the officer to desist from further attempts to discharge his duties.

These misguided violators of the law, and disturbers of the public peace, have not confined their outrages within even this limit. Already the lives of two peaceable and unoffending citizens have been taken, and, in both instances, when neither the sheriff nor his officers were present, and when no attempt was made to serve legal process.

Minor outrages upon the rights and persons of private individuals, and the peace of neighborhoods, had begun to awaken attention to the danger of these lawless and passionate proceedings ; but these wanton sacrifices of human life, in a manner so unprovoked and causeless have given to the whole public mind a shock, which nothing but the prompt and effectual restoration of the reign of law and order can calm.

While the question between the proprietors and the tenants was whether the leasehold tenures should be perpetuated, or the rents should be commuted upon fair and reasonable terms, and fee simple titles should be given upon the payment of a capital in money, which invested at a stipulated rate would reproduce the rents to the landlord, the controversy was one in which the feelings and sympathies of our people were deeply enlisted, and strongly inclining in favor of the tenants.

Then the question was, not whether rights of property are to be trampled upon, the obligations of contracts violently resisted, the laws of the State set at defiance, the peace of society disturbed, and human life sacrificed, but in what way contracts onerous in their exactions, and tenures in their nature and character uncongenial with the habits and opinions of our people, could be peaceably and justly and constitutionally modified to meet the changed circumstances of the times. And then I might have invited your careful attention to the considerations growing out of these issues.

But I feel precluded from discussions of this character, by the extravagant and indefensible position given to the controversy by the unlawful and violent proceedings of those, who assume to take the charge of the rights and interests of the tenants involved in this litigation. I say those who assume to take the charge of the rights and interests of the tenants in the matter, because I cannot believe that the great body of farmers, who are the occupants of these leasehold estates, are either parties, or conscious and willing accessories, to these violations of the laws of the State, and to high crimes, subjecting the perpetrators to punishment in our State prisons. I do not believe that they, as a body of men, are prepared to trample upon the rights of any class of their fellow citizens, to break up the peace and order of society ; to paralyze the arm of the law, and make might the measure of right ; to disguise their persons, that they may avoid the responsibilities of their own acts ; and, least of all, wantonly to sacrifice human life in such a controversy. Still, that there are those who have deliberately made up their minds to all these revolting consequences, or who are passionately and thoughtlessly pursuing a course of conduct calculated to bring them upon us, the facts which have been adverted to conclusively prove. The information communicated to me, however, authorizes the belief that this desperate extremity, whether of deliberate determination or of thoughtless passion, has been reached by comparatively few, and that many of those are not themselves tenants, but persons who have, for hire, enlisted themselves into the service of the anti-rent associations. I cannot be responsible for the truth of this information, as I have no personal knowledge whatever in the matter, but it has reached me from sources which I consider entitled to my belief.

If such be the fact, and there are those engaged in these transactions who have no other and deeper personal interest, any appeal to them, I fear, would be in vain. If any individual, who enjoys the blessings, and seeks for himself and his the protection, of our free institutions, is prepared, upon calm reflection, to serve for hire in such a cause; is ready to make himself the instrument of visiting these wrongs upon his fellow-citizens, and these evils upon society, for the paltry consideration of the wages of the day laborer; to him I should address myself without hope.

To the tenants themselves, who are the real parties to this controversy, and whose deepest interests are at stake, I can appeal with some confidence. Have they been able to convince themselves, or can they convince themselves, that violent wrong to others is the rule by which right is to be secured to them? That open and criminal resistance to the laws and authorities of the State is the way in which they are to find peace and security for themselves and their families? That a course tending to disgrace, if not to subvert, our republican institutions, can lead to wealth or prosperity or happiness, for them and theirs? Have they reflected that the very theory upon which our government is instituted, is equal protection to all, and that the strong arm of our constitution and laws is the security of the feeble and dependent against the wealthy and powerful? It is for man, not money, for the tenant, not the landlord, for the laborer, not the employer, that the protection of the law, and its faithful execution, are most required; and when the former shall take weapons in their hands to break down and destroy that protection and security, they but invite the invasion of the latter upon their rights and privileges and liberties, by a removal of the only obstacle against a successful assault.

Under this view of their rights and interests, to say nothing of their duties to society and their country, can they believe it wise to persist in the course they have taken? To countenance and sustain those who openly set the laws at defiance, and who pursue a course calculated to subvert the government of our country itself, and this without proposing to take any step towards the final adjustment of the disputed rights and questions involved in the controversy, other than that which is taken by the criminal exertion of physical force? Are not the associated tenants conscious that many of those, who apparently act with them, are influenced by the coercion of fear? And do they not know that threats have been used to force individuals into the associations and to deter them from seceding? Is it not true also that one of the avowed objects of the combination is to prevent individual tenants from making voluntary payment of rent, or from purchasing a title from their landlords, upon any terms however fair and liberal, and for any consideration however reasonable and just, unless the association shall first yield its assent to the compromise? Here, then, is resistance not only against the leases as they are, but also resistance against such a change of the leases as shall remove their ground of complaint.

Is it not moreover true that a system of rent assessed upon the lands is rigidly enforced, to meet the expenses of this organization, more obnoxious to the principle and spirit of freedom than the leases themselves? And are there not involuntary contributors, from whom payment is coerced by means much less defensible than those which the landlords attempt to use to collect the rents?

Again, I ask, can it be that the tenants, industrious and worthy farmers as they are, can either hope, or wish, to sustain a position so unnatural, by means so wholly indefensible? Will they not reflect upon the dangers they may incur as accessories to the crimes committed by their disguised agents, if they continue to pay their money to support and sustain those agents in their illegal proceedings. After what has already transpired, can they say to their own consciences, much less to a jury of their country, that they make these contributions in ignorance of the uses to which their money is to be applied, or that, with such knowledge, they do not make themselves, morally at least, if not legally, accessories to all the offences to which these contributions may lead?

If, however, there shall be those among the tenants whose passions or prejudices are too strong to be overcome by these and like considerations, may I not finally appeal to those who have become reluctant members of these mistaken associations, and who have been made to contribute of their means, or by their names, to sustain such illegal and criminal proceedings, now to step boldly out and resume their duties to society and their country? To take the side of the Constitution and the law, against the violators of both, and to show that their intentions were not criminal, and their objects not subversive of our free and glorious institutions, by manfully lending their aid to prevent, or detect and punish crime, and to preserve the order and peace of the community?

In any event, if these appeals to our fellow-citizens shall not be listened to, upon us rests the responsibility of furnishing the necessary aid to the ministers of the law, to enable them to perform their duties, and to arrest and bring to trial and punishment those who shall unlawfully resist them. The power of the county is confided to the sheriff, and upon him rests the duty of calling it into exercise, as far as need may be, to enable him to enforce the laws, and to protect the property and rights and lives of the persons within his bailiwick. This power is given without qualification, other than the measure of the necessity which calls it into exercise. It extends to every male inhabitant of the county of sufficient age to render effective assistance, and to be able to comprehend the duties and responsibilities of the citizen; and it is upon the peril of indictment and punishment that any such inhabitant disregards, or disobeys, this summons of the sheriff. Mr. Jefferson, one of the ablest, as he was one of the most sincere and ardent defenders of the liberties and rights of the people, whom any country has produced, considered this feature of our system as comprehending its principal strength. He said, "I believe this the strongest government on earth. I believe it the only one, where every man, at the call of the laws, would fly to the standard of the law, and would meet invasion of the public order as his own personal concern." This is the proper personal concern of every American citizen, and if the time shall ever come, when the mass of our people shall refuse so to consider and so to treat, invasions of the public order, or shall join those who resist the law and its officers, then will our liberal institutions have been voluntarily surrendered by those they were designed to protect and bless; then will the blood of our revolutionary fathers have been shed in vain, and their descendants will prove themselves unworthy of the rich inheritance transmitted to them through so much toil and peril and suffering; and then will the cause of free government receive a fatal blow, and monarchists every where will rejoice at the incapacity or indisposition of man to govern himself.

The present indications of the public mind and feeling, in relation to the outrages which have been referred to, sufficiently prove to us that this fatal period is not yet even approaching, with our citizens, and that all those entrusted by them with the execution of the laws will most lamentably misrepresent them, if they pause in their exertions to restore peace and security and order. It is highly creditable to the fidelity and patriotism of our citizens, that, hitherto, in these recent disturbances, formidable as has been the shape they have assumed, wherever the sheriff has had an opportunity to call for the requisite aid, and has proceeded with firmness and energy, the body of the county has proved adequate to the service of criminal process, and to the arrest and detention of some of the most forward of those engaged in the armed resistance against him.

The power of the county is first to be exerted by the officers of the county, aided by the body of the county; and only when representations made to the Governor shall satisfy him that this power is insufficient to maintain the supremacy of the law, can he interpose and order a military force from other counties to aid the resisted sheriff and his posse. This is in strict conformity with the theory of the system, and with its healthful action. The inhabitants of the vicinage are the most directly and deeply interested in suppressing violations of the law, detecting and punishing crime, and preserving peace and order and security in their neighborhoods, and to them the law first looks for its maintenance and execution.

The principal disturbances, of recent date, have been confined to the counties of Columbia and Rensselaer, and in the former county several arrests of persons concerned in resisting the sheriff, and suspected as accessaries, or principals, in the killing of a citizen of that county, and their confinement in the county jail at Hudson, called forth extensive threats of a rescue, and movements among the disguised bands, calling themselves Indians, having that avowed object. The sheriff succeeded in organizing an armed posse of one hundred men, and the citizens and corporate authorities of the city of Hudson, alarmed by threats of injury and destruction to the town, made application to the Governor, and received from him, upon the bond of the corporation, arms and ammunition for the use of the inhabitants. In this way the jail and the town were guarded for a week, when, as other arrests were to be made, and the disposition and efforts to rescue the prisoners seemed to be gaining extension and strength by co-operation from other counties, the sheriff, and the authorities of Hudson united in making a requisition upon the Governor for a military force from without the county of Columbia, in aid of the sheriff's posse.

It appearing to the satisfaction of the Governor, that a constant guard was necessary to secure the jail and the prisoners confined and who might be confined therein; that the presence of such a guard might be required until the cases of the prisoners should be finally disposed of by trial or otherwise; that the service required the strictness and vigilance of rigid military discipline, and could not be so securely performed by any organization which it was in the power of the Sheriff to give the posse comitatus; and believing as he did, that the character and probable duration of the service were such as were not contemplated by the law giving the power to the Sheriff to summon his civil posse, the request was granted, and a military force ordered and placed at the disposal of the Sheriff. Inasmuch as no means had been provided to subsist this force, the Sheriff was required to make that provision, but under the assurance that the matter would be laid before you, with a recommendation that you should remunerate him for the expense from the state treasury.

The report of the Adjutant General, herewith transmitted, will exhibit the amount and description of force thus called into the service of the State, with all the facts necessary to enable you to take the requisite action in regard to it.

All these steps on the part of my immediate predecessor have been taken, in my judgment, from sound views of the exigencies of the public service, and were dictated by the purest intention to discharge in a safe and proper manner, a most responsible and unpleasant public duty; and I cheerfully and earnestly recommend that as early provision as practicable be made for the payment of the men, for their subsistence for the future, in case it shall be thought necessary to continue them in service, and to discharge the fair and just accounts of the Sheriff of the county of Columbia, for their subsistence hitherto, and until provision by law shall be made.

I have already said, that I felt precluded from discussing what I understand to be the real questions between the proprietors and the tenants, so long as the present position of the controversy on the part of the tenants is maintained, as it excludes all idea of arrangement, amicable or legal, upon any basis which has suggested itself to me as within my power of recommendation. Indeed, not merely the questions but the parties to the controversy, have been practically changed by the violent proceedings alluded to ; and it now becomes my duty to call your attention to a struggle going on between a band of desperate men, who disguise their persons, and with arms in their hands, bid defiance to the law and its officers, on the one side, and the constituted authorities of the State, exerting the powers conferred upon them to preserve the peace, defend the rights, and protect the lives of the citizens, on the other. In such a controversy, there is but one side for the faithful public officer to take, whatever may be his office, or the trust confided to him ; and as upon me rests the express constitutional obligation to "take care that the laws are faithfully executed," which obligation I have sworn faithfully to discharge, I have no choice left, even if I were inclined, as I trust I am not, to doubt or hesitate. The laws must be executed. The rights of all must be respected. The public peace must be preserved. The lives of our peaceful fellow citizens must be protected ; and crimes must be prevented or punished. So far as the law as it now is clothes me with power to secure the accomplishment of these objects, or so far as it shall be your pleasure to confer additional authority, I hope to be able to exert it calmly and dispassionately, but with vigilance and firmness, and aided and sustained by the great body of our common constituents, as I am sure I shall be, I do not entertain a doubt of complete success. Indeed, I indulge the earnest hope that already the crisis is past ; that the events which have transpired have opened the eyes of those, who were looked to for aid and support by these desperate perpetrators of crime, and made it certain that no further outrages will be committed through their countenance or co-operation. If this reasonable hope shall be disappointed, still the laws must be executed, fall where they may, and affect whom they may.

Permit me to suggest, in conclusion of this subject, whether the facts here presented, and others constantly appearing before the public, should not induce you so to provide for the prevention and punishment of crime, as to enable the officers of justice to reach him who disguises his person for the purpose of committing crime with less exposure to detection. That the disguises of these organized bands, calling themselves Indians, are assumed for purposes unlawful and highly criminal,—an armed resistance to the execution of the law,—they themselves openly and publicly declare. After that offence, or other and higher crime has been perpetrated, the disguise is laid aside, and even eye witnesses, upon the spot, may not be able to identify the guilty. Can there be any violation of principle in making the use of the disguise itself an offence, subjecting the party at least to arrest, examination and identification, when evidence exists to satisfy the magistrate, or other officer of the peace, that the purpose for which the disguise is assumed is unlawful and criminal ? It appears to me there is not : and that a provision of this character, properly guarded, would go far to aid in the prevention of the crimes, which have been recently so daringly committed, under the protection of masks and other disguises. The suggestion is respectfully submitted for your careful consideration.

As the authority of the Governor to deliver from the State Arsenal, the arms and munitions of war for the use of the citizens of Hudson, as well as for the use of the militia called into service, may be matter of doubt and question, and as I am satisfied that the necessities of the occasion required the exercise of this discretion, I recommend that, by giving legal sanction to the act, you protect him both from responsibility and censure.

I cannot consent to close this communication without a brief reference to the interests of our State as a member of the Union. We have just passed through a presidential election, second to none which has preceded it, in the importance of the principles involved, or the deep and universal interest of the whole people in the contest. At no time has the excitement of feeling been more intense, and no similar election has passed away, with a more universal observance of public order. Seldom have the two great parties of the country arrayed themselves more distinctly upon the principles and measures of policy which divide them, or more unequivocally staked the result of a national contest upon the strength of their respective positions. Great issues, which, heretofore, have been but imperfectly joined, or sectionally tried, have now been universally recognized as presenting controlling questions in the canvass. The public lives, and the known and acknowledged principles, of the leading candidates of the respective parties, as clearly as these expressed issues, defined the grounds upon which the battle was to be fought. Those candidates were supported upon the principles and opinions, which, as statesmen, they had avowed and practised. The whole mass of the people were more universally appealed to and more elaborately addressed, than at any preceding election; and every freeman in the country enjoyed the fullest opportunity thoroughly to understand all the points in dispute, before he cast his vote. The conclusion is almost unavoidable, that, at no time has the whole public mind more perfectly understood all the important questions involved in an election, or more clearly comprehended the influences to be exerted by its decision, upon the future policy and measures of the national government.

It is reasonable to hope that, after so solemn a decision of the people, pronounced under such circumstances, the great interests of the country, which have long been kept in a condition of uncertainty and agitation, will be allowed repose; that the basis of the action of the federal government on the subject of the currency, may now be considered settled; that all further agitation on the question of assigning one entire branch of the permanent federal revenues to the states may be at an end; and that the principle upon which the revenues of that government, to be derived from customs, are to be assessed, is intelligibly defined. All these are subjects which deeply affect the business interests of every portion of the country, but more especially, and most deeply, the commercial and trading interests; and as the most commercial state of the Union, we have felt, with great severity, the uncertainty, the chance and the prospect of change, which, for many years past, have almost constantly surrounded all these questions.

Next to a policy based upon sound, constitutional principle, one which is stable, and which will realize for the future what it promises for the present, is the most important for all the great interests, agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing. The issue of the late election seems to promise these benefits, at least for a time, and until the recurrence of another similar canvass shall determine whether these issues are to be re-opened ; a result, in my opinion, greatly to be deprecated. No violent changes are required to conform the existing state of things to such a settled system as has been thus indicated. My entire conviction that the hands into which the administration of the Federal Government is to pass, are those which will most scrupulously respect these manifestations of the popular will, induces me to express this strong degree of confidence upon these points. That respect will draw to the new administration the continued confidence of the people, and secure the results anticipated, at least during its continuance.

Some apprehensions appear to be entertained of difficulty in our foreign relations, and an interruption of the peace of the country. I confess I cannot partake strongly of such fears. I am not aware of any good cause for such an interruption, existing in the relations between us and any other government ; and I firmly believe that a calm and statesmanlike course in the management of our relations with other powers, based upon broad national principles, and governed by the rule "to ask nothing which is not clearly right, and to submit to nothing which is wrong," will continue us in peace, or if it lead to a war, it will be such a war as every patriotic heart in the country will sustain and approve. That this rule will be the guide of the new administration, in its management of the foreign relations of the country, I fully believe.

Under these impressions in regard to our interests involved in the administration of the National Government, and in the strong assurance that the affairs of the State to be affected by your deliberations and action will be wisely disposed of ; with the continued smiles of that gracious Providence, which has hitherto so signally poured its blessings upon our country, I anticipate security and peace for our constituents, and prosperity for the State.

SILAS WRIGHT.

Albany, January 7, 1845.

On motion of Mr. Constant, .

Ordered, That the said message be committed to a committee of the whole house.

On motion of Mr. Bailey,

Resolved, That ten times the usual number of copies of the message of the Governor be printed for the use of the members of this House, and that three hundred and fifty copies be printed for the use of his Excellency the Governor.

On motion of Mr. Morrison,

Resolved, That Mr. Mersereau, of Richmond, on account of his deafness, have leave to select his seat from the row nearest the Speaker's chair.

Mr. M. Brooks offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the Chair, to prepare 128 ballots of uniform size, with numbers folded inside, for the purpose of drawing for seats by the members ; and when said ballots are prepared, they shall be placed in a box, located upon the Clerk's desk ; and when the roll shall be called, each member shall draw a number for himself, and publicly announce the same, and that the Clerk draw for the absentees.

Mr. Hannum moved to amend the said resolution, so that the same should read as follows :

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the Chair, to prepare 127 ballots of uniform size, with numbers folded inside, for the purpose of drawing for seats for the members ; and when said ballots are prepared, they shall be placed in a box, located upon the Clerk's desk : When the roll be called, a messenger appointed by the Speaker shall draw a number for each member, as their names are called, and publicly announce the same.

But before any question was taken thereon, the House, on motion of Mr. Coe, adjourned until to-morrow morning at eleven o'clock.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 8, 1845.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Prayer by the Rev. Mr. L. Scudder.

The minutes of yesterday were read and approved.

Mr. Speaker presented the petition of Abraham Acker, representing that he is entitled to a seat as member of the Assembly from the county of Cortland ; which was read, and referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

On motion of Mr. Coe,

Resolved, That the order of business, of "The presentation of petitions," be passed over.

A message from the Governor was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Albany, January 7, 1845. }

TO THE LEGISLATURE.

I transmit herewith the Annual Report of the Adjutant General, which, in addition to the information ordinarily communicated in that report, will furnish you with an accurate account of the military force which has been called into the service of the State, as mentioned in my annual message.

SILAS WRIGHT.

[See Document No. 3.]

Ordered, That the said report be laid on the table.

The report of the joint committee of the Senate and Assembly, appointed to examine the Treasurer's accounts, was received and read.

[See Document No. 4.]

Ordered, That the said report be laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Mather,

Resolved, That three hundred copies of the Adjutant General's report be printed for the use of the Military department.

A resolution of the Senate was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the joint rules of the Senate and Assembly, which were in force at the last session of the Legislature, be adopted for the government of the two houses during the present session.

On motion of Mr. Bailey,

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. Hannum called for the consideration of the amendment offered by him yesterday to the resolution offered by Mr. M. Brooks ; which said amendment is in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the Chair, to prepare 127 ballots of uniform size, with numbers folded inside, for the purpose of drawing for seats for the members ; and when said ballots are prepared, they shall be placed in a box, located upon the Clerk's desk : When the roll shall be called, a messenger appointed by the Speaker shall draw a number for each member as their names are called, and publicly announce the same.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would proceed to the consideration of the said amendment, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. M. Brooks accepted the said amendment as a substitute for the resolution offered by him yesterday.

Mr. Speaker then put the question whether the House would agree to the resolution, as offered by Mr. Hannum, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Bailey gave notice that, at an early day, he would introduce a bill extending the jurisdiction of justice's courts, so as to give them cognizance of all actions against corporations for the sum of one hundred dollars or under ; and for the repeal of that part of subdivision third of section fourth of article first of chapter second of part third of the Revised Statutes, which may conflict with the bill to be so introduced.

Mr. Harris gave notice that, on some future day, he would ask leave to introduce a bill, more effectually to prevent riots, and preserve the public peace.

Mr. Niven gave notice that he would ask leave, at an early day, to introduce a bill to prevent betting upon elections.

Mr. Bloss offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the following amendment to the Constitution of this State be adopted, to be prepared and published in the manner required by the Constitution in relation to amendments thereto :

So much of section first of article second, as prescribes a property qualification for colored voters, is hereby abrogated ; and in future, no other test, proof or qualification shall be required of or from persons of color in relation to their exercise of the right of suffrage, than is in this Constitution required of or from white persons.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Sweeney,

Resolved, That the order of business, being "Motions, resolutions and notices," be passed over, and that the House proceed to ballot for seats for the members.

Ordered, That Mr. M. Brooks, Mr. Hannum and Mr. Bailey, be the committee to prepare such ballots.

Mr. T. R. Lee offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the Clerk be directed to furnish the members and officers of the House with all usual and proper articles of stationery, and that the expenses be defrayed out of the contingent fund of the house.

Mr. Spring moved to amend the said resolution, by inserting after the word "officers," the words "and reporters."

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said amendment, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, as amended, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. M. Brooks, from the committee to prepare ballots for the purpose of drawing seats, reported that the committee had discharged that duty.

Thereupon a messenger was appointed in accordance with the resolution, who drew the seats for the members as follows :

A resolution of the Senate was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the joint library committee, to be appointed under the resolution of April 21st, 1840, shall consist of three members of the Senate and five members of the Assembly.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. J. Young,

The House then adjourned to eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 9, 1845.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Prayer by the Rev. Mr. Z. Phillips.

The minutes of yesterday were read and approved.

On motion of Mr. T. R. Lee,

Resolved, That the order of business, being "The presentation of petitions," be passed over.

The Senate sent for concurrence, the bill entitled "An act to authorize the holding of a special court of oyer and terminer in and for the county of Columbia;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Oakley gave notice that he would ask leave, at an early day, to present a bill for the registry of voters in this State, for the purpose of preventing illegal voting.

Mr. Mather gave notice that he would, at an early day, move for leave to introduce a bill relative to the militia and public defence.

On motion of Mr. Coe,

Resolved, That the Clerk be directed, under the advice of the Speaker, to cause a railing to be erected across the Assembly chamber, at such distance in rear of the back tier of seats of members as to leave a convenient passage; and that the expense thereof be paid from the contingent fund of this house.

Mr. Garretson gave notice that he would, on some future day, introduce a bill repealing the mill tax.

Mr. Morrison gave notice that he would, at some future day, introduce a bill to abolish the right of the judges of the superior court and court of common pleas in the city of New-York to receive fees for chamber orders, and to give them salaries instead thereof.

Mr. Fenn gave notice that he would ask leave, at an early day, to present a bill for the payment of all jurors in the city and county of New-York.

Mr. Blake gave notice that, at an early day, he would ask leave to present a bill for the purpose of suppressing licentiousness.

On motion of Mr. Constant,

Resolved, That one hundred and fifty extra copies of the report of the joint committee of the Senate and Assembly on the Treasurer's accounts, be printed for the use of the Banking department.

Mr. M'Carthy gave notice that he would, on some future day, introduce a bill to renew and extend an act entitled "An act to increase the revenues of the State, by extending the market for salt, coal and lead."

Mr. Thompson gave notice that he would, at an early day, ask leave to introduce a bill to provide for the compensation of jurors and witnesses.

Mr. Thayer gave notice that, at some future day, he would ask leave to introduce a bill to renew and extend the act entitled "An act to provide for the construction of a railroad from Oswego to Syracuse," passed April 29th, 1839.

Mr. D. Lee gave notice that he would, at an early day, ask leave to introduce a bill relating to the ferry at Blackrock.

Mr. Morrison gave notice that he would, at some future day, introduce a bill to abolish the marine court in the city of New-York, extend the jurisdiction of the assistant justice's court in said city, abolish the salaries of the assistant justices and their clerks, and give them fees in lieu thereof.

Mr. Morrison gave notice that he would, at some future day, introduce a bill to abolish capital punishments.

The House then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to authorize the holding of a special court of oyer and terminer in and for the county of Columbia;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Huntington, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

On motion of Mr. Harris,

The House then adjourned to eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1845.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Prayer by the Rev. Mr. A. Bronson.

The minutes of yesterday were read and approved.

On motion of Mr. Coe,

Resolved, That the present order of business, consisting of "The presentation of petitions," be passed over.

Mr. Niven, from the select committee on the rules and orders, reported in part, and concluded by recommending the adoption of the rules and orders of the last session, without amendment.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree with the committee in their said report, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The said rules and orders are as follows, to wit :

RULES AND ORDERS OF THE ASSEMBLY.

1. Upon the appearance of a quorum, the Speaker having taken the chair, and the members being called to order, the journal of the preceding day shall be read, to the end that any mistakes therein may be corrected by the House : and in all cases of the absence of a quorum the members present may take such measures as shall be necessary to procure the attendance of absent members ; and the Speaker, with the consent of the majority of the members present, may adjourn from day to day until a quorum shall appear.

2. After the reading and approving of the journal, the order of business, which shall not in any case be departed from, except by the unanimous consent of the House, shall be as follows :

1. The presentation of petitions.
  2. Reports of standing committees.
  3. Reports of select committees.
  4. Messages from the Governor.
  5. Communications from the State officers.
  6. Messages from the Senate.
  7. Third reading of bills and resolutions.
  8. Motions, resolutions and notices.
  9. Unfinished business of the preceding day.
  10. Special orders of the day ; and if in any case the unfinished business of the preceding day shall have taken the place of special orders, these orders shall be taken up and acted on in their order of time.
  11. Unfinished business generally.
  12. General orders of the day ; but messages from the Governor, communications from State officers, and messages from the Senate may be considered at any time.
3. Motions for reference to different committees shall be put in the following order :

1. The committee of the whole.
2. To a standing committee.
3. To a select committee.
4. No bill laying a tax, or making any appropriation or disposition of the public moneys or property, or authorizing the borrowing of money, or the loaning of money, or of the credit of the State, shall be ordered to a third reading without having been acted on in committee of the whole.
5. The Speaker shall cause the Clerk to make a list of all bills, resolutions and reports of committees, and other proceedings of the House which are committed to a committee of the whole, and not made the special order of the day for any particular day; which list shall be called "The General Orders of the Day."
6. All questions relating to the priority of business, shall be decided without debate.
7. The Speaker shall preserve order and decorum, and shall decide all questions of order, subject to appeal to the House. On every appeal from the decision of the Speaker, he shall have the right in his place to assign his reasons for his decision. He shall have the right to name any member to perform the duties of the chair, but such a substitution shall not extend beyond one day, unless by leave of the House.
8. When the House shall be equally divided, including the Speaker's vote, the question shall be lost.
9. While the Speaker is putting the question, no member shall walk across, or out of the House.
10. When the House adjourns, the members shall keep their seats until the Speaker shall have left the chair.
11. Every member previous to his speaking, shall rise from his seat and address himself to the Speaker.
12. When two or more members rise at once, the Speaker shall name the member who is first to speak.
13. No member shall speak more than twice to the same general question without leave of the House; nor more than once in any case, until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken.
14. While a member is speaking, no member shall entertain any private discourse, or pass between him and the chair.
15. A member called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain. All decisions of the chair on questions of order shall be conclusive, unless reserved on appeal to the House.
16. Every member who shall be present when a question is stated from the chair, shall vote thereon, unless he be excused by the House, or unless he be directly interested in the question, in which case he shall not vote. No member shall be permitted to vote on any question, unless present when, upon such a division, his name is called in regular order.
17. Petitions, memorials, and other papers addressed to the House shall be presented by the Speaker, or by a member in his place.
18. Every member previous to presenting a petition or memorial shall endorse on the same the substance thereof, and add his name;

the clerk shall then read the endorsement ; after which, the Speaker shall put the question on the reference of said petition or memorial.

19. No motion shall be debated or put, unless it be seconded ; when a motion is seconded, it shall be stated by the Speaker before debate ; and every such motion shall be reduced to writing, if the Speaker or any member desire it.

20. After a motion is stated by the Speaker, it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the House, but may be withdrawn at any time before a decision or amendment.

21. If the question in debate contain several distinct propositions, any member may have the same divided ; but a motion to strike out and insert shall be indivisible.

22. When a blank is to be filled, and different sums or times are proposed, the question shall first be put on the largest sum and longest time.

23. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received unless for a call of the House, for the previous question, to postpone it indefinitely, to adjourn it to a certain day, to lay it on the table, to commit it, to amend it, or to adjourn the House.

24. A motion to lay a question on the table shall be decided without amendment or debate ; a motion to commit, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendment and debate of the main question ; and a motion to postpone a question indefinitely, or to adjourn it to a day certain, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendment of the main question.

25. The " previous question " shall be as follows—"Shall the main question be now put ?" It shall be admitted only when demanded by a majority of the members present, and until it is decided, shall preclude all amendment or debate. When on taking the previous question, the House shall decide that the previous question shall not now be put, the main question shall be considered as still remaining under debate. The " main question " shall be on the passage of the bill, resolution, or other matter under consideration ; and in cases where there shall be pending amendments which have been adopted in committee of the whole, but not acted on in the House, the question shall first be taken upon such amendments in their order, and without further debate or amendment.

26. A motion to adjourn the House shall always be in order, and decided without debate.

27. In all cases where a bill, order, resolution or motion, shall be entered on the journal of this House, the name of the member moving the same shall also be entered on the journal.

28. If any ten members require it, the ayes and nays upon any question shall be taken and entered upon the journal.

29. All committees shall be appointed by the Speaker, unless otherwise specially directed by the House, in which case they shall be appointed by ballot.

30. Select committees to whom original references are made, and all committees to whom private claims are referred, shall in all cases report a state of facts with their opinions thereon.

31. Every bill originating in this House, shall be introduced by motion for leave, or by an order of the House and the report of the committee. One day's notice at least shall be given of a motion for leave to bring in a bill, unless the House otherwise unanimously allow ; such notices shall specify the subject matter of such bill ; and all resolutions of reference and instruction to committees shall state the subject to be referred.

32. All bills brought into this House by any member or committee, shall be endorsed with the name of the member or committee bringing in the same ; all bills introduced by members on leave shall be referred to one of the standing committees, or to a select committee ; such committee may report adversely to the entire bill with or without amendment, and the bill, if any, reported by such a committee, shall then become the bill before the House for consideration.

33. No private bill shall be brought into this House, but upon a memorial or petition presented to the House, and signed by the party or parties praying for such bill, except by the unanimous consent of the House.

34. No bill shall be committed or amended until it has been twice read.

35. Every message from the Senate communicating any bill for the concurrence of this House, shall, with the accompanying documents, if any, be referred to a standing or select committee to consider and report thereon.

36. All amendments by the Senate to bills which have passed this House, shall be referred to a standing or select committee, to examine and report thereon, unless the House shall otherwise expressly order or allow.

37. In forming a committee of the whole House, the Speaker shall leave the chair, and a chairman be appointed to preside.

38. The rules of the House shall be observed in the committee of the whole House, except the rules respecting a call for the ayes and nays and times of speaking.

39. Bills committed to a committee of the whole House, shall, in committee of the whole thereon, be first read through, if desired by any member, and then read and debated by clauses, leaving the title to be last considered. All amendments shall be noted on a separate piece of paper, and reported to the House by the chairman of the committee of the whole : After the report, the bill shall be still subject to debate and amendment before the question to engross is put ; and such amendments only shall be in order, as were offered and decided in committee of the whole House.

40. A similar mode of proceeding shall be observed with bills which have originated in the Senate, as with bills originating in this House.

41. If, at any time when in committee of the whole House, there be not present a quorum to do business, the chairman shall immediately report that fact to the Speaker.

42. On a motion in committee of the whole House to rise and report progress, the question shall be decided without debate.

43. Every bill shall receive three several readings previous to its being passed; and the second and third readings shall be on different days; and the third reading shall be on a day subsequent to that on which the bill passed in committee of the whole House, unless the House unanimously direct otherwise.

44. A standing committee of five members shall be appointed to be called "the committee on engrossed bills;" whose duty it shall be carefully to examine all the bills passed by this House, and see that the same are correctly engrossed, and report the same to the House before they are signed by the Speaker.

45. Reports from the committee on engrossed bills shall at all times be in order, and have the preference to any other business.

46. When a bill passes the House, the Speaker shall certify the same with the date thereof, at the foot of the bill.

47. No motion for reconsideration shall be in order unless on the same day or day following that on which the decision proposed to be reconsidered took place; nor unless one of the majority shall move such consideration. A motion for reconsideration being put and lost, shall not be renewed; nor shall any subject be a second time reconsidered, without unanimous consent.

48. A standing committee of five members shall be appointed on bills coming within the ninth Section of the seventh Article of the amended Constitution of this State; and when any bill shall have passed in committee of the whole House, on which the Speaker may entertain doubts whether it comes within the provision of the said ninth section, it shall be referred to the said committee to examine and report thereon, before the question on the final passage shall be taken.

49. On the final passage of all bills requiring two-thirds, the ayes and nays shall be taken and entered on the Journal, and the Speaker shall certify upon every such bill, when passed, that two-thirds of all members elected to this House voted in favor of the same.

50. A motion to reconsider the vote on the final passage of any bill, requiring the assent of two-thirds of all the members elected to this House, shall be made by a member who voted in favor of the decision of the House on the question on the final passage of the bill; and two-thirds of the members elected to the House shall be required to reconsider the same; and such vote shall not be a second time reconsidered. But the vote on the final passage of any bill creating, continuing, altering or renewing any moneyed incorporation shall not be reconsidered whenever such bill shall be lost.

51. No standing rule or order of this House, shall be suspended, changed or rescinded, without one day's previous notice being given of the motion therefor; nor shall the fiftieth rule be altered, changed, rescinded or suspended, unless two-thirds of all members elected to this House agree to such alteration, change, rescinding or suspension.

52. No person, unless in the exercise of an official duty, or by special invitation of a member, shall be admitted on the floor of the House, except the Executive, State Officers, the Chancellor, the Judges of the Supreme Court, and circuit judges, members of the Senate, and former members of the Legislature.

53. Standing committees, consisting of five members each, shall be appointed on the following subjects:

 Public Printing,
 Expenditures in the Executive Department,
 Expenditures of the House.

And it shall be the duty of each of the several committees to inquire into the matters indicated by its name, and to report thereon to the House any information, and any bill or resolution, which it may deem conducive to the public good.

54. No printing shall be done for the House without the order of the House made in each case, except in the case of bills reported favorably upon by a committee of the House, and the written reports of standing committees.

55. It shall be the duty of the committee on public printing to examine and report on all questions of printing referred to them, and to state an approximate estimate of the cost in the particular case referred, when practicable; to examine from time to time, and ascertain whether the prices charged for printing are in conformity to the contract therefor, and whether it is done in conformity to the orders of the House, and without unreasonable delay; to ascertain and report what number of copies ought usually to be printed, and how distributed, and to report to the House, from time to time, any measures they may deem useful for the economical and proper management of the public printing.

56. It shall be the duty of the committee on expenditures of the House, and in the Executive Department, severally to inquire into the said expenditures, and whether the same have been made in conformity to law, and whether proper vouchers exist for the same, and whether the funds provided for the purpose are economically applied, and to report from time to time, such provisions, laws and regulations, as may conduce to economy, and secure the faithful disbursement of the moneys appropriated by law.

57. Resolutions giving rise to debate, and those containing calls for information from the Executive Department, shall lie over one day for consideration, after which they may be called up, by the mover, of course, under that order of business.

58. It shall be the duty of the committee on ways and means to examine into all the departments of the government, whether Executive, Legislative, Judicial, or otherwise, where salaries or emoluments are given; to examine, ascertain and report to the House what officers can be dispensed with, and what salaries and emoluments can be reduced, and how far consistent with the public good.

[See Document No. 5.]

A message from the Governor was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }

TO THE LEGISLATURE.

Not having observed, at the time of the transmission of my annual message, that our statute seems to require that notice should be given to the Legislature of vacancies existing in the offices of senator of the United States from this State, the subject was not adverted to in that communication. The resignations of both the late senators from this State have since been placed in my hands, by the late Governor; the one received by that officer on the twenty-first, and the other on the twenty-sixth of November last.

I communicate the fact that these resignations were then made, as a notice to you that the offices of both the senators from this State became vacant during the last recess of the Legislature. The places are now filled by executive appointments, and, in conformity with the statute referred to, will call for your early action.

SILAS WRIGHT.

Ordered, That the said message be laid on the table.

Mr. Hannum gave notice that he would, at an early day, introduce a bill, allowing the people of the several towns and cities of the State of New-York to say whether license or no license shall be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Mr. J. Young gave notice that he would, on some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill in relation to the temporary relief of the poor of the county of Livingston.

On motion of Mr. Horton,

Resolved, That the Clerk procure to be printed, six hundred copies of the list of members of the House, with their residences, for the accommodation of its members.

[See Document No. 15.]

Mr. Hine gave notice that, at some early day, he would introduce a bill for making the office of district attorney in the county of Ulster, a salary office.

Mr. Bailey gave notice that he would, at an early day, ask leave to introduce a bill to recharter the West-Point Foundry Association.

Mr. Barber gave notice that, at some future day, he would ask leave to bring in a bill to make the office of district attorney for the county of Cortland a salary office.

Mr. M'Key gave notice that he would, on some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill to amend the act entitled "An act to reduce the number of canal commissioners, and provide for their election by the people," passed May 6th, 1844.

Mr. Frisbee gave notice that he would, at an early day, introduce a bill to amend the act to incorporate the village of Fredonia, so as to increase the number of overseers of highways, and to facilitate the opening and laying out streets.

Mr. Van Valkenburgh gave notice that he would, at an early day, introduce a bill providing appropriations for repairs on the Crooked Lake Canal.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Thayer asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act to amend the charter of the Oswego and Syracuse Railroad Company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to the committee on railroads.

Mr. Moulton gave notice that he would, on some future day, introduce a bill to provide the clerk of the court of general sessions, and register of the city of New-York, with seals.

Mr. D. Lee gave notice that he would, at an early day, ask leave to introduce a bill to allow the common council of the city of Buffalo to fund the public debt of said city.

Mr. Morrison gave notice that, at some future day, he would introduce a bill to allow a party plaintiff in suits on contract to recover of any defendant against whom he proves a demand, and to give costs to those against whom he fails.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Niven asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act to preserve the purity of elections;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

The House then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to authorize the holding of a special court of oyer and terminer in and for the county of Columbia;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Huntington, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree with the committee in their report, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the said bill be engrossed for a third reading.

Mr. Speaker announced the appointment of the standing committee on privileges and elections, to consist of Mr. Niven, Mr. C. B. Miller, Mr. Morris, Mr. Harris and Mr. Horton.

A communication from the Treasurer was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

TREASURER'S OFFICE, }
Albany, January 9, 1845. }

TO THE SPEAKER OF THE ASSEMBLY.

SIR,

I have the honor herewith to transmit to the Legislature my Annual Report.

With great respect,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS FARRINGTON, Treasurer.

[See Document No. 6.]

On motion of Mr. M. Brooks,

Ordered, That two hundred and fifty extra copies of the said report be printed for the use of the Treasurer.

On motion of Mr. Coe,

The House then adjourned to eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 11, 1845.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Prayer by the Rev. Mr. M. L. Scudder.

The minutes of yesterday were read and approved.

On motion of Mr. Hannum,

Resolved, That the present order of business, consisting of "The presentation of petitions," be passed over.

A report of the Secretary of State, relative to the publication of the proposed amendments to the Constitution, was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

STATE OF NEW-YORK, }
SECRETARY'S OFFICE, }
Albany, Jan. 11, 1845.

TO THE LEGISLATURE.

The duty enjoined upon the Secretary of State by the concurrent resolutions of the Senate and Assembly of the 6th and also of the 7th of May last, has been performed; and the several proposed amendments to the Constitution which, during the last session of the Legislature, were passed, by each of the Houses, by the constitutional vote, have been published for three months next preceding the last general election, once in each week, in the State paper, and also in one newspaper in each county of this State in which a paper was published, as will appear by the affidavit of each of the publishers, which affidavits are herewith transmitted. A schedule also accompanies this, containing the names of all the counties alphabetically arranged, and the name of the paper in each county in which publication was made, with the exception of the counties of Hamilton and Rockland, in which no paper was published.

A copy of the said several proposed amendments is also herewith transmitted.

All which is respectfully submitted.

S. YOUNG, Secr'y of State.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION.

RESOLUTION

Proposing certain Amendments to the Constitution, in relation to State debt and liability.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the following Amendments be proposed to the Constitution of this State, and that the same be referred to the Legislature next to be chosen, and published in the manner prescribed by the eighth article of the Constitution :

AMENDMENT No. 1.

The pledges and guarantees of the act, entitled "An act to provide for paying the debts and preserving the credit of the State," passed March 29, 1842, are hereby confirmed ; and the revenues specified therein shall be applied to the purposes therein specified, including the repayment to the United States Deposit Fund, and to the Common School Fund, of all moneys of the said funds, which have been or shall be invested in pursuance of the said act, in such equal annual sums as will be sufficient to pay in full, both principal and interest, all the debts and liabilities of this State, as they existed at the time of the passage of the said act ; and also all the debts and liabilities of the State authorized by said act to be created and incurred, and which have been created and incurred by authority of, and pursuant to said act, in the period of twenty-two and a half years from the time said act was passed and took effect ; and the Legislature shall not divert any part of the revenues appropriated by said act, requisite to pay in full, both principal and interest, all the debts and liabilities of the State herein before specified, within the fixed period of time, and in the equal annual sums hereinbefore expressed, from the purposes to which they are hereinbefore directed to be applied.

AMENDMENT No. 2.

The Legislature shall not in any manner create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities of the State, direct or contingent, which shall singly or in the aggregate, at any time, exceed one million of dollars, except to repel invasion, or suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorized by law for some single object or work, to be distinctly specified therein ; and such law shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax sufficient to pay the interest of such debt or liability as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt or liability within eighteen years from the time of the contracting thereof ; and no such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received the sanction of a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election. And on the final passage of every such bill, in either house of the Legislature, the question shall be taken by ayes and nays, duly entered on the journal, and shall be, " Shall this bill pass, and ought the same to receive the sanction of the people ?" and the assent of a majority of the members elected to each house of the Legislature shall be requisite to the passage of such bill ; and such law shall be irrevocable until such debt or liability, and the interest thereon, are fully paid and discharged ; and the moneys arising from any loans or stocks creating such debt or liability, shall be applied to the object or work specified in the act authorizing such debt or liability, or for the payment of such debt or liability, and to no other purpose whatever. Where a debt or liability on the part of the State shall be created to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, the moneys arising from the loans or stock creating such debt or liability, shall be applied to the purpose for which the same were raised, or for the repayment of such debt or liability, and to no other purpose whatever.

RESOLUTION

Proposing an Amendment to the Constitution, in relation to the Court of Chancery.

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the following Amendment be proposed to the Constitution of this State, and that the same be referred to the Legislature next to be chosen, and published in the manner prescribed by the eighth article of the Constitution :

AMENDMENT.

The Court of Chancery shall consist of the Chancellor and three Associate Chancellors, any of whom may hold the court. The said Associate Chancellors shall have the same powers, be appointed in the same manner, hold their offices by the same tenure, and be subject to the same disqualifications as to holding any other office or public trust, or receiving votes for any elective office, as the Chancellor.

RESOLUTION

Proposing an Amendment to the Constitution, in relation to the Supreme Court.

Resolved, (If the Assembly concur,) That the following Amendment be proposed to the Constitution of this State, and that the same be referred to the Legislature next to be chosen, and published in the manner prescribed by the eighth article of the Constitution :

AMENDMENT.

Two additional Justices of the Supreme Court shall be appointed, who shall have the same powers, be appointed in the same manner, hold their offices by the same tenure, and be subject to the same disqualifications as to holding any other office or trust, or receiving votes for any elective office, as the other justices of that court.

RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution, in relation to the removal of judicial officers.

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the following Amendment be proposed to the Constitution of this State, and that the same be referred to the Legislature next to be chosen, and published in the manner prescribed by the eighth article of the Constitution :

AMENDMENT.

No judicial officer shall be removed by the joint resolution of the two Houses of the Legislature, or by the Senate on the recommendation of the Governor, unless the cause of such removal shall be entered on the journal of both Houses, or of the Senate, as the case may be ; and such officer against whom the Legislature or the Senate may be about to proceed shall be served with notice thereof, accompanied with a copy of the causes alleged for his removal, at least twenty days before the day on which either house shall act thereupon, and shall have an opportunity to be heard in his defence before any question shall be taken upon such removal : and the yeas and nays shall be entered upon the Journals of the Senate, or Houses, as the case may be.

RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution, to abrogate the property qualification for office.

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the following Amendment be proposed to the Constitution of this State, and that the same be referred to the Legislature next to be chosen, and published in the manner prescribed by the eighth article of the Constitution :

AMENDMENT.

No property qualification shall be required to render a person eligible to or capable of holding any office or public trust in this State.

[See Document No. 7.]

Ordered, That the said report be laid on the table.

A communication from the Chancellor of the University was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

TO THE HON. THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF NEW-YORK.

I am directed by the Regents of the University to announce to the Legislature, that the seat of William Campbell, as a member of their board, has become vacant by his death.

PETER WENDELL, Chancellor.

Albany, January 10, 1845.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the following resolution from the Senate, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the joint library committee, to be appointed under the resolution of April 21st, 1840, shall consist of three members of the Senate and five members of the Assembly.

The same having been read,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would concur with the Senate in their said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the said resolution to the Senate, and inform them that the Assembly have concurred in the same without amendment.

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to authorize the holding of a special court of oyer and terminer in and for the county of Columbia," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The report of the Trustees of the State Library, on the expediency of purchasing, for the use of the State, the library of David B. Warden of Paris, consisting of books relating to America, was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

To the Hon. HORATIO SEYMOUR,

Speaker of the Assembly :

SIR—It appears by the Journals of your House, that on the 18th of April, 1843, the following resolution was adopted by the Hon. the Assembly :

"Resolved, That the Trustees of the State Library be directed to enquire into the expediency of purchasing for the use of the State, the collection of books, maps, &c., now in the possession of Mr. Warden of Paris, relating to America."

This subject has subsequently been brought before the consideration of the Trustees, on an independent application for the purchase of said library. It was referred to the investigation of a committee whose report has been received and approved by the Trustees, and I herewith transmit to you the same.

I remain, respectfully,

Your obed't serv't,

PETER WENDELL,

Chancellor of the University.

TO THE HONORABLE THE ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEW-YORK.

The Trustees of the State Library respectfully report :

The library of Mr. Warden, as offered for sale to the State of New-York, consists, according to a printed and an additional manuscript catalogue, furnished by Isaiah Townsend, Esq., of this city, of the following books, maps, charts, &c.:

- 96 volumes in folio.
- 504 volumes in quarto.
- 1,248 volumes in octavo.
- 336 volumes in duodecimo.
- 1 volume in 18mo.

2,185 volumes and of 12 atlases, 121 separate maps, charts and plans, 9 medals and 2 prints.

The books are classified as follows in the catalogue :

Universal Geography, Topography and Statistics, including those of America.—This comprises about 67 volumes, and among these are the works of Heylin, Thevet, Montpalare, Mallet, Barrow, and of a number of modern geographers.

The Geography and Topography of North and South America.—The catalogue of this department is quite extensive, occupying seventeen pages of the printed catalogue and a portion of the manuscript one. Among these are the works of Peter Martyr, De Bry in four volumes (all relating to America), Acosta, Ramusio, Herrera, Purchas, De Laet, Piso, Thevenet, Las Casas, Garcia, Don Ulloa, Navarette, Hakluyt, Dampier, Anson, Phipps, Forster, La Perouse, Portlock and Dixon, Vancouver, Billings, D'Entrecasteaux and many others of a similar character. It includes, also, Recopilacion de Leyes de Los Reynos de las Indias, in 4 vols. folio, 1681.

Martiniere, Geographical and Historical Dictionary, in 6 vols. folio.
Prevost, Histoire Generale des Voyages, 23 vols. 4to&8vo.

Robin's Voyage to the United States in 1781, and his Campaign with Count Rochambeau.

Count De Grasse's Memoir on the Naval Engagement of April 12, 1782.

History of North and South America.—Including Herrera (several of his works), Gomara, Las Casas (Venice, 1630), Vasconcelos, Torquemada, Osorio, Tournon, Abbe Raynal, Mariana, and several English Historians, with a number of modern works.

Geography, Topography and Statistics of South America, in general, and of the respective Countries in it.—This is an important and extensive division, occupying thirteen pages of the printed catalogue and several of the manuscript one. Of the general works may be enumerated those of the Ulloas, Coudamine, Depons, De Azara, Helmes, Humboldt and Bonpland (in 3 vols. 4to), the Geographico, Historical Dictionary, in Spanish and English, of Alcedo, each in five volumes, and the more modern works of Bonnycastle, Brackenridge, Waterton and Miers.

On Brazil, specially, there are fourteen volumes.

On Columbia, there are twenty-eight volumes.

On Guiana, Cayenne, &c., there are thirty-two volumes.

On Peru, there are twenty-two volumes.

On the Argentine Republic, there are twelve volumes.

On Paraguay, there are eight volumes.

On Chili, there are ten volumes.

North America, (late Spanish Possessions).—On Mexico, there are 30 volumes, and of these are the works of De Solis, Clavigero, Diaz del Castillo, Lorenzana, Gomara, Padilla, and a copy of the Antiquities Mexicanes, in two volumes folio, published under the auspices of the French government, and sold at $110 per copy.

On Guatemala, one volume.

On California, four volumes.

United States of America.—This occupies upwards of forty octavo pages of the Catalogue. Under the general head (eight pages) are to be found the works of La Hontan, Kalm, Robert Rogers, Denton, Douglas, Carver, Bossu, Brissot de Warville, Imlay, La Rochefoucauld Liancourt, Pictet, Chastellux, Moser, Schopf, Cooper, Coxe, Bonnet, Volney, Michaux, Robin, Stoddart, Bradbury, Nuttall, Long, James, Beltrami, Schoolcraft, Flint, Pike, Silliman, Dwight, Melish, Beaujour, Turreau and Collet, and a very interesting work to us as Americans, being a copy of the original edition of General Chastellux's Travels from Newport to Philadelphia, Albany, &c., printed on board the French squadron at Newport, and of which only twenty-seven copies were taken. This was obtained from the Empress Josephine's library at Malmaison.

History of the United States, (7 pages.)—Among these are Penhallow, Burke, Prince, Oldmixon, Bouquets' Expedition against the Ohio Indians in 1764, Raynal, Hazard, Boucher, Chalmers' Political Annals, and a number of histories and works elucidatory of the revolution, and of the war of 1812.

Works relating to the Indians of North America.—Thirteen volumes.

occurring in New France, (Canada,) related by the Catholic missionaries, and if complete are very valuable.

Education, Commerce and Agriculture.—The names of works on these occupy five pages, and they include several valuable works on neutral commerce, and the questions arising from it.

Laws, Constitutions, &c., of the United States, (3 pages.)

Scientific works, Botany, Mineralogy, (4 pages.)—The Transactions of Learned Societies; the Botanical Works of Schoepf, Pulteney, Marshall, Michaux, Nuttall, Jacquin, Walter, Plumier, and the mineralogical one of Cleaveland, &c.

Political works relating to the United States, (4 pages.)—Several interesting works illustrative of history. Marbois on the Treason of Arnold, Richard Price and others on the American Contest, Affairs of England in North America, fourteen volumes, published in 1776, at Antwerp, Mazzis' Book, Count Mirabeau on the Order of the Cincinnati.

Miscellaneous works and Biography, (4 pages.)

To these succeed works relating to the different States and Territories.

On Florida, eleven volumes.

On Louisiana, twenty-one volumes.

On Carolina, eighteen volumes.

Among these is a splendid copy of Catesby's Natural History of Carolina, Florida and the Bahama Islands, in two volumes, folio, and of which the usual selling price is said to be ten guineas. This copy is from the Empress Josephine's library.

On Georgia and Virginia, fourteen volumes.

And among these is a copy of Jefferson's Notes of Virginia, being the proof sheets, with corrections in the hand writing of the author.

On Maryland, Kentucky, &c., ten volumes.

On Ohio and Pennsylvania, thirteen volumes.

On New-York, eight volumes.

On the New-England States, eleven volumes.

Canada and the British Possessions, (3 pages.)—We have here the works of Champlain, Diereville, Charlevoix, Hearne, Umfreville, Cartwright, Mackenzie, Bouchette, Sir John Franklin, Kenney, Harman and Heriot.

West-Indies.—The catalogue of works on their geography, topography and statistics, fills seven pages, and appears to be very complete.

Voyages to the Southern Hemisphere, (3 pages.)

Maps, Charts, Plans, &c.—The description of these occupies no less than fourteen pages, and it includes a number of atlases; of maps of America, and portions of it as far back as 1690, 1700, 1717, 1720, 1733; a map of the French and English possessions in Canada and part of Louisiana, Paris, 1756; a map of the province of New-York, prepared by order of Governor Tryon, and published by Sauthier in 1776; a number of plans of battles and engagements during the American revolution. "Several of the charts are so rare that Mr. Sparks had them copied for his excellent work, 'The Writings of Washington.'"

Medals.—There are also eight medals, relating to the American revolution, all struck in France, two in honor of the battles of Eutaw and the Cowpens, and three with portraits of Franklin, General Greene and Paul Jones. There is a ninth medal in honor of Commodore Biddle.

Two Engravings, one of the Battle of Bunker Hill, by Trumbull; and a second, of the Death of General Montgomery, conclude this portion of the Catalogue, but the committee cannot end this brief and discursory notice of it, without mentioning that the following valuable works (in themselves) are also offered, because they contain matters relating to the United States.

Proceedings of the Royal Academy of Sciences, 44 volumes 4to.

Encyclopedie Methodique, 32 volumes 4to.

Monthly Review, London, 46 volumes 8to.

Biographie Des Hommes du Jour., 6 volumes 4to.

It is probable that, by a more critical examination of the Manuscript Catalogue, the number of volumes in many of the divisions enumerated above would be considerably increased.

As to the value of this collection, the following letters have been submitted to your committee.

Copy of a Letter from Jared Sparks to Isaiah Townsend, dated Cambridge, (Mass.,) May 10, 1844.

DEAR SIR—I have received your letter asking my opinion of the character and value of the Collection of Books offered for sale by Mr. Warden. After a partial examination of the books themselves, in Paris, and a careful inspection of the Catalogue, I cannot hesitate to say, that I think they would make an extremely important addition to any public library in the United States, which does not already possess them. I know, from my own experience, that books on America are becoming more and more scarce in Europe, because the demand is increasing, and very few of them are reprinted. It is, moreover, a rare chance to find any considerable number of these books on sale at one time. It would take years to make such a collection as that of Mr. Warden, and if the works were ordered separately, the average cost would be much larger than the price at which he will sell them; because it would be swelled by booksellers' commissions and other charges. In my opinion, therefore, the expediency of procuring such a collection, by any institution which has the means, cannot, for a moment, be doubted. There is scarcely a probability that an opportunity of this kind will again occur for a long term of years.

Mr. Warden's first collection was purchased about twenty years ago by Mr. Eliot of Boston, for $5,000, and presented to Harvard College. To this was added another collection of greater extent, bought in Germany, and presented by Mr. Thorndike. But still our library of books is not complete, and we are now negotiating with Mr. Rich of London to supply deficiencies, to the amount of three or four thousand dollars. He has been for sixteen years assiduously engaged in searching for books of this description in the European markets. He told me in London, that he asked $10,000 for the whole that he had been able to procure. I mention these particulars to show that books of this class, so important to our history, cannot be easily obtained, nor at reduced prices. The difficulty will be daily increased, and the prices will certainly never fall.

The maps and charts, the titles of which are contained in Mr. Warden's catalogue, are many of them peculiarly valuable, and of some of them, particularly those relating to the military movements of the revolution, I know of no copies in the United States. And, in fact, it is by mere accident that they can now be found anywhere. It is only necessary to run one's eye over the titles to be convinced of their historical importance.

I will only add, that as an American, I should deem it a fortunate circumstance, if these books were brought into the country and deposited in a public library, where they might be accessible to those who may wish to inform themselves or others of our progress as a nation, and of the achievements of our ancestors, on which are founded our present national condition, character and prosperity.

Extract from a letter from Jared Sparks to Isaiah Townsend, dated Cambridge, November 25, 1844.

For the honor of the country and the benefit of your State, I hope Mr. Warden's collection of books will be purchased for your State library. Books on America are every day becoming more rare, and the prices at which the old ones now sell are ten fold greater than formerly; nor will these prices ever be less. At an auction sale of English books in Boston, two or three months past, several books of this description were sold, and they were all bid off at enormous prices.

Extract of a letter from George Bancroft to Isaiah Townsend, dated Boston, May 12, 1844.

I hope you will be able to secure for your New-York State library Warden's American collection. I have not his catalogue, and can therefore form no judgment of its pecuniary value; but some experience leads me to know the difficulty of getting together books on American history. Warden's position in Paris has been extremely favorable for that end, and the next eighteen years of diligence could achieve less than the last. Every year enhances the cost and difficulty of making these collections.

GENTLEMEN—

Having seen, when I was in Paris in the year 1839, the library of Mr. Warden, I take great pleasure in stating to you that the books mentioned in the "Bibliotheca Americana," which was placed in my hands as chairman of the State Library committee, are as valuable, on account of the enlightened discrimination with which they have been selected, as they are by the excellent preservation in which they have been kept. I can truly say, that with the exception of the royal libraries of Paris, there are no where to be found so many works of acknowledged celebrity, and which may prove so useful to the chroniclers of America, as those contained in the collection which Mr. Warden has procured during forty years residence in Paris, where books now scarce and "out of print," are only to be obtained. If the State should add that unrivalled choice of books relating to America, it would mark the New-York State Library as the only one in the new world where historians or compilers will direct their researches.

I have the honor to be, with great respect,

Your very humble and most ob't serv't,

AUGUSTE DAVEZAC.

Extract from a Letter of Henry Ledyard, late Secretary of the American Legation at Paris, to the Hon. John Greig, dated Havre, July 25, 1844.

I have had the honor to receive your letter of the 17th of May, requesting my opinion respecting the condition of Mr. Warden's collection of books relating to America, and the eligibility of a purchase of it, by the State of New-York, upon the terms proposed by him.

Although well acquainted with the collection, I thought it best to re-examine it, with a view to giving the opinion you desire, and accordingly devoted my first leisure moments to its examination. I found the books generally in a good state of preservation, many of them well bound; and I have no hesitation in saying that I think the sum, $4,000, for which Mr. Warden offers them to the State, below their real value. Many of the editions of the works are rare and curious, which it would be difficult, if not impossible, to find elsewhere; and in the works of Spanish discoverers and travellers, it is particularly rich. I have long thought that this library should be transferred to our country, and I earnestly hope that my native State will not allow this opportunity to pass by, without adding to the valuable literary stores already in her possession, by the purchasing of a collection so rich in American history.

Extract of a letter from James E. DeKay, M. D., to Isaiah Townsend, dated Oyster Bay, June 12, 1844.

"I am acquainted with the circumstances under which that noble collection was formed, and examined many of the books. Mr. Warden was an active member for many years of the Geographical Society of Paris, and was thus led to seek out all works connected with his pursuits. He spared no pains nor expense, and had agents in all parts of Europe and America for that purpose."

The price asked by Mr. Warden for the above collection is four thousand dollars, to be paid in two yearly instalments, although it is probable that he would be willing, if desired, to prolong the period of payment.

The whole amount appropriated for the annual purchase of miscellaneous books for the State Library, is thirteen hundred dollars. The condition of this department is such as to require that amount, and even more, for several years, in order to supply its deficiencies and to render it useful for consultation and reference to the Members of the Legislature, and to individuals engaged either in the affairs of the State or in literary and scientific investigations.

It remains, then, with the Legislature to decide whether the purchase shall be made. There will probably be about two hundred duplicates, but all, it is supposed, readily saleable at an average of more than two dollars each. A large portion of the collection is in the French, Spanish, and Italian languages, and the sum required is not an inconsiderable one.

But on the other hand, Mr. Warden is an American citizen, who has long devoted himself to the illustration of American geography, antiquities and history. That the collection is fully worth the money asked, is (besides the testimony given above) strikingly illustrated by the high prices which all works relating to America have, during the summer and autumn of 1844, obtained at Boston and New-York.

The State of New-York has expended millions upon millions, in promoting the physical improvement of her wide spread domain. She will not miss a small tithe devoted to literature and science. Hallam and Guizot, Bancroft and Prescott, are names inscribed in the pages of a nation's history, and if this purchase incite but one individual to tread even with feeble pace, in their footsteps, the gain and the honor will be with those who provided the means and spread the intellectual store.

By order,

PETER WENDELL, Chancellor.

T. ROMEYN BECK, Sec'y.

Albany, January 9, 1845.

Ordered, That the said report be referred to the joint library committee, and that the usual number of copies of the same be printed for the use of the Legislature.

[See Document No. 11.]

The Annual Report of the Superintendent of the Salt Springs was received and read.

On motion of Mr. M'Carthy,

Ordered, That five times the usual number of copies of the said report be printed for the use of the Legislature, and two hundred and fifty copies for the use of the Superintendent.

[See Document No. 10.]

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the following resolution from the Senate, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the joint rules of the Senate and Assembly, which were in force at the last session of the Legislature, be adopted for the government of the two houses during the present session.

The same having been read,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would concur with the Senate in their said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the said resolution to the Senate, and inform them that the Assembly have concurred in the same without amendment.

The said joint rules are as follows, to wit :

JOINT RULES OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY.

1. Each House shall transmit to the other all papers on which any bill or resolution shall be founded.

2. When a bill or resolution which shall have passed in one house, is rejected in the other, notice thereof shall be given to the house in which the same may have passed.

3. Messages from one house to the other shall be communicated by the respective clerks of each house, unless the house transmitting the message shall especially direct otherwise.

4. It shall be in the power of either house to amend any amendment made by the other to any bill or resolution.

5. In every case of a difference between the two houses upon any subject of legislation, either house may request a conference, and appoint a committee for that purpose, and the other shall also appoint a committee to confer : The committee shall meet at such hour and place as shall be agreed upon by their chairman, and state to each other, verbally or in writing as either shall choose, the reasons of their respective houses, and confer freely thereon ; and they shall be authorized to report to their respective houses such modifications or amendments as they may think advisable.

6. It shall be in order for either house to recede from any subject matter of difference subsisting between the two houses at any time previous to conference, whether the papers on which such difference has arisen are before the house receding, formally or informally ; and that a majority shall govern, except in those cases where two-thirds are required by the Constitution ; and the question having been put and lost, shall not be again put on the same day, and the reconsideration thereof shall in other respects be regulated by the rules of the respective houses.

7. After each house shall have adhered to their disagreement, the bill which is the subject of difference shall be deemed lost, and shall not be again revived during the same session in either house.

8. The same bill shall not create, renew, or continue more than one incorporation, nor contain any provisions in relation to the altering of more than one act of incorporation ; nor shall the same bill appropriate the public money or property to more than one local or private purpose ; and bills appropriating money for the payment of the officers of government, shall be confined to that purpose exclusively.

9. Whenever there shall be a ballot for officers by the two houses, the result shall be certified by the President of the Senate and Speaker of the Assembly, and shall be reported by the presiding officer of each house to their respective houses, and be entered on the journals of each, and shall be communicated to the Governor by the clerks of the two houses.

10. No bill that shall have passed one house, shall be sent for concurrence to the other on either of the two last days of the session.

On motion of Mr. Kinne,

Resolved, That the petition and papers on file in this house, relating to the building of a bridge across the Seneca river at Coldspring in the county of Onondaga, be taken from the files, and referred to the members from said county.

Mr. Whitney gave notice that, at an early day, he would ask leave to introduce a bill abolishing the office of county superintendent of common schools.

Mr. Fenn offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the Clerk procure one hundred and forty copies of the Albany City Guide, for the accommodation of members of this house, and that the expense be defrayed from the contingent fund of the house.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. Morrison gave notice that he would, at some future day, introduce a bill to enable a married woman to hold and dispose of her real estate, free from the debts or dominion of her husband, and to allow her to make a will.

Mr. Long gave notice that he would, at an early day, ask leave to bring in a bill, authorizing Jarvis A. Hall and Maria his wife, an infant, to convey real estate.

Mr. Winant gave notice that he would, on some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill entitled "An act relative to insane persons in the county of Kings."

Mr. Niven offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That immediately upon the House being called to order each morning, the centre and north doors shall be closed, and so remain closed until the adjournment ; and that all ingress and egress shall, during the sittings of the house, be through the south door and ante-rooms.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. Speaker presented a communication from Mr. John H. Dayton, which was read, in the words following, to wit :

Sag-Harbor, January 6, 1845.

SIR,

The Constitution of our State declares, that any member of the Legislature, by accepting an appointment, civil, diplomatic, etc., from the General Government, thereby vacates his seat, or rather this is the gist of the section.

Now, sir, anxious that the good people of Suffolk county should be fully represented, and the situation of my family being such as by their indisposition to forbid my personal appearance at Albany to present my case before the House for its decision, I am induced to ask the favor of you, that if that decision should be to deny my right to a seat in your Honorable Body, the earliest possible opportunity may be afforded them, if they wish to supply the vacancy.

On twenty-seventh of November, 1844, I received and accepted the appointment of Collector of the Customs for the District of Sag-Harbor. Since that time, I have consulted several legal gentlemen, with a view to ascertain whether the prohibition extended to my case or not, having received the appointment previous to the time of the opening of the session. Their opinions have not given me much light. Had I consulted only my own feelings, I should have resigned ; but being unwilling to involve the county in the expense incident to a special election, I finally determined to bring the question personally before the House. The circumstances before mentioned preventing this, and deeming the House the proper and constitutional judges of the matter, must form my apology for asking through you their decision.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN H. DAYTON.

Ordered, That the said communication be referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

Mr. Constant offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

WHEREAS a report prevails, that on Friday last, the tenth instant, the sheriff or his deputy of Rensselaer county was assaulted by a number of men armed and disguised, who deprived him by force of his official papers, and burnt them, and who resisted him in the execution of his official duties :

Therefore,

Resolved, That a special committee be appointed by the Chair, to inquire into and report the facts to this House ; and that said committee have power to send for persons and papers.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Morrison,

The House then adjourned to eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 14, 1845.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Prayer by the Rev. Mr. A. Bronson.

The minutes of yesterday were read and approved.

The Chair announced the appointment of the following standing committees, to wit :

The remonstrance of thirty-one inhabitants of the county of Chautauque, against the annexation of Texas as slave territory, was read, and referred to a select committee.

Mr. Niven, from the committee on privileges and elections, to which was referred the communication of Mr. John H. Dayton, relative to his right to a seat in this House as member of assembly for Suffolk county, reported, that the said John H. Dayton was elected a member of the Assembly for Suffolk county, at the last annual election, as appears from the return of the county canvassers filed in the office of the Secretary of State : That on the twenty-seventh of November last, as he asserts, he received and accepted the appointment of Collector of Customs for the district of Sag-Harbor, an office conferred by the Federal Government.

The Constitution of this State, article first, section eleventh, provides, that "if any person shall, while a member of the legislature, be appointed to any office, civil or military, under the government of the United States, his acceptance thereof shall vacate his seat in the legislature."

The only question, therefore, that arises, is, whether Mr. Dayton is to be considered a member of the Legislature, previous to the time fixed by law for its meeting, and without having taken the constitutional oath. On this point, the committee have no hesitation or doubt. He had been duly elected; the fact of his election had been legally communicated by the county canvassers to the Secretary of State; and we infer that he was, at the time of his acceptance of the office of collector of customs, de facto a member of this House; and that by his acceptance of said office, he disqualified himself. The committee, therefore, recommend that his name be stricken from the roll of the House.

[See Document No. 12.]

On motion of Mr. T. R. Lee,

Ordered, That the said report be committed to a committee of the whole house.

A communication from the Adjutant General was received and read, in the words following, to wit:

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
Albany, January 13, 1845. }

To the Honorable the Assembly of the State of New-York.

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a copy of the resolution calling "for information as to the proportion of adopted citizens comprising the military force ordered to and now in the city of Hudson, for the purpose of preserving the public peace."

In reply, I would respectfully state, that inasmuch as the act regulating the militia recognizes no distinction between the native and the adopted citizen, there is nothing upon the records, documents or returns in this department, which enables me to state "the proportion of adopted citizens in the military force ordered" to Hudson.

The troops on duty there, were designated without any reference to their place of birth, and it is very gratifying to know that their conduct has elicited the approbation of the public authorities of that city.

I am, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

A. C. NIVEN, Adjutant General.

Ordered, That the said communication be laid on the table, and that the usual number of copies thereof be printed.

[See Document No. 14.]

The annual report of the Troy Savings Bank, relative to unclaimed dividends and deposits, was received and read.

The House then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to amend an act to reduce the number of canal commissioners, and to provide for their election by the people, passed May 6th, 1844 ;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Van Schoonhoven, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

By unanimous consent,

Mr. Van Schoonhoven offered for the consideration of the House the following resolutions, to wit :

WHEREAS his Excellency the Governor of Massachusetts, in pursuance of resolutions passed by the Legislature of that Commonwealth, did, during the last year, with the advice and consent of the Council thereof, duly appoint and commission the Hon. Samuel Hoar, a citizen of said commonwealth, as an agent or commissioner on her part to proceed to and reside in the city of Charleston in the State of South-Carolina, for the purpose of collecting and transmitting accurate information as to the number and names of citizens of Massachusetts who might theretofore have been or who might then be imprisoned in that city without the allegation of any crime, with full authority also on the part of said agent to bring and prosecute suits in behalf of any citizens who might be so imprisoned, at the expense of Massachusetts, for the purpose of having the legality of such imprisonment tried and determined in the Supreme Court of the United States : And whereas in pursuance of the purpose of such appointment, and in the prompt discharge of the official duties thus assigned to the Hon. Samuel Hoar, he did, in the month of November last, proceed to the city of Charleston, and immediately on his arrival communicate by letter to his Excellency the Governor of South-Carolina the fact of his appointment by the authorities of Massachusetts as agent for the purposes aforesaid, and of his presence in the city of Charleston for the discharge of such agency ; and his Excellency the Governor of South-Carolina was pleased thereupon to communicate by message with the Legislature of that State, then in session at Columbia, informing that Honorable Body of the arrival and commission of the Hon. Samuel Hoar, and submitting to them to determine upon the course of action most appropriate under the circumstances : And whereas the Honorable the Legislature of South-Carolina, on the reception of the message of his Excellency thus communicated, did, without delay, and with but a single dissenting voice, adopt and declare resolutions in the words following (or to the following effect), to wit :

Resolved, That the right to exclude from their territories seditious persons or others, whose presence may be dangerous to their peace, is essential to every independent State.

Resolved, That free negroes and persons of color are not citizens of the United States within the meaning of the Constitution, which confers upon the citizens of one State the privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

Resolved, That the emissary sent by the State of Massachusetts to the State of South-Carolina, with the avowed purpose of interfering with her institutions and disturbing her peace, is to be regarded in the character he has assumed, and to be treated accordingly.

Resolved, That his Excellency the Governor be requested to expel from our territory the said agent, after due notice to depart ; and that the Legislature will sustain the Executive authority in any measures it may adopt for the purpose aforesaid.

AND WHEREAS it was represented by the Hon. Samuel Hoar, in a communication addressed by him to the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and at his request presented to the Executive thereof, who transmitted the same to both branches of the Legislature of that State, bearing date December 20th, 1844, that the said Samuel Hoar, subsequent to the passage of said resolutions by the Legislature of South-Carolina, was peremptorily and forcibly obstructed in the execution of the duties of his agency above specified, by the authorities of Charleston; threatened with personal violence by some of the residents of that city, in case he should remain therein to discharge said duties; and finally expelled from and conducted out of said State, by many of her leading and distinguished citizens, against his will and in utter disregard of his protestations to the contrary, in defiance of the constitutional rights of himself and of the State he represented:

Therefore,

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) 'That in the judgment of the Legislature of this State, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has sustained, in these proceedings on the part of the Legislature of the State of South-Carolina, and of the local authorities of Charleston, a very gross indignity, as well as a violation of her most sacred rights: The object and purpose of the agency established by Massachusetts, to wit, the liberation of her citizens from unlawful incarceration and servitude, and the vindication of the immunities and privileges of her people as guaranteed by the Federal Constitution, were not only consistent with every obligation and duty which she as a member of our National Confederacy might owe to South-Carolina and her sister States, but to secure the accomplishment of that object and purpose she was powerfully impelled by the highest considerations of duty to herself as well as the country at large; and in the prosecution of her noble design, she clearly conducted her proceedings with all due respect to the dignity as well as the constitutional rights of South-Carolina.

Resolved, That the Legislature of this State regard the passage of any law conflicting with the plain and palpable provisions of the Constitution of the United States, and affecting the personal liberties as well as the commercial interests of all or either of the States of the Union, as at all times and particularly at the present day to be deprecated, and worthy to be rebuked by the public sentiment of the country: That in our judgment the provision of the act of the Legislature of South-Carolina, passed December 29th, 1835, prohibiting any free negro or person of color from entering that State on board any vessel as cook, steward or mariner, or in any other employment on board thereof, and authorizing the sheriff of any district of said State in whose harbor or port such vessel may arrive, to apprehend and incarcerate such free negro or colored person until such vessel shall be ready to proceed to sea, conflicts with and directly violates section second of article fourth of the Constitution of the United States, which declares that "the citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States;" and also section eighth of article first of said Constitution, which empowers Congress "to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several States, and with Indian tribes:." That as a member of the American Confederacy, deeply interested in this matter, New-York is called upon to protest, and she hereby does most solemnly protest against the said law so as aforesaid enacted by South-Carolina; declaring at the same time her deliberate conviction that the principles and proceedings held and adopted by the said State in this unpleasant and embarrassing controversy with Massachusetts, are utterly untenable and unjustifiable, as well as directly calculated to introduce and perpetuate discord and disorder among the States of the Union.

Resolved, That his Excellency the Governor of this State be requested forthwith to transmit copies of the foregoing preamble and resolution to his Excellency the Governor of Massachusetts, to his Excellency the Governor of South-Carolina, and also to the chief executive officers of the several States of the Union.

Pending the consideration of the said resolutions, the hour of twelve o'clock at noon arrived; when,

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker declared that Daniel S. Dickinson, having been nominated by a majority of the members present, was duly nominated for the office of Senator in the Congress of the United States, from the State of New-York, on the part of the Assembly, in the place of the Hon. Nathaniel P. Tallmadge, resigned, for the term which will expire on the fourth day of March, 1845.

On motion of Mr. T. R. Lee,

Resolved, That John A. Dix be, and he is hereby nominated on the part of the Assembly, a Senator to represent this State in the Senate of the Congress of the United States, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Silas Wright, for the term which will expire on the fourth day of March, 1849.

On motion of Mr. T. R. Lee,

Resolved, That Daniel S. Dickinson be, and he is hereby nominated on the part of the Assembly, a Senator to represent this State in the Senate of the Congress of the United States, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Nathaniel P. Tallmadge, for the term which will expire on the fourth day of March, 1845.

A resolution of the Senate was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the Senate will immediately meet the Assembly in the Assembly chamber, to compare their respective nominations for the offices of Senator in the Congress of the United States.

Thereupon,

Resolved, That the Assembly will immediately meet the Senate in the Assembly chamber, to compare their respective nominations for the offices of Senator in the Congress of the United States.

Ordered, That the Clerk deliver a copy of the preceding resolution to the Senate.

The Senate accordingly attended in the Assembly chamber; and having withdrawn, Mr. Speaker informed the House, that on comparing the respective nominations of the Senate and Assembly, they were found to agree in the name of John A. Dix, to represent this State in the Senate of the Congress of the United States, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Silas Wright, for the term which will expire on the fourth day of March, 1849; and also in the name of Daniel S. Dickinson, to represent this State in the Senate of the Congress of the United States, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Nathaniel P. Tallmadge, for the term which will expire on the fourth day of March, 1845.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker declared John A. Dix duly chosen by the Legislature, a Senator to represent the State of New-York in the Senate of the Congress of the United States, for the term which will expire on the fourth day of March, 1849.

And Mr. Speaker further declared Daniel S. Dickinson duly chosen by the Legislature, a Senator to represent the State of New-York in the Senate of the Congress of the United States, for the term which will expire on the fourth day of March, 1845.

The House then resumed the consideration of the resolutions offered by Mr. Van Schoonhoven, which was suspended at the hour of twelve o'clock at noon, in pursuance of a joint resolution of the Senate and Assembly.

Mr. Niven moved that the said resolutions be laid on the table.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Niven, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Coe moved that the said resolutions be printed.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Coe, and it was determined in the negative.

A communication from the Comptroller was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE, }

TO THE SPEAKER OF THE ASSEMBLY.

SIR,

Herewith is transmitted the Annual Report of the Comptroller.

Respectfully your obedient servant,

A. C. FLAGG.

[See Document No. 25.]

Mr. Crain moved that ten times the usual number of copies of the said report be printed for the use of the Legislature, and two hundred and fifty additional copies for the use of the Comptroller.

Mr. Frisbee moved to amend the said motion of Mr. Crain, by substituting therein the word "twenty" for the word "ten."

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Frisbee, and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Crain, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The Annual Report of the Canal Commissioners was received.

[See Document No. 28.]

On motion of Mr. Sears,

Ordered, That five times the usual number of copies of said report be printed for the use of the Legislature, and two hundred and fifty additional copies for the use of the Canal Commissioners.

The Senate sent for concurrence a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That it be referred to the joint library committee, to inquire and report what disposition ought to be made of the General Index to the Documents and Laws of the State of New-York, prepared and published under a joint resolution of the Senate and Assembly of the 26th March, 1841, by the clerks of the two houses.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would concur with the Senate in their said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the said resolution to the Senate, and inform them that the Assembly have concurred in the same without amendment.

Mr. Moulton moved a reconsideration of the vote on the question to print the resolutions offered on Saturday by Mr. Van Schoonhoven.

Ordered, That the said motion be laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Crain,

Ordered, That Mr. A. H. Buell have leave of absence for six days.

Mr. S. Miller gave notice that he would, at an early day, ask leave to introduce a bill, so to amend the act relating to town officers, as to limit the number of assessors in each town of this State to three, and provide for classing them into three classes, denominated first, second and third ; the office of the first class to expire in one, of the second in two, and of the third in three years from the time of their election ; and one assessor to be chosen annually thereafter in each town, whose term of office shall be three years.

On motion of Mr. M'Carthy,

Resolved, That the petition and papers on the files of this house, in the matter of the claim of Fitzsimmons and Bready, be taken therefrom, and referred to the committee on grievances.

Mr. Horton offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the Superintendent of Common Schools furnish one copy of the Common School Reports for the year 1844 to each of the school district libraries in this State, as recommended in his former report, and that a sufficient number for this purpose be printed.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Boughton,

Resolved, That the petition and papers relative to the claims of Marcus Brown against this State, be taken from the files of the house, and referred to the committee on claims.

On motion of Mr. Cameron,

Resolved, That the petition and papers on file, in favor of an act to provide for the removal of cases decided by the Canal Board, to the Supreme Court, by certiorari, be taken therefrom, and referred to the committee on canals.

Mr. Morrison gave notice that he would, at some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill to enable the assignee of a chose in action to maintain a suit thereon in his own name, and also to enable an infant wife to join her husband in conveying his estate.

Mr. Skelton gave notice that he would, at some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill for extending the terms of office of town assessors and commissioners of highways, and for classifying the same.

On motion of Mr. Comstock,

Resolved, That a respectful message be transmitted to the Senate, requesting that the papers on file in that house, in the matter of the claims of Asa T. Smith, and Sage, Walrath & Dunham, be taken from the files, and delivered to the Clerk of this House.

The Chair announced the appointment of the standing committee on retrenchment, to consist of Mr. Howard, Mr. Pierce, Mr. Billings, Mr. Pardee and Mr. Coe.

Mr. Van Schoonhoven called for the consideration of the resolutions offered by him on Saturday last, relative to a controversy between the States of Massachusetts and South-Carolina.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would proceed to consider the said resolutions, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Resolved, That the committee on banks and insurance companies be instructed to inquire into the expediency of passing a general law for the incorporation of savings banks.

Mr. Worden offered for the consideration of the House four several resolutions, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That no power is delegated to the Federal Congress to enter into new political associations or confederacies by which the territory of a foreign government shall become incorporated with the United States ; and that any law, stipulation or arrangement made by Congress to annex Texas to this Union would be a violation of the Constitution.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the acquisition of territory by the Federal Government, for the purpose of strengthening or extending the institution of slavery, would be a perversion of power to objects and purposes unauthorised by the Constitution.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the Senators from this State be instructed to vote for the rejection of any treaty to admit Texas into the Union.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That our senators from this State be instructed, and our representatives in Congress requested to oppose the admission as a State into the Union, of any territory, without making the prohibition of slavery an indispensable condition of admission.

On motion of Mr. Worden,

Ordered, That the said resolutions be printed, and laid on the table.

[See Document No. 33.]

On motion of Mr. C. F. Crosby,

Resolved, That the petition and other papers relating to a bridge across the Rondout, be taken from the files of the house, and sent to the committee on roads and bridges.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Danforth asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act to supply the several school districts in the State of New-York with the Albany Cultivator for the year 1845 ;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to the committee on colleges, academies and common schools.

On motion of Mr. Thompson,

Ordered, That Mr. Blake have leave of absence for eight days.

On motion of Mr. Comstock,

Ordered, That Mr. Billings have leave of absence for six days.

On motion of Mr. Garretson,

Ordered, That Mr. Sherman have leave of absence for seven days.

On motion of Mr. Fonda,

Mr. Sweeney gave notice that he would, at some future day, introduce a bill to improve the militia system of this State.

The House then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the annual message of the Governor; and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Crain, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The bill entitled "An act in relation to common schools," was received from the Senate, with a message, informing that they had passed the same without amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk deliver the said bill to the Governor.

The bill entitled "An act to prevent persons appearing disguised and armed," was received from the Senate, with a message, informing that they had concurred in the amendments of the Assembly to the said bill, and amended the same accordingly.

The said amended bill having been examined,

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate.

By unanimous consent,

Mr. Worden moved that the committee on the judiciary, to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to extend the January term of the Supreme Court for the year 1845," be authorised to report the said bill complete to this house.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion, and it was determined in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Betts,

The House then adjourned to eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

Mr. Comstock, from the select committee on the amendments to the Constitution, reported in part, and concluded by offering the following several preambles and resolutions, to wit :

WHEREAS at the last session of the Legislature, the following amendment was proposed to the Constitution of this State :

Two additional justices of the supreme court shall be appointed, who shall have the same powers, be appointed in the same manner, hold their offices by the same tenure, and be subject to the same disqualifications as to holding any other office or trust, or receiving votes for any elective office, as the other justices of that court :

AND WHEREAS the said proposed amendment was, at the said last session, agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, and was entered on their journals with the yeas and nays thereon, and was referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen, and has been published for three months previous to the time of making the choice of the members of the present Legislature :

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Assembly do agree to the said proposed amendment.

WHEREAS at the last session of the Legislature, the following amendment was proposed to the Constitution of this State :

The court of chancery shall consist of the chancellor and three associate chancellors, any of whom may hold the court. The said associate chancellors shall have the same powers, be appointed in the same manner, hold their offices by the same tenure, and be subject to the same disqualifications as to holding any other office or public trust, or receiving votes for any elective office, as the chancellor :

AND WHEREAS the said proposed amendment was, at the said last session, agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, and was entered on their journals with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and was referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen, and has been published for three months previous to the time of making the choice of the members of the present Legislature :

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Assembly do agree to the said proposed amendment.

WHEREAS at the last session of the Legislature, the following amendment was proposed to the Constitution of this State :

No property qualification shall be required to render a person eligible to, or capable of holding any office or public trust in this State :

AND WHEREAS the said proposed amendment was, at the said last session, agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, and was entered on their journals with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and was referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen, and has been published for three months previous to the time of making the choice of the members of the present Legislature :

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Assembly do agree to the said proposed amendment.

WHEREAS at the last session of the Legislature, the following amendment was proposed to the Constitution of this State :

No judicial officer shall be removed by the joint resolution of the two houses of the legislature, or by the senate on the recommendation of the governor, unless the cause of such removal shall be entered on the journal of both houses, or of the senate, as the case may be ; and such officer against whom the legislature or the senate may be about to proceed, shall be served with notice thereof, accompanied with a copy of the causes alleged for his removal, at least twenty days before the day on which either house shall act thereupon, and shall have an opportunity to be heard in his defence before any question shall be taken upon such removal ; and the yeas and nays shall be entered upon the journals of the senate, or houses, as the case may be.

AND WHEREAS the said proposed amendment was, at the said last session, agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, and was entered on their journals with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and was referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen, and has been published for three months previous to the time of making the choice of the members of the present Legislature :

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Assembly do agree to the said proposed amendment.

Mr. Comstock moved that the said preambles and resolutions be committed to a committee of the whole house, and made the special order for Friday next at twelve o'clock.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Comstock, from the majority of the select committee on the amendments to the Constitution, reported in part, and offered the following preamble and resolution, to wit :

WHEREAS at the last session of the Legislature, the following amendments were proposed to the Constitution of this State :

AMENDMENT No. 1.

The pledges and guarantees of the act entitled "An act to provide for paying the debts and preserving the credit of the State," passed March 29th, 1842, are hereby confirmed ; and the revenues specified therein shall be applied to the purposes therein specified, including the repayment to the United States Deposit Fund, and to the Common School Fund, of all moneys of the said funds which have been or shall be invested in pursuance of the said act, in such equal annual sums as will be sufficient to pay in full, both principal and interest, all the debts and liabilities of this State, as they existed at the time of the passage of the said act ; and also all the debts and liabilities of the State authorised by said act to be created and incurred, and which have been created and incurred by authority of and pursuant to said act, in the period of twenty-two and a half years from the time said act was passed and took effect ; and the legislature shall not divert any part of the revenues appropriated by said act, requisite to pay in full, both principal and interest, all the debts and liabilities of the State herein before specified, within the fixed period of time, and in the equal annual sums herein before expressed, from the purposes to which they are herein before directed to be applied.

AMENDMENT No. 2.

The legislature shall not in any manner create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities of the State, direct or contingent, which shall, singly or in the aggregate, at any time exceed one million of dollars, except to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorised by law for some single object or work to be distinctly specified therein ; and such law shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax sufficient to pay the interest of such debt or liability as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt or liability within eighteen years from the time of the contracting thereof ; and no such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received the sanction of a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election ; and on the final passage of every such bill in either house of the legislature, the question shall be taken by ayes and nays, duly entered on the journal, and shall be "Shall this bill pass, and ought the same to receive the sanction of the people?" And the assent of a majority of the members elected to each house of the legislature shall be requisite to the passage of such bill; and such law shall be irrevocable, until such debt or liability, and the interest thereon, are fully paid and discharged; and the moneys arising from any loans or stocks creating such debt or liability, shall be applied to the object or work specified in the act authorising such debt or liability, or for the payment of such debt or liability, and to no other purpose whatever. Where a debt or liability on the part of the State shall be created to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, the moneys arising from the loans or stock creating such debt or liability shall be applied to the purpose for which the same were raised, or for the repayment of such debt or liability, and to no other purpose whatever.

AND WHEREAS the said proposed amendments were, at the said last session, agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, and were entered on their journals with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and were referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen, and have been published for three months previous to the time of making the choice of the members of the present Legislature:

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Assembly do agree to the said proposed amendments.

Mr. Comstock moved that the said preamble and resolution be committed to a committee of the whole house, and made the special order for Friday next at twelve o'clock.

Mr. Coe called for a division of the question.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to commit the said preamble and resolution to a committee of the whole house, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question whether the House would agree to make the said preamble and resolution the special order for Friday next at twelve o'clock, and it was determined in the affirmative.

A message from the Governor was received and read, in the words following, to wit:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Albany, January 28, 1845. }

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

I have this day approved and signed the bill entitled "An act in relation to common schools."

SILAS WRIGHT.

A report of the Canal Appraisers, upon the petition of John Watkins, was received and read.

[See Document No. 41.]

Ordered, That the said report be referred to the committee on claims.

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to extend the January term of the Supreme Court for the year 1845," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that the Assembly have passed the same without amendment.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act in relation to the court of common pleas and general sessions of the county of Saratoga."

Mr. Wilcox moved that the said bill be referred to a select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the county of Saratoga, with instructions to report the same complete.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Wilcox, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Jones gave notice that he would, at some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill relative to books of records and proceedings in courts.

On motion of Mr. Betts,

Resolved, That the petition of sundry inhabitants of the village of Lansingburgh, praying for the removal of the bridge across the Hudson at Troy, be taken from the files, and referred to the committee on roads and bridges.

On motion of Mr. Mather,

Resolved, That the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages be discharged from the further consideration of the memorial of the mayor, etc. of the city of New-York, for an act to enforce corporation ordinances, and that said memorial be referred to the committee on the internal affairs of towns and counties.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Morrison asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act for the protection of persons keeping boarding houses in the city of New-York;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to the committee on the judiciary.

On motion of Mr. Howard,

Resolved, That the committee on the judiciary be instructed to inquire into the expediency of passing a law, requiring both parties to all personal mortgages to establish, by their oaths, that the debt for which the mortgage is given is just and legal.

By unanimous consent,

Mr. Van Valkenburgh moved that Mr. J. Stevenson have leave of absence for seven days.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Van Valkenburgh offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Honorable the Senate concur herein,) That pursuant to the twelfth section of the act incorporating the New-York and Erie Railroad Company, the consent of the Legislature be and is hereby granted, allowing said company to connect the railroad authorised by the said act, with a continuation of about sixteen miles of the line thereof into the State of Pennsylvania, around the great bend of the Susquehannah ; and also to connect the same with a continuation of not exceeding twenty-five miles of the line thereof into the said State of Pennsylvania, along the southerly side of the Delaware river in the county of Pike, opposite to, and in order to avoid all interference with the canal of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company ; and also to connect their said railroad with the Blossburgh and Corning railroad, at the intersection thereof in the village of Corning ; provided that the line of the said railroad shall, as heretofore contemplated, pass through the villages of Deposit in Delaware and Binghamton in Broome counties.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. Bailey called for the consideration of the resolution offered by him yesterday ; which said resolution is in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the committee on banks and insurance companies are hereby instructed to introduce a bill as early as practicable, requiring that on and after the first day of May 1845, the stockholders of all banks, insurance companies, trust companies, and all companies incorporated for manufacturing or other purposes, by any previous Legislature of this State, from which the stockholders may derive a pecuniary benefit, shall be held personally liable to an amount equal to the capital stock of the company in addition to the assets thereof : And also that whenever the property of the stockholders aforesaid shall become exhausted and unable to contribute to the said amount of the capital stock, then the president and officers (being stockholders) of the insolvent institution, together with all persons who through the intervention of agents or otherwise can be proved to have held stock in said company at any time within one year previous to the failure thereof, shall become personally liable for the loss sustained, to the amount of the capital stock remaining unpaid by the actual stockholders thereof.

The said resolution being under consideration,

Mr. Bailey amended the same, by adding the words "and also that in all elections held by any corporation, no shares of stock shall be represented by proxy."

Mr. Comstock moved to amend the said resolution, by inserting, after the words "are hereby instructed to," the words "inquire into the expediency of;" and to substitute the word "introducing" for the word "introduce," after such insertion.

Debates were had thereon ; when

Mr. M. Brooks moved to lay the said resolution and amendment on the table.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. M. Brooks, and it was determined in the negative.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Comstock, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, as amended, and it was determined in the affirmative.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Niven asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act for the safe keeping and removal of insane convicts in the State prisons of this State, to State lunatic asylums;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to the committee on state prisons.

On motion of Mr. Worden,

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolutions offered by him yesterday; which said resolutions are in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That no power is delegated to the Federal Congress to enter into new political associations or confederacies by which the territory of a foreign government shall become incorporated with the United States; and that any law, stipulation or arrangement made by Congress to annex Texas to this Union would be a violation of the Constitution.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the acquisition of territory by the Federal Government, for the purpose of strengthening or extending the institution of slavery, would be a perversion of power to objects and purposes unauthorised by the Constitution

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the Senators from this State be instructed to vote for the rejection of any treaty to admit Texas into the Union.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That our senators from this State be instructed, and our representatives in Congress requested to oppose the admission as a State into the Union, of any territory, without making the prohibition of slavery an indispensable condition of admission.

SIR,

I am favored with official notice of my election by the Legislature of New-York, as Senator in Congress, until the fourth of March next, in the place of Nathaniel P. Tallmadge, resigned. I desire to convey through you, to the body over which you preside, my acceptance of the station, and my high appreciation of the honor conferred.

I have the honor to be,

With great respect,

Your obedient servant,

D. S. DICKINSON.

The Hon. HORATIO SEYMOUR, Speaker of the Assembly.

The eleventh annual report of the Bowery Savings Bank in the city of New-York, was received, read, and ordered to be printed and laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. D. Lee,

Resolved, That the remonstrances, petitions and other papers relating to the continuance of a toll-bridge across Eighteen-mile creek, be taken from the files of the house, and referred to the committee on roads and bridges.

Mr. Jarvis gave notice that he would, on some future day, introduce a bill to amend the act entitled "An act to reduce the several laws relating particularly to the city of New-York, into one act."

On motion of Mr. Garretson,

Resolved, That five times the usual number of the minority and majority reports of the standing committee on charitable and religious societies, be printed.

On motion of Mr. T. R. Lee,

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by him, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Honorable Senate concur,) That the two Houses will adjourn, sine die, on the thirty-first day of March next.

Mr. Morrison moved to lay the said resolution on the table.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Collins offered for the consideration of the House a preamble and two several resolutions, in the words following, to wit :

WHEREAS the House of Representatives in Congress has recently passed a concurrent resolution providing for the admission of Texas into the Union as one of the States thereof, and providing that new States may be hereafter formed out of the first State of Texas, and that all of the said States lying south of thirty-six degrees and three minutes of north latitude shall be admitted into the Union with or without slavery as the said States may elect : And whereas the said resolution is soon to receive the action of the Senate of the United States :

Therefore,

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the Senators in Congress from this State be instructed to vote against the said resolution so as aforesaid recently adopted by the said House of Representatives.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the Senators in Congress from this State be instructed to vote against any law, resolution or treaty, having for its object the admission into or incorporation with this Union of the territory of Texas, without making the perpetual prohibition of slavery in the said territory, and in every state to be formed out of it, the indispensable condition of such admission.

Ordered, That the said resolutions be laid on the table.

Ordered, That the Clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

On motion of Mr. Collins,

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolutions offered by him yesterday, in the words following, to wit :

WHEREAS the House of Representatives in Congress has recently passed a concurrent resolution providing for the admission of Texas into the Union as one of the States thereof, and providing that new States may be hereafter formed out of the first State of Texas, and that all of the said States lying south of thirty-six degrees and three minutes of north latitude shall be admitted into the Union with or without slavery as the said States may elect : And whereas the said resolution is soon to receive the action of the Senate of the United States :

Therefore,

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the Senators in Congress from this State be instructed to vote against the said resolution so as aforesaid recently adopted by the said House of Representatives.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the Senators in Congress from this State be instructed to vote against any law, resolution or treaty, having for its object the admission into or incorporation with this Union of the territory of Texas, without making the perpetual prohibition of slavery in the said territory, and in every state to be formed out of it, the indispensable condition of such admission.

Mr. T. R. Lee moved to lay the said resolutions on the table.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion, and it was determined in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Van Valkenburgh,

Ordered, That ten times the usual number of copies of said report be printed for the use of the Legislature, and seven hundred and fifty additional copies for the use of the officers of said institution.

[See Document No. 29.]

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act in relation to the courts of common pleas and general sessions of the county of Saratoga," with the engrossed amendments, was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the final passage of the said bill and amendments, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that the Assembly have passed the same with the amendments thereto therewith delivered.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Morrison asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act for ascertaining by proper proofs the persons entitled to the right of suffrage in the city and county of New-York;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time.

Mr. Morrison moved to refer the said bill to a select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the city and county of New-York.

Mr. Russell moved to refer the same to the committee on privileges and elections.

Debates were thereupon had, and continued until the hour of twelve o'clock; when, in pursuance of the special order of a preceding day,

The House resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the resolutions reported by the select committee on the amendments to the Constitution; which said resolutions are in the words following, to wit:

WHEREAS at the last session of the Legislature, the following amendment was proposed to the Constitution of this State :

Two additional justices of the supreme court shall be appointed, who shall have the same powers, be appointed in the same manner, hold their offices by the same tenure, and be subject to the same disqualifications as to holding any other office or trust, or receiving votes for any elective office, as the other justices of that court :

AND WHEREAS the said proposed amendment was, at the said last session, agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, and was entered on their journals with the yeas and nays thereon, and was referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen, and has been published for three months previous to the time of making the choice of the members of the present Legislature :

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Assembly do agree to the said proposed amendment.

WHEREAS at the last session of the Legislature, the following amendment was proposed to the Constitution of this State :

The court of chancery shall consist of the chancellor and three associate chancellors, any of whom may hold the court. The said associate chancellors shall have the same powers, be appointed in the same manner, hold their offices by the same tenure, and be subject to the same disqualifications as to holding any other office or public trust, or receiving votes for any elective office, as the chancellor :

AND WHEREAS the said proposed amendment was, at the said last session, agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, and was entered on their journals with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and was referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen, and has been published for three months previous to the time of making the choice of the members of the present Legislature :

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Assembly do agree to the said proposed amendment.

WHEREAS at the last session of the Legislature, the following amendment was proposed to the Constitution of this State :

No property qualification shall be required to render a person eligible to, or capable of holding any office or public trust in this State :

AND WHEREAS the said proposed amendment was, at the said last session, agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, and was entered on their journals with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and was referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen, and has been published for three months previous to the time of making the choice of the members of the present Legislature :

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Assembly do agree to the said proposed amendment.

WHEREAS at the last session of the Legislature, the following amendment was proposed to the Constitution of this State :

No judicial officer shall be removed by the joint resolution of the two houses of the legislature, or by the senate on the recommendation of the governor, unless the cause of such removal shall be entered on the journal of both houses, or of the senate, as the case may be ; and such officer against whom the legislature or the senate may be about to proceed, shall be served with notice thereof, accompanied with a copy of the causes alleged for his removal, at least twenty days before the day on which either house shall act thereupon, and shall have an opportunity to be heard in his defence before any question shall be taken upon such removal ; and the yeas and nays shall be entered upon the journals of the senate, or houses, as the case may be.

AND WHEREAS the said proposed amendment was, at the said last session, agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, and was entered on their journals with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and was referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen, and has been published for three months previous to the time of making the choice of the members of the present Legislature :

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Assembly do agree to the said proposed amendment.

WHEREAS at the last session of the Legislature, the following amendments were proposed to the Constitution of this State :

AMENDMENT No. 1.

The pledges and guarantees of the act entitled "An act to provide for paying the debts and preserving the credit of the State," passed March 29th, 1842, are hereby confirmed ; and the revenues specified therein shall be applied to the purposes therein specified, including the repayment to the United States Deposit Fund, and to the Common School Fund, of all moneys of the said funds which have been or shall be invested in pursuance of the said act, in such equal annual sums as will be sufficient to pay in full, both principal and interest, all the debts and liabilities of this State, as they existed at the time of the passage of the said act ; and also all the debts and liabilities of the State authorised by said act to be created and incurred, and which have been created and incurred by authority of and pursuant to said act, in the period of twenty-two and a half years from the time said act was passed and took effect ; and the legislature shall not divert any part of the revenues appropriated by said act, requisite to pay in full, both principal and interest, all the debts and liabilities of the State herein before specified, within the fixed period of time, and in the equal annual sums herein before expressed, from the purposes to which they are herein before directed to be applied.

AMENDMENT No. 2.

The legislature shall not in any manner create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities of the State, direct or contingent, which shall, singly or in the aggregate, at any time exceed one million of dollars, except to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorised by law for some single object or work to be distinctly specified therein ; and such law shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax sufficient to pay the interest of such debt or liability as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt or liability within eighteen years from the time of the contracting thereof ; and no such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received the sanction of a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election ; and on the final passage of every such bill in either house of the legislature, the question shall be taken by ayes and nays, duly entered on the journal, and shall be "Shall this bill pass, and ought the same to receive the sanction of the people ?" And the assent of a majority of the members elected to each house of the legislature shall be requisite to the passage of such bill ; and such law shall be irrepealable, until such debt or liability, and the interest thereon, are fully paid and discharged ; and the moneys arising from any loans or stocks creating such debt or liability, shall be applied to the object or work specified in the act authorising such debt or liability, or for the payment of such debt or liability, and to no other purpose whatever. Where a debt or liability on the part of the State shall be created to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, the moneys arising from the loans or stock creating such debt or liability shall be applied to the purpose for which the same were raised, or for the repayment of such debt or liability, and to no other purpose whatever.

AND WHEREAS the said proposed amendments were, at the said last session, agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, and were entered on their journals with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and were referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen, and have been published for three months previous to the time of making the choice of the members of the present Legislature :

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Assembly do agree to the said proposed amendments.

And after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Jones, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The bill entitled "An act to amend an act to reduce the number of canal commissioners, and to provide for their election by the people, passed May 6th, 1844," was received from the Senate, with a message, informing that they had passed the same with the amendment therewith delivered.

The said amendment having been read,

Mr. T. R. Lee moved to amend the amendment of the Senate, by adding the words following :

"And that the salaries of all officers payable out of the treasury or monies of the people of the State of New-York, be, and they hereby are reduced one-fifth, or twenty per cent on the amount of such salaries respectively."

Mr. Comstock moved the previous question.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would second the call for the previous question, and it was determined in the affirmative.

A message from the Governor was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Albany, February 3, 1845. }

TO THE LEGISLATURE.

I transmit, herewith, the annual report of the Commissary-General, and take the occasion to invite the attention of the Legislature to the information communicated in relation to the condition of the State Arsenal in the city of New-York, and to the negotiation between this State and the United States for the sale of the fortifications on Staten Island to the latter.

It will appear that definite terms, for the sale of the State property upon Staten Island, were long since given to the proper federal authorities, which still await the action of that government. If the Legislature shall not see fit to modify those terms, the only desirable action would seem to be that most likely to induce an early decision by the federal authorities upon them.

The Commissary-General suggests sending an agent to Washington for this purpose, but as legislation only is required, and as the subject is shown to be before Congress in the shape of a bill reported from the appropriate committee, it would seem to me that a prompt expression of the Legislature, calculated to draw the attention of the representatives from the State to this bill, would be more likely to secure the desired result.

The various expressions of the executive officers of the United States upon this subject, show that they are fully impressed with the importance of the purchase, to the United States; and do not leave any ground to apprehend either difficulty or delay in bringing the negotiation to a close, in case Congress see fit to invest them with the necessary authority, and to place at their disposal the requisite means.

I respectfully ask the attention of the Legislature to another subject discussed in this report. I refer to the loan of State arms to companies of the militia not called into the service of the State. The practice has been indulged, for several years, and many of the arms from the State Arsenal, have been thus loaned out, upon bonds supposed to be sufficient when taken, to secure their safe return.

Still, serious doubts have been entertained, whether the law authorizes this disposition of these arms, at the discretion of the Executive, and the subject has been repeatedly brought before the Legislature, without, so far as I am aware, having secured either its action, or expression, upon this point.

My immediate predecessor, in one of his annual messages, expressed his strong doubts as to his authority to make these loans, and urged that further legislation might be had, but stated that he had concluded to pursue the practice, which he found in existence, unless the Legislature should signify its dissent.

My examinations have satisfied me that the authority does not exist under the law as it is, and I shall therefore be constrained to decline all such loans of the public arms, unless the authority to make them shall be conferred. Several applications have already been refused upon this ground, and as they are frequent, and a suspension of the former practice may seriously affect the formation, and extension, of uniformed companies of the militia, the subject is again respectfully, but earnestly, urged upon the attention of the Legislature.

If the practice is to be continued, it should be not only expressly legalized, but regulated by distinct enactments as to the security to be required, the manner of ascertaining the sufficiency of the sureties; the facts upon which loans of arms shall be made; the mode of ascertaining periodically the condition of the arms loaned; the continued ability of the sureties, and the like.

SILAS WRIGHT.

[See Document No. 51.]

On motion of Mr. Mather,

Resolved, That six hundred extra copies of the report of the Commissary General be printed for the use of the Military Department; also one hundred extra copies for the Commissary General.

[See Document No. 99.]

Pursuant to title third of the fifth chapter of the first part of the Revised Statutes of this State, and agreeably to the concurrent resolution of the Senate and Assembly, the House proceeded to nominate a Secretary of State; when each member present openly nominated as follows, to wit:

Ordered, That the Clerk return the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that the Assembly have passed the same with the amendments thereto therewith delivered.

On motion of Mr. Howard,

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act in relation to moneys raised for the support of the town poor in the county of Lewis," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that the Assembly have passed the same without amendment.

On motion of Mr. De Puy,

Resolved, That the committee on the judiciary be instructed to inquire and report to this House by bill or otherwise, whether the admitting persons to bail, charged with offences punishable by imprisonment in the State prison, and whose crimes are manifest, is authorised by the existing laws ; and if so, whether the law in this respect ought not to be amended, and rendered so plain and certain as to prevent the bailing of such persons as shall hereafter commit felonies or crimes punishable by imprisonment in the State prison, and manifestly guilty : And also that the said committee inquire and report to this House, whether the writ of habeas corpus has not been perverted from its true ends and objects by officers entrusted with its execution, to the enlargement from prison of notorious felons, by admitting them to bail oftentimes insufficient, and often when not bailable, whereby many of such felons have escaped punishment, and impunity has thus been afforded to high crimes, to the great detriment of public morals, and tending to the increase of crimes.

On motion of Mr. Dickson,

Resolved, That the Clerk of this House transmit a respectful message to the Senate, informing them that the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate medical societies, for the purpose of regulating the practice of physic and surgery in this State,' passed April 10th, 1813," is, in the opinion of this House, a two-third bill ; and that the Honorable the Senate be requested to pass said bill by a two-third vote.

Pursuant to title third of the fifth chapter of the first part of the Revised Statutes of this State, and agreeably to the concurrent resolution of the Senate and Assembly, the House proceeded to nominate a Senator to represent this State in the Senate of the Congress of the United States ; when each member present openly nominated as follows :

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker declared that Daniel S. Dickinson, having been nominated by a majority of the members present, was duly nominated for the office of Senator in the Congress of the United States from the State of New-York, on the part of the Assembly.

A copy of a resolution of the Senate was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the Senate will immediately meet the Assembly in the Assembly chamber, to compare their respective nominations for the office of Senator in the Congress of the United States.

Thereupon,

Resolved, That the Assembly will immediately meet the Senate in the Assembly chamber, to compare their respective nominations of Senator in the Congress of the United States.

Ordered, That the Clerk deliver a copy of the preceding resolution to the Senate.

The Senate accordingly attended in the Assembly chamber ; and having withdrawn, Mr. Speaker informed the House, that on comparing the nominations of the Senate and Assembly, they were found to agree in the name of Daniel S. Dickinson to represent this State in the Senate of the Congress of the United States.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker declared Daniel S. Dickinson to be duly chosen by the Legislature, a Senator to represent the State of New-York in the Senate of the Congress of the United States, for the term of six years from the fourth day of March, 1845.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Hine asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act to repeal the court of special sessions, and to reduce town and county expenses;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to the committee on the internal affairs of towns and counties.

Mr. D. Gould gave notice that he would, at an early day, ask leave to introduce a bill in relation to an act entitled "An act in relation to the State Prison at Auburn."

On motion of Mr. Bloss,

Resolved, That the petition and papers relating to the claim of Oliver Culver against the State, be taken from the files of the house, and referred to the committee on claims.

Mr. Crain gave notice that he would, at some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill submitting the question of convention or no convention to the people of this State.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Van Valkenburgh, in the words following :

Resolved, (if the Honorable the Senate concur herein,) That pursuant to the twelfth section of the act incorporating the New-York and Erie Railroad Company, the consent of the Legislature be and is hereby granted, allowing said company to connect the railroad authorised by the said act, with a continuation of about sixteen miles of the line thereof into the State of Pennsylvania, around the great bend of the Susquehannah; and also to connect the same with a continuation of not exceeding twenty-five miles of the line thereof into the said State of Pennsylvania, along the southerly side of the Delaware river in the county of Pike, opposite to, and in order to avoid all interference with the canal of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company; and also to connect their said railroad with the Blossburgh and Corning railroad, at the intersection thereof in the village of Corning; provided that the line of the said railroad shall, as heretofore contemplated, pass through the villages of Deposit in Delaware and Binghamton in Broome counties.

Mr. Morris moved to lay the said resolution on the table.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion, and it was determined in the affirmative.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Thayer asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act to confirm the official acts of Birdseye Norton, a justice of the peace;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to the committee on the judiciary.

On motion of Mr. Van Schoonhoven,

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolutions heretofore offered by Mr. Harris, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the directors or trustees of the Troy and Greenbush Railroad Association, applying for an act of incorporation, communicate to this House a copy of the agreement between them and the New-York and Albany Railroad Company, referred to in their application; also of their articles of association, with the names of the stockholders on the first day of January instant, the amount of stock held by each, and the place of residence of each of said stockholders.

Resolved, That the said directors or trustees be requested to report to this House, whether, since the said association was formed, they have caused any proceedings to be had for acquiring title to any lands ; and whether they have in any, and how many cases, instituted such proceedings, and caused damages to be assessed under the act incorporating the New-York and Albany Railroad Company ; and in how many and what cases, if any, have the proceedings and verdict of the jury been filed in the office of the county clerk ; and in how many and what cases, after the assessment of damages by a jury, have the said association obtained deeds from the owners of the land ; and whether such deeds, and which of them, if any, have been taken to the New-York and Albany Railroad Company, or to what individuals by name ; and under what trust, if any, and in how many and what cases has title to any lands, for the track of the said railroad, been vested in the New-York and Albany Railroad Company as grantees named in the deed of conveyance.

Mr. Van Schoonhoven moved to amend the said resolutions, by adding to the last the words "And said communications and reports, required by this and the foregoing resolution, shall be made by said directors and trustees under the oath or oaths of one or more of the said directors or trustees, or of the officers or agents of said association."

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Van Schoonhoven, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolutions, as amended, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Bailey, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That all resolutions and motions now pending, or which may be hereafter introduced, relating to the question of the annexation of Texas to the United States, be referred to the select committee having charge of that subject.

The question recurred on agreeing to the amendment offered by Mr. Worden to the said resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Add the words "and that the said select committee be instructed to report, on Monday next, favorably to the concurrent resolutions heretofore offered by Mr. Worden, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That no power is delegated to the Federal Congress to enter into new political associations or confederacies by which the territory of a foreign government shall become incorporated with the United States ; and that any law, stipulation or arrangement made by Congress to annex Texas to this Union would be a violation of the Constitution.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the acquisition of territory by the Federal Government, for the purpose of strengthening or extending the institution of slavery, would be a perversion of power to objects and purposes unauthorised by the Constitution

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the Senators from this State be instructed to vote for the rejection of any treaty to admit Texas into the Union.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That our senators from this State be instructed, and our representatives in Congress requested to oppose the admission as a State into the Union, of any territory, without making the prohibition of slavery an indispensable condition of admission."

Debates were had thereon ; when

Mr. J. Young moved that the House do now adjourn.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion, and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. Comstock moved the previous question.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would second the call for the previous question, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question, "Shall the main question be now put?" and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker stated the question to be, whether the House would agree to the resolution offered by Mr. Bailey, in the words following :

Resolved, That the resolutions and notices now pending, or which may be hereafter introduced, relating to the question of the annexation of Texas to the United States, be referred to the select committee having charge of that subject.

Mr. D. Lee called for a division of the question.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to to so much of the said resolution as relates to resolutions and notices now pending, and it was determined in the affirmative.

SILAS WRIGHT.

A communication from the Hon. Thomas Farrington was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

TREASURER'S OFFICE, }
Albany, February 4, 1845. }

Hon. HORATIO SEYMOUR, Speaker of the Assembly.

SIR,

My official connection with the Government having been terminated by the appointment of a successor, I respectfully request that a joint committee of the two houses of the Legislature may be appointed, to examine my accounts from the close of the last fiscal year to the present time.

I desire that you would communicate this request to the Honorable the Assembly.

I am, Sir, with great respect,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS FARRINGTON,

Late Treasurer.

A communication from the Hon. Benjamin Enos was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

Albany, February 4, 1845.

TO THE SPEAKER OF THE ASSEMBLY.

SIR,

I have received notice, through the Clerk of the Assembly, that I have been appointed to the office of Treasurer of this State.

Permit me, Sir, to say to you and the Honorable Body over which you preside, that I accept the office ; that I will endeavor to discharge the duties thereof with honor to myself, and to the satisfaction of the people of the State of New-York.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

BENJAMIN ENOS.

Mr. Chase offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That a joint committee, to be composed of one member of the Senate and two members of the Assembly, be appointed, to examine the accounts of Thomas Farrington, late Treasurer of this State, from the close of the last fiscal year to the time his term of office expired.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Oakley, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the senators and representatives of this State in Congress be instructed to urge the appropriation for the State Arsenal in New-York city, according to the previous action of Congress and of this State.

On motion of Mr. Comstock,

Ordered, That the said resolution be referred to the committee on the militia and public defence.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Morrison asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act concerning choses and actions ;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to the committee on the judiciary.

The annual report of the Bank of Geneva, relative to unclaimed dividends and deposits, was received, read, and ordered to be printed and laid on the table.

The annual report of the Bank of Whitehall, relative to unclaimed dividends and deposits, was received, read, and ordered to be printed and laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Comstock,

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the motion made yesterday by Mr. Coe, to wit, that the vote on agreeing to that portion of the resolution offered by Mr. Bailey, which relates to resolutions and notices which may be hereafter introduced on the subject of the annexation of Texas to the United States, be reconsidered.

Debates were had thereon ; when

Mr. Jones moved the previous question.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would second the call for the previous question, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question, "Shall the main question be now put?" and it was determined in the affirmative.

A communication from the Hon. Martin Van Buren was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

Lindenwald, February 7, 1845.

SIR,

I received last evening copies of the resolutions of the two Houses of the Legislature, appointing me one of the Regents of the University.

The appointment is one of a character which would induce me to accept it without hesitation, if I could hope to discharge its duties with advantage ; but neither residing at the seat of government where the meetings of the board are held, nor expecting to spend much of my time there during the usual period of its sessions, and having frequently whilst a member experienced the great inconvenience which arises from the remote residence of so many of the regents, I am confident I shall best consult my duty to the State, and the great interests committed to the charge of the board, by enabling the Legislature to select a citizen in my place who is more eligibly situated in these respects.

I beg you, therefore, to inform the Honorable the Assembly of my declension of the appointment, and to express to its members my unfeigned thanks for this gratifying manifestation of their continued respect and regard.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,

MARTIN VAN BUREN.

The Hon. HORATIO SEYMOUR,
Speaker of the Assembly.

The report of the Troy and Greenbush Railroad Association, in pursuance of a resolution of the Assembly, was received and read.

[See Document No. 68.]

On motion of Mr. Harris,

Ordered, That three times the usual number of copies of the said report be printed for the use of the Legislature.

A message from the Senate, with the bill therein mentioned, was received and read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to pay the militia called into service in December 1844, and January 1845, and for other purposes," and request the concurrence of the Assembly in the same.

The said bill was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to the committee on the militia and public defence.

The bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act authorising the construction of a basin in the city of Albany, at the termination of the Erie and Champlain canals,'" was announced by the Chair as in order for a third reading.

On motion of Mr. Harris,

Ordered, That the said bill be referred to the committee on canals.

Mr. Wheeler gave notice that he would, on some early day, ask leave to introduce a bill amending the Revised Statutes in relation to attachments against non-resident debtors.

Mr. Wheeler gave notice that he would, at an early day, ask leave to introduce a bill to amend the law in the collection of debts, and for other purposes.

Mr. J. Brooks gave notice that he would, at an early day, ask leave to introduce a bill to amend the charter of the Montgomery Academy, Orange county.

On motion of Mr. Thompson,

Resolved, That five times the usual number of the ninth annual report of the managers of the New-York Institution for the Blind, be printed for the use of the members of this house.

Mr. Wheeler offered for the consideration of the House a preamble and resolution, in the words following, to wit :

[ASSEMBLY JOURNAL.]

the people, and that safety and happiness are permanent as long as the spirit of forbearance and mutual concession are manifested : And whereas that manifestation is made by the last outward, honest show of the ballot-box, and its multiform character made into one whole by those the people elect to carry out their wishes : And whereas all questions of extending the territory of the sovereignty of a people are difficult and embarrassing, and require time for a perfect embodiment, that other governments may acknowledge the justice, the high purpose, and the commanding good to the family of nations of such extension of power : And whereas the people of the United States, in their several sovereign capacities, have indicated their wishes in the election of a chief magistrate of this nation, and others to form a new congress, to carry out the will of the people : And whereas the question of the annexation of the Republic of Texas to this Union has been presented in various forms by the present National Executive to the two Houses of Congress, and by them discussed, acted upon, but not perfected : And whereas the present chief magistrate of the nation is soon to leave his official station, and many of the present members of congress to those whom the people have elected, and whose official relations to the people may be made perfect immediately after the fourth of March next :

Therefore,

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That our senators in Congress be instructed, and our representatives in Congress be earnestly requested, to use their best efforts to postpone until the next session of Congress any action for the annexation of the Republic of Texas to the United States, except such as may lead to the appointment of a commission with powers to negotiate terms and conditions for the cession of such territory as may be deemed wise to have annexed, and to settle the southern boundary between the United States and the Republic of Mexico, from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, to be submitted to the two Houses of Congress at their first meeting after the fourth of March next.

Ordered, That the said preamble and resolution be referred to the select committee on the annexation of Texas to the United States.

The House then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the annual message from the Governor ; and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Sweeney, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The House then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Joseph Perrine ;" the bill entitled "An act to amend the charter of the village of Geneva ;" and the bill entitled "An act to change the names of Richard Bull, George E. Bull, Henry Bull and Samuel G. Bull ;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. T. R. Lee, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Joseph Perrine," and agreed to the same without amendment ; which report was agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

Mr. T. R. Lee, from the same committee, also reported that the committee had gone through the bill entitled "An act to amend the charter of the village of Geneva," and agreed to the same without amendment; which report was agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

Mr. T. R. Lee, from the same committee, also reported that the committee had gone through the bill entitled "An act to change the names of Richard Bull, George E. Bull, Henry Bull and Samuel G. Bull," and agreed to the same without amendment; which report was agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

On motion of Mr. C. B. Miller,

The House then adjourned to eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

Mr. Niven offered for the consideration of the House a preamble and resolution, in the words following, to wit :

WHEREAS the recent Democratic National Convention at Baltimore did resolve that the re-annexation of Texas was a "great American measure, which ought to be consummated as soon as practicable ;" and the People of these United States have since elected a President known to be in favor of immediate annexation, furnishing an unanswerable argument that the great Democratic Party of the Union are in favor of the measure :

AND WHEREAS ALSO it becomes the duty of the Legislature of New-York to assume a position in relation to the said measure of annexation, in conformity with what they believe to be the views of the People of this State, by whom they have been chosen to seats in this body :

WE DO, THEREFORE, DECLARE, that we are in favor of the re-annexation of Texas, at the earliest practicable period, for the reasons following, to wit :

First. Because it will extend and secure the blessings of republican institutions over a broad extent of territory, peopled by a race of men who are bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh ; who, having tasted freedom in the United States, and carved out the independence of Texas by their valor, now ask for admission into the Union, and bring with them their infant Republic as a noble offering at the shrine of Liberty, an earnest of their worth and fitness to be numbered with their brethren.

Secondly. Because it will secure to these United States, now and forever, the advantages we now possess, over all the nations of the world, in the production of the great American staple, Cotton ; an advantage of which the jealousy of Great Britain has vainly sought to strip us by her efforts in the Indies, and now to the same end is directing her eagle eye towards the fair fields of Texas.

Thirdly. Because it will open an extensive market for the agricultural products and manufactures of the Northern States, in exchange for the productions of the South, and thus strengthen and perpetuate the bonds of our union.

Fourthly. Because it will provide a better southern frontier in case of war, and amply protect our commerce on the Gulf of Mexico, through which the products of the Valley of the Mississippi must forever find their outlet.

Fifthly. Because thereby slavery, so repugnant to the people of the North, with all its concomitant evils, will be lessened, and an outlet be formed, by which, according to the inevitable "laws of population," slavery must become extinct at no distant day, because the laws of the Union will forever put an end to the foreign slave trade within the boundaries of Texas, and because the slaveholders of the Northern slave states will naturally seek a more profitable field of labor on the more fertile soil of Texas, and leave their former places to be filled by the enterprising and free citizens of the North.

Sixthly. Because under no circumstances can the admission of Texas into the Union give to the Slave States a preponderance in our national councils : Iowa is already knocking for admission into the Union as a Free State ; the vast Territory of Oregon, equal in extent to all the slaveholding States, is forever sacred to freedom. We hold that the Slave States and Free States, under the Constitution of the Union, stand upon common ground, and each have equal right to be jealous of the encroachment of the other.

Under these circumstances, we regard all objections to the annexation of Texas, on the ground of slavery, as the effusions of a whining hypocrisy, or what is worse, political abolitionism :

Therefore,

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That our senators in Congress be instructed, and our representatives requested, to vote for the Annexation of Texas, and to use all proper means to prevent the loss of a great and "permanent national acquisition on account of a temporary institution."

Ordered, That the said preamble and resolution be referred to the select committee on the annexation of Texas to the United States.

On motion of Mr. Coe,

Resolved, That the papers relating to the annexation of a part of the town of Almond in the county of Allegany, be taken from the files of this house, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

Mr. Coe offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Hon. the Senate concur,) That the representatives in Congress from this State be requested to use their influence in favor of the passage, through the House of Representatives, of the bill which has passed the Senate of the United States, reducing the rates of postage.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Fenn,

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to furnish this House a copy of the contract with Messrs. Carroll & Cook, for the printing and binding of the Geological Survey of the State.

On motion of Mr. Fenn,

Resolved, That the Comptroller be, and is hereby requested to furnish this House the amounts paid for printing, binding and engraving, out of the $58,301.74 mentioned in his report, page 43, for the continuing the publication of the Geological Survey of the State, and the amounts that have been paid to the gentlemen that have been and are engaged in the survey.

On motion of Mr. C. F. Crosby,

Resolved, That the Senate bill in relation to the payment of the troops called out by the difficulties in Columbia county, be referred to the committee of the whole having in charge the Governor's message.

Mr. D. Lee gave notice that he would, at an early day, ask leave to introduce a bill to amend the act relating to the census or enumeration of the inhabitants of the State.

The House then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the annual message from the Governor, and on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to pay the militia called into service in December 1844, and January 1845, and for other purposes ;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Horton, from the said committee, reported progress on the message of the Governor, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

Mr. Horton, from the same committee, reported progress on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to pay the militia called into service in December 1844, and January 1845, and for other purposes," and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The report of the Canal Board, on the petition of Barnes & Hinman, was received and read.

[See Document No. 73.]

Ordered, That the said report be referred to the committee on claims.

By unanimous consent,

Mr. Russell moved that the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to pay the militia called into service in December 1844, and January 1845, and for other purposes," be printed.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That Mr. Field have leave of absence for ten days, and Mr. De Puy for seven days.

On motion of Mr. Betts,

The House then adjourned to eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

Ordered, That the Clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

Mr. Morrison offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the committee on railroads be instructed to inquire whether private letter carriers, or persons suspected of being such carriers, have for that cause been excluded from the cars of any railroad company incorporated in this State ; and whether such exclusion has been directed in pursuance of any contract made to that effect with the Post-office Department, for the transportation of the mails ; with power to send for persons and papers, with leave to report by bill or otherwise.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Coe, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Hon. the Senate concur,) That the representatives in Congress from this State be requested to use their influence in favor of the passage, through the House of Representatives, of the bill which has passed the Senate of the United States, reducing the rates of postage.

Mr. Coe amended the said resolution, by adding thereto the words "and that the Governor of this State be requested to transmit a copy of the foregoing resolution to each of the representatives in Congress from this State."

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, as amended, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk deliver the said resolution to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

Mr. Niven moved that the House do now proceed to the consideration of the report and resolution of the committee on privileges and elections, on the petition of sundry inhabitants of the city of New-York, praying for the passage of an act to prevent naturalized citizens from voting, until after one year's residence in the State and six months in the county after naturalization.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would proceed to the consideration of the said report and resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The said resolution was then read, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Niven asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act to amend the election law of 1842 ;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

Mr. Thompson gave notice that he would, at an early day, ask leave to introduce a bill more effectually to punish unlawful attempts at producing abortion.

The House then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the annual message from the Governor ; on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to pay the militia called into service in December 1844, and January 1845, and for other purposes ;" and on the bill entitled "An act for the relief of certain purchasers of lands in the Oneida reservation in 1840 and 1841 ;” and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Sweeney, from the said committee, reported progress on the said message and bills, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

On motion of Mr. Dayton,

Ordered, That Mr. Brower have leave of absence for ten days.

A message from the Senate, delivered by Mr. Lester, was received and read, informing that Mr. Lester and Mr. Bartlett had been appointed a committee on the part of the Senate, to announce to the Assembly the election of the Hon. Abraham Bockee as President pro tempore of the Senate.

Three several resolutions were received from the Senate, for concurrence, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That in the opinion of this Legislature, low rates of postage will aid the business of the country, and conduce to the intellectual advancement and to the comforts and happiness of the people : That the bill now before Congress, and which has passed the Senate, will try the experiment of the effect of cheap rates of postage upon the revenues of the General Post-office Department, and that the present is a favorable opportunity to try said experiment :

Therefore, further,

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That our senators in Congress be instructed, and our representatives be requested, to use their best exertions for the passage of the bill which has recently passed the Senate of the United States, reducing the rates of postage.

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the Governor be requested to transmit the foregoing resolutions to our senators and representatives in Congress.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would concur with the Senate in their said resolutions, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the said resolutions to the Senate, and inform them that the Assembly have concurred in the same without amendment.

A message from the Governor was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Albany, February 13, 1845. }

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

In compliance with the resolution of the Honorable the Assembly of the twelfth instant, requesting me to furnish that House with “ a copy of the contract with Messrs. Carroll & Cook, for the printing and binding of the Geological Survey of the State,” I have the honor to transmit a copy of a contract, which I find was deposited in the office of the Comptroller, by the late Governor, and which I suppose to be the contract, a copy of which is called for by the resolution.

SILAS WRIGHT.

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT, made this twenty-fourth day of April 1843, between the People of the State of New-York, by William C. Bouck, Governor, pursuant to an act entitled "An act in relation to the Natural History of New-York," passed April 8th, 1843, of the first part, and Thomas B. Carroll and Alanson Cook, Printers to the Assembly, of the second part, Witnesseth, that the said parties of the second part hereby covenant and engage to publish and print all that which remains to be done to complete all the volumes of the Natural History of the State of New-York, and also to bind the said volumes. The said printing and binding is in all respects to be as well executed, and of as good paper, as the first volumes of said History already printed.

The said parties of the second part are to receive from the Treasury, for said printing and binding, the following prices, to wit :
 For the composition of every one thousand ems, forty-five cents ;
 For every ream of paper necessarily used, at the rate of five dollars per ream ;

For the presswork, at the rate of one dollar for every white token ;
 For pressing the sheets, at the rate of fifty cents for every ream ;
 For folding, at the rate of forty cents for every ream ;
 For binding, at the rate of sixty-five cents per volume.

The foregoing prices are to include the expense of furnishing all the materials, labelling the volumes, in pressing on the outer side of the covers the appropriate illustrations, and the performance of every kind of labor and every necessary expense to a perfect completion of the said printing and binding in all respects ; excepting, however, that if there should be any rule work, as it is technically called, that is, columns of matter that require to be justified, an additional allowance of twenty cents for every one thousand ems of such work is to be paid.

The said volumes are to be of the same size as those now printed ; and every part of the work comprised in this contract shall be done in such manner and at such time as shall be required by, and approved of by, the person administering the Government of this State ; on whose certificate, the Treasurer will be required to pay, out of any monies in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum to which the said parties of the second part shall be entitled under this contract, and as fast as each volume shall be completed, approved of by the Governor, and deposited in the office of the Secretary of State.

In witness whereof, the parties have hereunto subscribed their names, the day and year first above written.

WILLIAM C. BOUCK,
 THOMAS B. CARROLL,
 ALANSON COOK.

Ordered, That the said contract be printed, and laid on the table.

[See Document No. 78.]

Mr. Coe offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the Canal Commissioners be requested to report to this House, in carrying out the provisions of the eighth section of the act passed May 6th, 1844, entitled "An act to provide for the preservation of certain public works, and for other purposes," what proposals were received by them for the construction or completion of the work on section 51 to 57 of the Erie Canal, both inclusive ; by whom such proposals were made, what their terms, what securities offered : If, in any case, the proposals which were apparently most favorable to the State were rejected, the reasons of such rejection, and particularly whether the securities in such cases were deemed insufficient : Also whether, in any case, the proposals first accepted by the Commissioners, failed to be consummated ; if so, the reasons of such failure : Also as to any of said sections, where contracts have been entered into, what are the terms of said contracts, and with whom made.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Van Valkenburgh,

Resolved, That some member of this House be appointed to supply the place on the committee appointed to visit and examine the western branch of the Schoharie turnpike road, of an absent member of the said committee.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Bush, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the Commissary General be requested to furnish this House with a report of the expenses and liabilities incurred by him in the military expedition in December and January last, under the order of the Governor.

Mr. M'Key moved to lay the said resolution on the table.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion, and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. Van Schoonhoven offered for the consideration of the House a preamble and resolution, in the words following, to wit :

WHEREAS the rights, privileges and immunities of a large class of the free citizens of this State, under the Constitution of the United States, are openly and deliberately violated by a law of South-Carolina, inconsistent with and in defiance of the provisions of said Constitution ; which law is referred to particularly in certain resolutions heretofore submitted to this house, and some time since referred to a committee of the whole house, relating to the expulsion of the Hon. Samuel Hoar from said State :

AND WHEREAS the duty which this State owes to herself and her citizens, demands early and decisive action, by way of expression of her protest against said law of South-Carolina :

Therefore,

Resolved, That the resolutions relating to the existing controversy between Massachusetts and South-Carolina, some time since submitted to this House, be made a special order for Monday next at twelve o'clock noon, and that the House will then go into committee of the whole upon that subject.

Mr. M. Brooks moved to lay the said preamble and resolution on the table.

Pending the consideration of the said motion, and on motion of Mr. Bevens,

The House then adjourned to eleven o'clock on Monday morning.

On motion of Mr. Morrison,

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to inform this House, whether the sum of ten thousand dollars, or thereabouts, has not been set apart for this State, from the United States land fund; and if yea, where the same is, the amount thereof, and why the same has not been received into the Treasury of this State.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution offered on Saturday by Mr. Coe, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That the Canal Commissioners be requested to report to this House, in carrying out the provisions of the eighth section of the act passed May 6th, 1844, entitled "An act to provide for the preservation of certain public works, and for other purposes," what proposals were received by them for the construction or completion of the work on section 51 to 57 of the Erie Canal, both inclusive; by whom such proposals were made, what their terms, what securities offered: If, in any case, the proposals which were apparently most favorable to the State were rejected, the reasons of such rejection, and particularly whether the securities in such cases were deemed insufficient: Also whether, in any case, the proposals first accepted by the Commissioners, failed to be consummated; if so, the reasons of such failure: Also as to any of said sections, when contracts have been entered into, what are the terms of said contracts, and with whom made.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Bevens,

Ordered, That the petition of one hundred and fifty inhabitants of the city of Albany, relative to religious legislation, be taken from the table, and referred to the select committee on constitutional amendments.

Mr. D. Lee called for the consideration of the resolution offered by him on Saturday, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That the committee to whom was referred the papers in relation to the annexation of Texas, be discharged from the further consideration of the subject; and that the papers reported by them, and those in their possession, be referred to the committee of the whole, and made the special order for Monday next at twelve o'clock at noon.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would proceed to the consideration of the said resolution, and it was determined in the negative.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

A message from the Governor was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

In reply to the resolution of the Honorable the Assembly of the 17th instant, requesting me to inform that House "whether the sum of ten thousand dollars, or thereabouts, has not been set apart for this State from the United States Land Fund ; and if yea, where the same is, the amount thereof, and why the same has not been received into the Treasury of this State," I have to refer the House to a communication made to the Legislature, by my immediate predecessor in office, under date of the 18th of April, 1843, which I find upon page 1003 of the Assembly Journal of 1843. That communication contains all the information in my possession upon the subject of the various inquiries embraced in the resolution. The letter from the Comptroller of the Treasury, referred to in the message of Governor Bouck, I do not find upon the executive files, and therefore can only speak of it from that reference ; and I have no information as to the amount of money set apart to this State, any disposition made of it, or the reasons "why the same has not been received into the Treasury of this State," other than the information found in the message in question.

I do not find that the Legislature has given to the Governor any advice or direction, in reference to his action upon the communication from the Comptroller of the Treasury, which was requested in the message referred to. I am aware that the law of Congress authorises the payments under it to be made to the order of the Executive of the State, in cases where the State Legislature does not otherwise direct ; but as the late Governor solicited the direction of the Legislature, I presume the reason of his not acting was the absence of that direction.

I was not myself aware, until the resolution of the Honorable the Assembly was placed in my hands, that this amount of money had been set apart to the State. I infer that the sum named is the dividend falling to this State, from the shares of the original fund to be distributed, set to those States which have refused to accept the money. Not feeling certain that the Legislature of this State will be inclined to take from the common Treasury of all the States money thus voluntarily left in that Treasury by a sister State, for the purpose of converting it to its own separate use, had I been aware of the state of the facts as I now suppose them to exist, I should not have felt authorised, without the express direction of the Legislature, to have drawn for the money. The same view of the matter will restrain me, for the future, from availing myself of the power conferred by the law of Congress to bring this money into the Treasury of the State ; and I take this occasion to make the declaration, that the Legislature, if it shall be disposed to have the money drawn, may give its direction in the premises.

SILAS WRIGHT

[ See Document No. 88.]

Ordered, That the said message be laid on the table.

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act in relation to patent rights," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that the Assembly have passed the same without amendment.

The hour of twelve o'clock having arrived,

The House, in pursuance of a special order, resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to punish seduction and adultery as crimes, and for other purposes;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. D. Lee, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

CONGRESS HALL, }

TO THE SPEAKER OF THE ASSEMBLY.

SIR,

Acting under the authority of the directors of the New-York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, I have come to this city, with a select number of my pupils, to illustrate, before the Legislature of the State, the principles, the processes, and the results of our system of education. For this purpose I would respectfully ask the use of the Assembly chamber, on Friday (to-morrow) evening, at seven o'clock.

Respectfully yours,

H. P. PEET,

Principal of the Institution.

Ordered, That leave to occupy the Assembly chamber, as asked in the said communication, be granted.

Mr. Van Valkenburgh gave notice that he would, at an early day, introduce a bill providing that the several counties in the State shall be severally liable for all expenses incurred in suppressing insurrections and maintaining the public peace, unless of so formidable a nature as to require foreign military aid.

On motion of Mr. Dickson,

Resolved, That the papers on the files of this house, relating to the application to incorporate the Port Byron and Savannah Turnpike Road and Bridge Company, be taken therefrom, and referred to the committee on roads and bridges.

Mr. Jones offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That five times the usual number of the majority and minority reports and bills, on the militia and public defence, submitted a day or two since, be printed for the use of this House.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. Hervey gave notice, that subsequent to his taking his seat in this House on the seventh day of January last, he has discovered that his name has been materially changed, and is not aware that it has been so changed by any act of the Legislature, but finds it so changed by the clerks of this house and by the reporters for the public journals, that it is quite a different name from the one by which he has always been known and distinguished. He finds that he was, on the seventeenth instant, reported in one of the daily papers by a name that does not belong to any member of this Legislature ; and as he considers it not worth the trouble, embarrassment, and inconvenience which would attend and follow a permanent change of his name at his advanced age, he would hereby give notice that he may at some future day offer a resolution, authorising and requiring the clerks of this house, whenever they shall call or report him in voting or any other act done by him, to call and report him by the name by which he was elected and returned to this house as one of the members of this assembly.

Ordered, That said notice be referred to the committee on grievances.

Mr. Bowen offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the Canal Commissioners report to this House, in detail, what will probably be the expense of completing all the mechanical structures commenced on the Erie canal enlargement, and of all work necessary to connect said structures with the Erie canal, to bring into use said structures ; and also what the expense will probably be of building, repairing, etc. the work which will be necessary to continue in use that portion of the Erie canal which will be abandoned by bringing into use the above work on the Erie canal enlargement.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. Harris offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the bill to incorporate the Troy and Greenbush Railroad Association, with the petitions, remonstrances and other papers relating thereto, be referred back to the committee on railroads.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. Coe offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That when this House adjourns on the twenty-first instant, it will adjourn to meet at ten o'clock in the forenoon on the twenty-fourth ; and that after the twenty-fourth, ten o'clock in the forenoon shall be the hour of meeting.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. Garretson offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That this Legislature will adjourn on Tuesday the eighth day of April next.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Wheeler,

Resolved, That five hundred copies of the annual report of the Deaf and Dumb Institution, ordered to be printed, be appropriated for the use of the Institution.

On motion of Mr. Bailey,

Resolved, That the proposed constitutional amendments reported to this House by the select committee on that subject, be made the special order of the day for to-morrow (Friday) at twelve o'clock, and each day thereafter until disposed of.

Mr. Howard offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the Canal Commissioners report to this House, what, in their opinion, will be the expense to preserve the unfinished work on the Genesee Valley canal for the ensuing year ; and also what will be the expense of completing said canal, from Shaker village, to the feeder south of Portage.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. L. H. Brown offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the Canal Commissioners report to this House the expense of completing the Black River canal from Boonville to Rome, together with the expense of completing the feeder to said canal ; and also the probable cost of preserving the work already done on the Black River canal and feeder for the ensuing year.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Niven,

Resolved, That the judiciary committee be discharged from the further consideration of petitions and bills in relation to the reduction of interest and usury, and that all such papers be referred to a select committee.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Morrison, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That it shall be the duty of the messengers of this House, under the direction of the Sergeant-at-arms, to place the legislative documents in their order upon the files of the members, before the house is opened ; and that no documents be hereafter laid upon the desks, except extra copies ; and that the per diem allowance of the messengers be increased to

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. A. H. Buell called for the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by him, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the president and secretary of each of the incorporated railroad companies within this State, make and return to this House, within ten days after receiving notice of this resolution, a statement, subscribed by said officers respectively, and verified by their oaths, showing results for the year ending first January last, in the following particulars :

1. The whole number of passengers transported, distinguishing the way passengers ;
2. The number received at each of the several stations along the line ;
3. The average time of running the whole distance, and the time of stoppages ;
4. The number of regular passenger trains per day, and, if changed during the year, stating the changes ;
5. The aggregate amount received from passengers, distinguishing the amount from way passengers ;
6. The amount earned and received for carrying the United States mail ;
7. The amount received for freight, with amount paid for tolls (if any) to the State ;
8. Amount received from all other resources ;
9. The amount paid out for all purposes, distinguishing expenses of repairs to road, repairs and purchasing of carriages and engines, amount paid for labor, amount for officers' salaries and superintendence, and amount for costs and fees in law suits, and any other items of importance ;
10. The amount of salary and compensation to each director and each officer of the company by name, other than laborers ;
11. The number of free passages granted to persons not travelling on the business of the company at the time, as near as can be ascertained.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would proceed to the consideration of the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The question recurred on agreeing to the said resolution.

Mr. Bailey moved that the said resolution be amended, so as to inquire if members of the Legislature ride on railroads without charge.

Mr. Comstock moved that the said resolution and amendment be referred to the committee on railroads.

Debates were thereupon had ; when

Mr. Niven called for the previous question.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would second the call for the previous question, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question, "Shall the main question be now put?" and it was determined in the affirmative.

Whereupon,

The House then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the said amendments to the Constitution ; and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Constant, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

On motion of Mr. Morrison,

Resolved, That the concurrent resolutions in relation to the New-York and Erie Railroad Company be referred back to the committee on railroads, without losing their place on the general orders.

Mr. Niven offered for the consideration of the House a preamble and resolution, in the words following, to wit :

WHEREAS it appears from a memorial presented to this House by the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, that such company is largely indebted to the State of New-York ; and that its ability to meet its engagements to the State depends on its being permitted to carry on its regular business, undisturbed by the operations of the New-York and Erie Railroad Company :

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Comptroller be respectfully requested to furnish to the Assembly a statement, showing the amount of the indebtedness of these companies respectively to this State ; and also whether said companies, or either of them, have paid the interest on their indebtedness to the State.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

The Chair announced the appointment of a select committee on the bill entitled "An act for the reduction of interest, and to prevent usury," to consist of Mr. Niven, Mr. Mather, Mr. Bush, Mr. Hannum and Mr. M'Carthy.

Mr. Wheeler offered for the consideration of the House a preamble and resolution, in the words following, to wit :

WHEREAS the object of a republican government is to give to the people the greatest security for life, liberty and property ; and these are made more valuable by a freedom from unnecessary restraint, a permanence to the fluctuations of trade, regularity in prices of labor and the products of the soil :

And whereas by the late treaty with China, and the improvements in the science of navigation and the arts, our commerce is rapidly approaching in extent to that of the greatest commercial nation in the world :

And whereas the capital of the country is very much lessened in its legitimate objects by the effects of the present commercial laws of the nation, and in many ways made the lever for unjust and improper legislation :

Therefore,

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That our senators in Congress be instructed, and our representatives in Congress be earnestly requested, to use their best efforts to obtain the passage of a bill which shall create for the United States a system of governmental storage and deposit, usually called a governmental warehousing system, liberal in its provisions, and consistent with the interest of each and all the sovereign States of the Union.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. J. Brooks offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the committee on agriculture be directed to inquire into the probable amount of land taken up by highways in this State ; the value of the same for pasture ; and the policy and constitutionality of the law providing that cattle may go at large upon the same.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. L. H. Brown offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That this House will meet, on Monday the twenty-fourth instant, at ten o'clock in the forenoon ; and that ten o'clock shall be the hour of meeting hereafter, until a different order be taken by the house.

Mr. Van Schoonhoven moved to amend the said resolution, by adding the words "and the House will adjourn at a quarter before two."

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Van Schoonhoven, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Titus,

Resolved, That the papers and petitions presented to this House at the present session, asking for an amendment or a repeal of the act passed at the last session, granting to railroad companies the privilege of carrying freight, and referred, be returned to the house, and referred to the committee on canals.

Mr. Comstock moved that the committee on the judiciary be discharged from the further consideration of the bill to amend the charter of the city of Rochester, and that the same be referred to the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Comstock, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Coe, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That when this House adjourns on the twenty-first instant, it will adjourn to meet at ten o'clock in the forenoon on the twenty-fourth ; and that after the twenty-fourth, ten o'clock in the forenoon shall be the hour of meeting.

Mr. Van Schoonhoven moved to amend the said resolution, by adding the words "that the House will adjourn at a quarter before two."

Debates were had thereon ; when

Mr. Bailey called for the previous question.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would second the call for the previous question, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question, "Shall the main question be now put?" and it was determined in the affirmative.

Whereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

A communication from H. P. Peet was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

Ordered, That the said report be referred to the committee on the militia and public defence.

A communication from the Comptroller was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE, }

TO THE SPEAKER OF THE ASSEMBLY.

SIR,

The forty-fifth section of title ninth of chapter ninth, part first of the Revised Statutes, requires the Comptroller to report at the close of each fiscal year, the sums paid during the year, "to all contractors, engineers, agents and servants of every description, employed on the canals, and all persons having received a compensation for damages," and the names of such persons ; which report for the last year, ending on the thirtieth September 1844, is herewith submitted.

A considerable portion of the report is made up of a mere transcript from the ledger in the Canal Department, of the sums paid during the year to contractors, giving the name of the contractor, the section of the canal or other work, and the amount in each case. The aggregate of these sums is given in the report of the Commissioners of the Canal Fund, and also in the report of the Canal Commissioners.

The items of all expenditures by the Canal Commissioners and the engineers are also embraced in the report now presented ; and there are also several interesting tables, showing the cost of the engineer department, a classification of the expenditures by canal superintendents for the fiscal year, and the average cost per mile for maintaining the several canals from 1826 to 1843 inclusive.

Respectfully your obedient servant,

A. C. FLAGG.

[See Document No. 162.]

Ordered, That the said report be referred to the committee on the public printing.

Mr. Van Schoonhoven offered for the consideration of the House a preamble and resolution, in the words following, to wit :

WHEREAS the People of the United States, in the organization of the General Government, did frame, ratify and declare an organic or fundamental law, denominated the "Constitution of the United States," designed not only to secure the union of the several States and promote the general welfare of the whole country, but especially and pre-eminently to secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and their posterity :

And whereas by an existing law of the State of South-Carolina, passed December 29th, 1835, the rights, privileges and immunities, and especially the personal liberty, of a large and very worthy portion of the free citizens of the State of New-York are directly infringed upon and violated ; the same being in direct conflict with, and utter disregard of, the provisions of said Constitution :

And whereas it is the duty of this, and of every other State of the Union, to watch over and protect all, and especially the most valuable and sacred rights of the citizens thereof, with incessant and untiring vigilance, and ever to manifest a promptness and determination to assert and vindicate these rights in all lawful ways :

Therefore,

Resolved, That (the Senate concurring) the Legislature of this State do hereby most solemnly protest against the said law, so as aforesaid passed by the State of South-Carolina ; and that His Excellency the Governor of New-York be, and he is hereby requested to communicate forthwith upon this subject with His Excellency the Governor of South-Carolina, transmitting a copy of the foregoing preamble and of this resolution, and earnestly to request of said State the repeal of any and every provision of said law referred to, inconsistent with the spirit and principles of said preamble, at the earliest possible day.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Constant, in the words following, to wit :

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. J. Brooks offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the Attorney General be requested to report to this House, as soon as may be, the shortest and simplest form of a deed, which, if incorporated into the laws of this State, would answer in all ordinary cases of conveying real estate.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Van Schoonhoven, in the words following :

WHEREAS the People of the United States, in the organization of the General Government, did frame, ratify and declare an organic or fundamental law, denominated the "Constitution of the United States," designed not only to secure the union of the several States and promote the general welfare of the whole country, but especially and pre-eminently to secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and their posterity :

And whereas by an existing law of the State of South-Carolina, passed December 29th, 1835, the rights, privileges and immunities, and especially the personal liberty, of a large and very worthy portion of the free citizens of the State of New-York are directly infringed upon and violated ; the same being in direct conflict with, and utter disregard of, the provisions of said Constitution :

And whereas it is the duty of this, and of every other State of the Union, to watch over and protect all, and especially the most valuable and sacred rights of the citizens thereof, with incessant and untiring vigilance, and ever to manifest a promptness and determination to assert and vindicate these rights in all lawful ways :

Therefore,

Resolved, That (the Senate concurring) the Legislature of this State do hereby most solemnly protest against the said law, so as aforesaid passed by the State of South-Carolina ; and that His Excellency the Governor of New-York be, and he is hereby requested to communicate forthwith upon this subject with His Excellency the Governor of South-Carolina, transmitting a copy of the foregoing preamble and of this resolution, and earnestly to request of said State the repeal of any and every provision of said law referred to, inconsistent with the spirit and principles of said preamble, at the earliest possible day.

Mr. T. R. Lee moved to lay the said resolution on the table.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. T. R. Lee, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Blake, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That this House will hereafter meet at four o'clock every afternoon (excepting Sundays), for the purpose of considering the proposed amendments to the Constitution, and unfinished business generally.

Mr. Hannum moved to lay the said resolution on the table.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Hannum, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Wheeler offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the railroad committee be permitted to visit and examine the Harlem railroad, for the purpose of ascertaining from personal examination if the same is judiciously built ; and that all expenses under this resolution shall be at the expense of the said company.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. J. Brooks asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act to amend the law providing for the erection of towns and counties;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

On motion of Mr. Sears,

Resolved, That the petition and papers of Charles J. Hill, referred to the committee on canals, be referred to the Canal Commissioners, requesting them to report on the same.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Oakley, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That on and after Monday next, this House hold an afternoon session from four to six o'clock, to be devoted to general orders.

Mr. Russell moved to amend the said resolution, so as to restrict afternoon sessions to Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Russell, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The question recurred on agreeing to the said resolution, as amended.

Debates were had thereon ; when,

The hour of twelve o'clock at noon having arrived, the Chair announced the special order of the House, being the consideration of the amendments to the Constitution, and of the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to enable resident aliens to hold and convey real estate."

The House then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the said amendments and bill ; and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Constant, from the said committee, reported progress on the said amendments, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

Mr. Constant, from the same committee, also reported progress on the said engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to enable resident aliens to hold and convey real estate," and asked for leave to sit again.

Mr. Worden moved to refer the said bill to a select committee, with instructions to report the same complete.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Worden, and it was determined in the affirmative.

New-York, March, 1845.

SIR,

The managers of the New-York Institution for the Blind, propose, for the purpose of placing before the Honorable the Senate and Assembly, the attainments of their pupils in science, music and the mechanic arts, to give an exhibition in their presence, and for that purpose most respectfully solicit the use of the Assembly chamber on Tuesday evening the eighteenth instant; in the confident hope that such exhibition will prove how much has already been done, and may hereafter be accomplished, in cultivating and expanding the mental powers of the Blind; in communicating to them such mechanical instruction as may enable them to supply their own wants; and thus most essentially to alleviate the appalling deprivation, under which, in the order of Providence, these children of misfortune suffer.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Most respectfully your obedient servant,

N. DEAN, on behalf of

Hon. HORATIO SEYMOUR, Speaker, &c.

Mr. Bailey offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the president, vice-president and secretary of the Long Island Railroad Company be requested to furnish to this House, under oath, without delay, replies to the following interrogations :

1. What is the amount of capital authorised in the acts relating to the Long Island Railroad Company ?

2. What is the number of shares issued to this date of Long Island Railroad Company, and the number of shares unissued in the hands of the company, and what is their par value ?

3. How many shares of the capital stock of the Long Island Railroad Company continue in the possession of the original subscribers to the same, and what are the names of the stockholders and the number of shares owned by each at the last and previous annual election of directors ; also the number of shares, and the names and residence of the stockholders, on the fourth day of March, 1845 ?

4. What number of shares and bonds, and the amount of each that have been issued in the purchase of steamboats, and to whom issued, the amount of purchase, and under what authority are they issued, to connect a ferry with the railroad company by a steamboat association ?

5. Did or did not about two thousand shares of the stock of the Long Island Railroad Company, which was forfeited, come into the hands of the said company ; if so, how much was paid by the original subscribers, and has the balance ever been paid in ; if so, by whom ? Has not the company since sold the forfeited stock ; if so, to whom, and at what prices, and at what times ?

6. Has the stock or bonds of the company been issued to contractors at prices under their par value ; or have enhanced prices for work been obtained by contractors, for taking in part this mode of payment ?

7. At what rate do the bonds of the Long Island Railroad Company now sell in the market ; and what is the lowest rate, within your knowledge, they have sold at ?

8. What is the amount, up to this date, of the last annual report of the Long Island Railroad Company, of the cash payments made to the contractors for the tunnel in Brooklyn, distinguishing between penalties imposed on the contractors on an alleged non-performance of contract, and the cash paid to them, or bonds, as the case may be ; how much is still due to the contractors at this date ; and how much retained as penalties, and charged as cash paid ?

9. What claims have been made on the Long Island Railroad Company, and suits commenced for work done ; and what damages, if any, are claimed, alleged to have been occasioned by the locomotives, for destroying and burning over timber lands ?

10. What claims, and by whom made on the Long Island Railroad Company, for damages to houses, streets and business on the same, alleged to have been incurred by the construction of the tunnel in Brooklyn?

11. What is the total indebtedness of the Long Island Railroad Company at the present time; the names of the creditors; and the amount due to each, and when payable?

12. Did the Long Island Railroad Company make their annual reports in due form of law, and under oath, to the Secretary of State, for the years 1844 and 1845? If not, state the reason why, and furnish the report for each year, in conformity to law and agreeable to resolutions passed by the Legislature, duly attested by the oaths of the proper officers.

13. Have not the directors (or a part of them) of the Long Island Railroad Company been very largely engaged in speculating in the stock of the company; and do they not, at this time, directly or indirectly own the majority of the stock; and has not new stock been issued and hypothecated to aid these stockjobbing operations?

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. Morris moved that the House do proceed to the consideration of the motion made by Mr. Chase on a previous day, to reconsider the vote on agreeing to the resolution offered by Mr. Morris; which said resolution is in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That it be referred to the Attorney General to report to this House, whether or not, in his opinion, an act authorising the New-York and Erie Railroad Company to construct any portion of their road in Pennsylvania, requires a vote of two-thirds of the members elected to this house; also in relation to relinquishing the State lien upon the said road.

Mr. Russell offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the South-Carolina resolutions offered by Mr. Van Schoonhoven, be referred to the same select committee.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. Van Schoonhoven moved that the House proceed to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by him, in the words following, to wit :

WHEREAS his Excellency the Governor of Massachusetts, in pursuance of resolutions passed by the Legislature of that Commonwealth, did, during the last year, with the advice and consent of the Council thereof, duly appoint and commission the Hon. Samuel Hoar, a citizen of said commonwealth, as an agent or commissioner on her part to proceed to and reside in the city of Charleston in the State of South-

Carolina, for the purpose of collecting and transmitting accurate information as to the number and names of citizens of Massachusetts who might theretofore have been or who might then be imprisoned in that city without the allegation of any crime, with full authority also on the part of said agent to bring and prosecute suits in behalf of any citizens who might be so imprisoned, at the expense of Massachusetts, for the purpose of having the legality of such imprisonment tried and determined in the Supreme Court of the United States : And whereas in pursuance of the purpose of such appointment, and in the prompt discharge of the official duties thus assigned to the Hon. Samuel Hoar, he did, in the month of November last, proceed to the city of Charleston, and immediately on his arrival communicate by letter to his Excellency the Governor of South-Carolina the fact of his appointment by the authorities of Massachusetts as agent for the purposes aforesaid, and of his presence in the city of Charleston for the discharge of such agency ; and his Excellency the Governor of South-Carolina was pleased thereupon to communicate by message with the Legislature of that State, then in session at Columbia, informing that Honorable Body of the arrival and commission of the Hon. Samuel Hoar, and submitting to them to determine upon the course of action most appropriate under the circumstances : And whereas the Honorable the Legislature of South-Carolina, on the reception of the message of his Excellency thus communicated, did, without delay, and with but a single dissenting voice, adopt and declare resolutions in the words following (or to the following effect), to wit :

Resolved, That the right to exclude from their territories seditious persons or others, whose presence may be dangerous to their peace, is essential to every independent State.

Resolved, That free negroes and persons of color are not citizens of the United States within the meaning of the Constitution, which confers upon the citizens of one State the privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

Resolved, That the emissary sent by the State of Massachusetts to the State of South-Carolina, with the avowed purpose of interfering with her institutions and disturbing her peace, is to be regarded in the character he has assumed, and to be treated accordingly.

Resolved, That his Excellency the Governor be requested to expel from our territory the said agent, after due notice to depart ; and that the Legislature will sustain the Executive authority in any measures it may adopt for the purpose aforesaid.

AND WHEREAS it was represented by the Hon. Samuel Hoar, in a communication addressed by him to the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and at his request presented to the Executive thereof, who transmitted the same to both branches of the Legislature of that State, bearing date December 20th, 1844, that the said Samuel Hoar, subsequent to the passage of said resolutions by the Legislature of South-Carolina, was peremptorily and forcibly obstructed in the execution of the duties of his agency above specified, by the authorities of Charleston ; threatened with personal violence by some of the residents of that city, in case he should remain therein to discharge said duties ; and finally expelled from and conducted out of said State, by many of her leading and distinguished citizens, against his will and in utter disregard of his protestations to the contrary, in defiance of the constitutional rights of himself and of the State he represented :

Therefore,

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That in the judgment of the Legislature of this State, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has sustained, in these proceedings on the part of the Legislature of the State of South-Carolina, and of the local authorities of Charleston, a very gross indignity, as well as a violation of her most sacred rights : The object and purpose of the agency established by Massachusetts, to wit, the liberation of her citizens from unlawful incarceration and servitude, and the vindication of the immunities and privileges of her people as guaranteed by the Federal Constitution, were not only consistent with every obligation and duty which she as a member of our National Confederacy might owe to South-Carolina and her sister States, but to secure the accomplishment of that object and purpose she was powerfully impelled by the highest considerations of duty to herself as well as the country at large ; and in the prosecution of her noble design, she clearly conducted her proceedings with all due respect to the dignity as well as the constitutional rights of South-Carolina.

Resolved, That the Legislature of this State regard the passage of any law conflicting with the plain and palpable provisions of the Constitution of the United States, and affecting the personal liberties as well as the commercial interests of all or either of the States of the Union, as at all times and particularly at the present day to be deprecated, and worthy to be rebuked by the public sentiment of the country : That in our judgment the provision of the act of the Legislature of South-Carolina, passed December 29th, 1835, prohibiting any free negro or person of color from entering that State on board any vessel as cook, steward or mariner, or in any other employment on board thereof, and authorizing the sheriff of any district of said State in whose harbor or port such vessel may arrive, to apprehend and incarcerate such free negro or colored person until such vessel shall be ready to proceed to sea, conflicts with and directly violates section second of article fourth of the Constitution of the United States, which declares that "the citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States ;" and also section eighth of article first of said Constitution, which empowers Congress "to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several States, and with Indian tribes : " That as a member of the American Confederacy, deeply interested in this matter, New-York is called upon to protest, and she hereby does most solemnly protest against the said law so as aforesaid enacted by South-Carolina ; declaring at the same time her deliberate conviction that the principles and proceedings held and adopted by the said State in this unpleasant and embarrassing controversy with Massachusetts, are utterly untenable and unjustifiable, as well as directly calculated to introduce and perpetuate discord and disorder among the States of the Union.

Resolved, That his Excellency the Governor of this State be requested forthwith to transmit copies of the foregoing preamble and resolution to his Excellency the Governor of Massachusetts, to his Excellency the Governor of South-Carolina, and also to the chief executive officers of the several States of the Union.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Van Schoonhoven, and it was determined in the negative.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Bailey, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the president, vice-president and secretary of the Long Island Railroad Company be requested to furnish to this House, under oath, without delay, replies to the following interrogations :

1. What is the amount of capital authorised in the acts relating to the Long Island Railroad Company?

2. What is the number of shares issued to this date of Long Island Railroad Company, and the number of shares unissued in the hands of the company, and what is their par value?

3. How many shares of the capital stock of the Long Island Railroad Company continue in the possession of the original subscribers to the same, and what are the names of the stockholders and the number of shares owned by each at the last and previous annual election of directors ; also the number of shares, and the names and residence of the stockholders, on the fourth day of March, 1845 ?

4. What number of shares and bonds, and the amount of each that have been issued in the purchase of steamboats, and to whom issued, the amount of purchase, and under what authority are they issued, to connect a ferry with the railroad company by a steamboat association ?

5. Did or did not about two thousand shares of the stock of the Long Island Railroad Company, which was forfeited, come into the hands of the said company ; if so, how much was paid by the original subscribers, and has the balance ever been paid in ; if so, by whom ? Has not the company since sold the forfeited stock ; if so, to whom, and at what prices, and at what times ?

6. Has the stock or bonds of the company been issued to contractors at prices under their par value ; or have enhanced prices for work been obtained by contractors, for taking in part this mode of payment ?

7. At what rate do the bonds of the Long Island Railroad Company now sell in the market ; and what is the lowest rate, within your knowledge, they have sold at ?

8. What is the amount, up to this date, of the last annual report of the Long Island Railroad Company, of the cash payments made to the contractors for the tunnel in Brooklyn, distinguishing between penalties imposed on the contractors on an alleged non-performance of contract, and the cash paid to them, or bonds, as the case may be ; how much is still due to the contractors at this date ; and how much retained as penalties, and charged as cash paid ?

9. What claims have been made on the Long Island Railroad Company, and suits commenced for work done ; and what damages, if any, are claimed, alleged to have been occasioned by the locomotives, for destroying and burning over timber lands ?

10. What claims, and by whom made on the Long Island Railroad Company, for damages to houses, streets and business on the same, alleged to have been incurred by the construction of the tunnel in Brooklyn ?

11. What is the total indebtedness of the Long Island Railroad Company at the present time ; the names of the creditors ; and the amount due to each, and when payable ?

12. Did the Long Island Railroad Company make their annual reports in due form of law, and under oath, to the Secretary of State, for the years 1844 and 1845 ? If not, state the reason why, and furnish the report for each year, in conformity to law and agreeable to resolutions passed by the Legislature, duly attested by the oaths of the proper officers.

13. Have not the directors (or a part of them) of the Long Island Railroad Company been very largely engaged in speculating in the stock of the company ; and do they not, at this time, directly or indirectly own the majority of the stock ; and has not new stock been issued and hypothecated to aid these stockjobbing operations ?

Mr. Bailey moved to refer the said resolution to a select committee.

Mr. Huntington moved to lay the said motion of Mr. Bailey on the table.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Huntington, and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Russell, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Chase, from the minority of the committee on the internal affairs of towns and counties, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the city of Utica, for an alteration of their charter, relative to the election of supervisors, reported favorably to the prayer of the petitioners, and asked leave to bring in a bill.

Leave being granted, Mr. Chase accordingly brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to authorise the election of one supervisor for each of the wards of the city of Utica," which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Chase, from the committee on the internal affairs of towns and counties, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Schenectady, praying for the passage of an act relative to collector's fees in the town of Glenville, reported favorably to the prayer of the petitioners, and asked leave to bring in a bill.

Leave being granted, Mr. Chase accordingly brought in the said bill, entitled "An act relative to collector's fees in the town of Glenville, Schenectady county, and for other purposes;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Comstock, from the committee on the judiciary, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Allegany, for the passage of an act making the cutting and carrying away of timber unlawful, a larceny, reported favorably to the prayer of the petitioners, and asked leave to bring in a bill.

Leave being granted, Mr. Comstock accordingly brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to punish the unlawful cutting and carrying away of timber;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Jones, from the committee on colleges, academies and common schools, to which was referred the bill entitled "An act for supplying the several school districts in this State with a copy of the Albany Cultivator," reported, that the committee had examined the said bill, and concluded to offer the following resolution, to wit :

Resolved, That the bill be rejected.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Comstock, from the committee on the judiciary, to which was referred the petition of the common council of the city of Utica, relative to the recorder's court in said city, reported favorably to the prayer of the petitioners, and asked leave to bring in a bill.

Leave being granted, Mr. Comstock accordingly brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to establish a recorder's court in the city of Utica, and for other purposes,' passed May 7th, 1844;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

By unanimous consent,

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Raymond, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That the bill reported to this House, relative to the town of Gardiner, and which, on motion of Mr. Hine, was laid on the table, be referred back to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, to report complete.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Van Valkenburgh, from the committee on railroads, to which was referred the resolution of inquiry offered by Mr. Bailey, concerning the Long Island Railroad Company, submitted a communication in writing from George W. Fisk, president of said company, relative to said inquiries ; which was read, and ordered to be laid on the table.

[ See Document No. 203. ]

Mr. Tefft, from the committee on claims, to which was referred the petition of John P. Yates, and the petition of Hubbard Burdick, for relief, offered the following resolution, to wit :

Resolved, That the committee on claims be discharged from the consideration of the petitions of John P. Yates and Hubbard Burdick, and that the same be referred to the Canal Board.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. S. Miller, from the committee on colleges, academies and common schools, to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the Schenectady Reference Library Company," reported, that the committee had examined the said bill, and saw no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. A. H. Buell, from the committee on banks and insurance companies, to which was referred the petition for an amendment of the charter of the Kings County Mutual Insurance Company, reported favorably to the prayer of the petitioners, and asked leave to bring in a bill.

Leave being granted, Mr. A. H. Buell accordingly brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Kings County Mutual Insurance Company,' passed April 1, 1844;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Hervey, from the committee on charitable and religious societies, to which was referred the petition of Sarah R. Ingraham and others, praying for the incorporation of the American Female Moral Reform Society, reported favorably to the prayer of the petitioners, and asked leave to bring in a bill.

Leave being granted, Mr. Hervey accordingly brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Female Moral Reform Society of the city of New-York;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

A message from the Governor was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Albany, March 22, 1845. }

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

I have this day approved and signed the bill entitled "An act to authorise and direct the holding of a special town meeting in the town of Laurens in the county of Otsego."

SILAS WRIGHT.

A communication from John H. Dayton was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

Sagharbor, March 17, 1845.

To the Hon. H. SEYMOUR,
Speaker of the Assembly.

SIR,

The state of my health admonishes me that it would be exceedingly imprudent for me to return to Albany. I shall therefore be obliged to resign my seat in the Legislature. In thus taking leave of the House, I beg to tender to its members my best wishes for their individual prosperity and happiness.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN H. DAYTON.

The engrossed bill entitled "An act to provide for the construction of a railroad from the navigable waters of the Great Western lakes to Lake Champlain," was read the third time.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that the Assembly have passed the same without amendment.

By unanimous consent,

Mr. Russell moved that the bill entitled "An act to amend the Revised Statutes, in relation to the enumeration of the inhabitants of this State," be read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Russell, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Whereupon,

The said bill was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the Clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

The hour of twelve o'clock at noon having arrived, the Chair announced the special order of the House, being the consideration of the amendments to the Constitution.

The House then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the amendments to the Constitution; and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and announced a message from the Senate.

A message from the Senate, with the bills therein mentioned, was received and read, informing that the Senate had passed the bill entitled "An act to confirm the official acts of Azel W. Danforth, supervisor of Philadelphia in the county of Jefferson;" and the bill entitled "An act authorising the New-York and Erie Railroad Company to construct a branch terminating at the village of Newburgh," and request the concurrence of the Assembly in the same.

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act to confirm the official acts of Azel W. Danforth, supervisor of Philadelphia in the county of Jefferson," on motion of Mr. Russell, was ordered to have its third reading; and the bill entitled "An act authorising the New-York and Erie Railroad Company to construct a branch terminating at the village of Newburgh," was referred to the committee on railroads.

By unanimous consent,

Mr. Comstock offered for the consideration of the House a resolution, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That it be referred to the select committee on constitutional amendments to inquire into the expediency of fixing a time for the termination of the debate in committee of the whole, on the several amendments to the Constitution, now in such committee, and to report by resolution or otherwise.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Jones gave notice that he would, at an early day, ask leave to introduce a bill relative to laying a tax on dogs in the county of Queens.

The hour of two o'clock having arrived,

The House took a recess until four o'clock this afternoon.

FOUR O'CLOCK P. M.

The House again met.

In pursuance of a special order,

The House then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act authorising the construction of a bridge across Hudson's river at the city of Albany," and on the bill entitled "An act to promote the education and moral improvement of minors engaged in the business of navigating the canals of this State;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Comstock, from the said committee, reported progress on the said bills severally, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to confirm the official acts of Azel W. Danforth, supervisor of Philadelphia in the county of Jefferson," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that the Assembly have passed the same without amendment.

Ordered, That the said bill be engrossed for a third reading.

Mr. A. H. Buell, from the committee on banks and insurance companies, to which was referred the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Mutual Insurance Company of Buffalo,' " with instructions to report the same complete, reported, that the committee had examined the said bill, and made sundry amendments thereto, and saw no reason why the said amended bill should not be passed into a law.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree with the committee in their report, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the said bill be engrossed for a third reading.

Mr. Chase, from the committee on the internal affairs of towns and counties, to which was referred the petition of the board of auditors of the town of Plattsburgh in the county of Clinton, for the passage of an act to abolish the office of trustee of gospel and school lands, reported the following resolution, to wit :

Resolved, That the committee on the internal affairs of towns and counties be discharged from the further consideration of the petition for the abolition of the office of trustee of gospel and school lands in the town of Plattsburgh, and that the same be referred to the committee on colleges, academies and common schools.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Carpenter, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that the committee had examined the bill entitled "An act to abolish the office of superintendent of the poor in and for the county of Tioga, and for other purposes ;" the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act relating to the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company,' passed May 7th, 1840 ;" and the bill entitled "An act to amend the charter of the Oneonta and Franklin Turnpike Company," and found the same severally correctly engrossed.

Ordered, That the said bills do have their third reading.

Mr. Comstock, from the select committee on the amendments to the Constitution, reported in part, and concluded by offering the following resolution, to wit :

Resolved, That the following amendment to the Constitution of this State be proposed, and referred to the next Legislature to be chosen ; and that the Secretary of State cause the same to be published in one newspaper in each of the counties of this State, if there be one printed therein, for three months previous to the next annual election, pursuant to the provisions of the eighth article of said Constitution :

It shall only be necessary that any proposed amendment or amendments to the Constitution of this State be agreed to in the second legislature to which the same shall have been referred, by a majority of all the members elected to each house ; and so much of the first section of the eighth article of said Constitution as is inconsistent with this amendment, is hereby abrogated.

On motion of Mr. Comstock,

Ordered, That the said amendment be referred to the committee of the whole when on the amendments from the Senate.

Mr. Comstock, from the select committee on the amendments to the Constitution, reported in part, and concluded by offering the following resolution, to wit :

Resolved, That the final question on the several proposed amendments to the Constitution, which have passed the Senate, and are now pending before this House, be taken on Wednesday next, immediately after the presentation of petitions.

Mr. De Puy moved to amend the said resolution, by striking out "Wednesday," and inserting "Thursday."

Mr. Sweeney moved to amend the said resolution, by inserting "Saturday of this week, at twelve o'clock at noon," instead of "Wednesday."

Debates were had thereon ; when

Mr. Kinne called for the previous question.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would second the call for the previous question, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question, "Shall the main question be now put?" and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. Worden moved to amend the said resolution, as follows, to wit :

After "Resolved," strike out the residue, and insert "That the resolution submitted by the select committee on constitutional amendments, be referred to the committee of eight, to whom was referred the bill submitting to the people the question of a convention, with instruction that said committee report the bill to-morrow, and also a resolution fixing the time for closing the debate on the constitutional amendments now under discussion."

Debates were had thereon ; when

Mr. Comstock moved to amend the said resolution reported by the select committee on the amendments to the Constitution, by inserting "Thursday" instead of "Wednesday."

Debates were again had ; when

Mr. T. R. Lee withdrew his said motion to recommit the said resolution to the select committee on the amendments to the Constitution.

Mr. Worden withdrew his amendment, and substituted the following :

Resolved, That the resolution now before the House be committed to the select committee of eight, to which was referred the bill providing for submitting to the people the question of a convention, with instructions to report the bill referred to that committee on Friday ; and also to report a resolution, fixing Thursday of next week for closing the debate, and taking the vote on the constitutional amendments now the special order for every day at twelve o'clock ; and that the select committee on amendments to the Constitution also be instructed to report a like bill referred to that committee, on Friday next.

Mr. T. R. Lee rose to a point of order, which he stated to be, that so much of the said resolution as relates to the subject of calling a convention, was irrelevant to the matter under consideration, and could not be entertained by the House.

The Chair decided that the entire resolution was in order.

The question recurred on agreeing to the said resolution.

Debates were had thereon ; when, the hour of two o'clock having arrived, the House took a recess until four o'clock this afternoon.

FOUR O'CLOCK P. M.

The House again met.

The question recurred on agreeing to the amendment offered by Mr. Worden, to the resolution reported by the select committee on amendments to the Constitution.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said amendment, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker then put the question whether the House would agree to the said resolution, as amended, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The House then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act for the relief of John I. Walrath," and on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of Claudius C. Coan;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Huntington, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the bill entitled "An act for the relief of John I. Walrath," and agreed to the same without amendment; which report was agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

Mr. Huntington, from the same committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of Claudius C. Coan," and agreed to the same without amendment; which report was agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to have its third reading.

The House then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act authorising the construction of a bridge across Hudson's river at the city of Albany," and on the bill entitled "An act to promote the education and moral improvement of minors engaged in the business of navigating the canals of this State;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Comstock, from the said committee, reported progress on the said bills severally, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The House then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act authorising a loan from the Common School Fund to the county of Jefferson, to defray expenses of building a bridge across the Black river at Watertown;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Bevens, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which report was agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

A message from the Senate, with the bill therein mentioned, was received and read, informing that the Senate had passed the bill entitled "An act in relation to the receiver of the Farmers' Bank of Orleans," and request the concurrence of the Assembly in the same.

The said bill was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time.

Mr. Coe moved that the said bill be ordered to have its third reading.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the House would agree to the said motion of Mr. Coe, and it was determined in the affirmative.

A message from the Senate, with the bill therein mentioned, was received and read, informing that the Senate had passed the bill entitled "An act to erect the town of Gilboa," and request the concurrence of the Assembly in the same.

The said bill was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

A message from the Governor was received and read, in the words following, to wit :

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Albany, April 1, 1845. }

• TO THE ASSEMBLY.

SILAS WRIGHT.
